An Italian spokesman said yesterday Italy would reject any Yugoslav renewal of her offer to barter her claims to Trieste for Gorizia. Yugoslavia first suggested the trade in November, 1946.

No Specific Proposal

The Yugoslav spokesman said last night Foreign Minister Stooje Simic did not intend to advance any specific proposal when he told reporters Monday that Yugoslavia is ready to seek a compromise on Trieste through mutual efforts.

In Milan, police used tear gas last night as communists and pro-government sympathizers clashed for the third straight day.

Roars of "Via la Guerre war" were reported from one mass demonstration in the Piazza Piemonte.

A number of persons were hurt, most of them slightly.

Thousands of milling demonstrators filled Milan's Piazza Del Duomo (Cathedral Square). Police headquarters nearby presented a warlike scene, with barbed wire barricades blocking street approaches.

Steel-helmeted police with field equipment were stationed strategically. Jeeps and trucks with armed police patrolled the area.

Favorably Disposed

It was reliably reported in Rome that the United States is "favorably disposed" toward accepting the return to Italy of her pre-Fascist colonies in Africa. An official announcement may be expected shortly, it was added.

France and Russia already have agreed to the idea. Britain's position is not yet known.

Tension over Trieste was reflected last night with the disclosure that the border between the British - American and Yugoslav zones had been reinforced by fresh detachments of British military police.

Light Pick-Up Truck Demolished When Hit by Train

Windsor, Ont., March 24 (CP)—Strange coincidence marked a train wreck here this morning.

One man was injured and a second leaped to safety when a fast Windsor-bound passenger train demolished a light pick-up truck at a Canadian Pacific Railway road crossing.

Edward Ouellette, 25, Puce, Ont., driver of the truck suffered head injuries and received numerous abrasions and cuts. His father, Charles Ouellette, 44, escaped when he jumped seconds before the collision.

Last November 5 at the same crossing Arsene Ouellette, 22, received fatal injuries, his brother Alphonso, 20, and a cousin Eugene, 17, stustained lesser injuries when a car in which they were riding was struck by the same passenger train at almost the identical time. In the November crash Albert Garant, 30, and Edward Riley both of Puce were killed.

Alphonso and Arsene are nephews of Charles Ouellette involved in today's accident and Eugene is a son.

Eugene was supposed to ride into town with his brother and father today but at the last minute changed his mind.

John Steinbauer, R.R. 1 Tecumseh, Ont., who was an eye witness to the fatal crash in November stated that he heard the train whistle blowing this morning and then heard a terrific crash.

Move to End P.E.I. Prohibition Tops Activities

By The Canadian Press

A step towards enabling residents of Prince Edward Island to buy liquor without a doctor's prescription was taken yesterday in legislature at Charlottetown.

The House approved a "stringent temperance act" to replace the island province's nominal prohibition law. The measure will go into effect if authorized by a plebiscite next June. It will provide for one purchase a week on the same basis now legal under the prescription system of sales.

Saskatchewan Lieutenant-Governor R. J. M. Parker died suddenly in Regina and Dr. J. M. Uhrich, 70, of Regina, was appointed as his successor. Dr. Uhrich is a former Liberal Minister of Public Health for Saskatchewan.

These two developments topped a day during which most provincial houses drove toward prorogation or Easter recess.

Throne Speech debate ended at Halifax and Premier Angus L. Macdonald, who also is Provincial Treasurer, announced he will bring down the Nova Scotia public accounts at today's sitting.

The Quebec Legislative Assembly concluded discussion of estimates for the Attorney-General's Department amounting to $4,049,000, approved $900,000 credits for the Fisheries Department and credits of $882,600 for wildlife administration.

Rate of Levy The Same

A bill to enable Ontario to take over amusement taxation when the present federal tax is removed was introduced at Toronto. The rate of the levy will remain at 20 per cent and the funds raised will be used to help hospitals in the province meet deficits. The House, which adjourns tomorrow for Easter recess, adopted the Throne Speech.

The death of the Lieutenant-Governor led the Saskatchewan Legislature to suspend its afternoon sitting as a mark of respect.

The British Columbia government was urged to take over strikebound mines on Vancouver Island unless settlement of the two-month-old strike is reached soon.

A special house committee on the elections act rejected 5-2 opposition leader Horold Winch's efforts to enfranchise all Canadian citizens who have been in British Columbia six months. The section of the act Mr. Winch would have deleted now disqualifies every Japanese, Doukhobor, Hutterite or Mennonite unless they are veterans.

Boy Saves Money For Plane Trip

London, March 24, (CP)—Eleven-year-old John O'Connor of Birmingham is en route by plane today to join his parents in Toronto — and he's paying for the trip himself.

Long ago John expressed a wish to visit Canada but his grandmother, Mrs. Margaret grandmother, Mrs. Margaret Proctor, told him jokingly: "You'll have to save a lot of money."

Every week John saved pennies and shillings and last night boarded a plane with £10 ($40) in his pocket and the ticket he had bought himself.

John parents went to Toronto last year from England and said they would send for their son later.

To Broadcast Bach Passion In Entirety

By JACK McNEIL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Radio history will be made in North America when Bach's St. Matthew Passion is presented over the CBC Trans-Canada network this Wednesday evening. This majestic work—which had to be cut slightly to bring it within the scope of an unprecedented three-hour broadcast—has never been heard before in its entirety by radio audiences on this continent.

The famous oratorio will be performed by the Toronto Mendelssohn Choir of more than 200 voices, a symphony orchestra, an organ and four soloists, all under the direction of Sir Ernest MacMillan. The soloists will be Phillip MacGregor, bass, from Cleveland, Ohio; and three Toronto singers; William Morton, tenor; Lois Marshall, soprano, and Nellie Smith, contralto.

The St. Matthew Passion is the story of the last days of Christ and His death as related in the Gospels, set to music. Written by Bach in 1729 for the Good Friday services at St. Thomas church, Leipzig—where it was performed annually throughout the 18th century—it fell into obscurity for generations.

Told in a series of dramatic episodes, the narrative is interrupted by meditations—in aria or choral verse—at the conclusion of each scene or episode. Bach separated the words of Christ from the other parts of the cantata by the device of a distinctive accompaniment.

The dramatized story of events leading to the first presentation of the Passion, prepared by the Montreal writer Stephen Brott, and a commentary by Thomas Archer, music critic of the Montreal Gazette will precede the broadcast.

Studied by Moonlight

Many of the incidents of Bach's life hardly need dramatization: they are full of human interest. His parents died when he was 10 years old, leaving him in the charge of an older brother, Christophe, an organist who taught the boy music. Christophe became so jealous of the young prodigy's amazing talent that he forbade him to study a collection of organ compositions by great masters.

Every night for six months, Sebastian removed the book through the lattice door of the bookcase in which it was kept and copied the entire work by moonlight in his room. When he finished his brother found the copy and took it away from him.

Some historians believe that this feat caused the failure of eyesight which, late in life, made him seek and operation. The operation resulted in total blindness, and some of the remedies used during it are thought to have hastened his death by apoplexy.

Ironical also is the fact that when Bach died he was revered as one of the greatest organists and clavier player of his time. No one, apparently, thought of him as an immortal composer. Although his masterpieces were referred to by scholars and studied as models by other composers — including Haydn, Mozart and Beethoven — they were all but unknown until their "discovery" and popularization by Mendelssohn. The St. Matthew passion was one of the works unearthed by the youthful Mendelssohn: it was revived just 100 years after its original performance at Leipzig.

Picks Apples From Tree in March

Stratford, March 23 —(CP)— Miss Dora Dempsey believes she has set a new record by picking apples from a tree in March. An apple tree on the Dempsey farm in Ellice township was blown over by wind last autumn, before the apples were picked and winter snows protected the fruit from frost. This week, when the snow had vanished, Miss Dempsey picked apples from the tree. They were as solid as if picked at regular harvest season.

Alberta Farms Have Highest Average Income

Ottawa—Total estimated cash income from the sale of farm products in Canada during 1947 was $2,002,195,000, according to the latest report of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. This establishes an all-time record. The prewar high was $1,064,200,000 in 1928. In the "thirties" the low was in 1932 at $383,700,000. The high during the war years was 1944 at just under the two billion mark.

The total of $2,002 millions for 1947 averages out at $2,730 per farm in Canada based on the 1941 census of the total number of farms. On the same basis, the income would average out per province per farm as follows:

	Average per Farm.
P. E. I.	$1500
Nova Scotia	1030
New Brunswick	1200
Quebec	1890
Ontario	3000
Manitoba	3200
Saskatchewan	3200

COMMONS CLEARS

The bulk-purchasing of foodstuffs measure went through the Commons after Agriculture Minister Gardiner emphasized that there was "no doubt whatsoever" that Britain would be able to take and pay for all the quantities of commodities for which she had negotiated. They include bacon, beef, cheese and eggs.

Mr. Gardiner said something had happened yesterday which made "it absolutely certain, if it were not certain before, that this food will all be paid for throughout the year."

Informed Britain Can Pay

Outside the House, informed sources said they thought it likely that this indicated Britain had assured Canada she could pay for the food between the time present financial arrangements end March 31 and the Marshall Plan begins operating. The time lag, if there is one, may cover only a few days.

Mr. Abbott gave no inkling of when the emergency import program would be relaxed or eliminated as the House completed study of the excise tax resolution. Mr. Abbott reported "a marked downward trend" in sales of motor cars by the three leading Canadian manufacturers had dropped from $14,584,000 in December to $8,970,000 in February. Radios had gone down from $1,990,000 in December to $714,000,000.

Remove Flax Ceiling

Final attacks against the bill came from John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, and some of his supporters. Mr. Bracken charged that the government was using its powers to depress prices rather than support them.

John Charlton (PC-Brant) said the farmers wanted boards that would enable them to market their own products without government interference.

Trade Minister Howe announced that next Aug. 1 the government will remove its $5-a-bushel ceiling on flax and initiate a $4-a-bushel support price to be paid only if the market drops to that level. Demand for flax was lessened.

Questioners failed to get a hint from Mr. Abbott as to when he would bring down the budget. In the film board discussion, Mr. Coldwell urged an increase rather than a reduction in N.F.B. operations. It gave Canada a world audience of 70,000,000 persons annually.

Mr. Coldwell regretted closing of an N.F.B. office in Australia and curtailment of the offices in the United States and Britain, as well as in board activities at home. He said working conditions in the board's Ottawa offices were a "disgrace."

Injuring Relations Claim

Mr. Fraser said bad N. F. B. films were injuring Canadian trade relations abroad. After seeing several of them, he didn't think some of its cameramen knew much about light. One of the visit of former Trade Minister MacKinnon to South Africa must have been made "by the rankest amateur."

Mr. Fraser said the Board's salary total was $1,500,000 out of a budget of $2,200,000. It also had travelling expenses of $3,000.

He was in favor of films for education and to advertise Canada. But they should be of the right kind, "not some of these frizzy pictures the Board puts out."

Julian Ferguson (PC-Simcoe North) said Mr. Coldwell wanted to establish a "glorified Hollywood" in Canada to add to the tax burden.

Mr. Bentley followed Hazen Argue (CCF-Wood Mountain) in his argument for better treatment for farmers on their income tax.

Mr. Argue said most farmers found it impossible to keep an adequate record of accounts and the government was expecting too much in asking them to fill out complicated forms.

Joseph Meinzinger Throws Support Behind Drew Govt.

Toronto, March 24 (CP) — Joseph Meinzinger, elected to the Ontario legislature on a Liberal-Labor ticket for Waterloo North in 1943, said yesterday he was foresaking the Liberals to throw his support behind the Progressive-Conservative government.

Mr. Meinzinger said he is prepared to take a seat among the government benches in the Ontario legislature if Premier Drew will offer him one.

First indication of his new feelings was when he voted with the government on all opposition amendments to the Throne Speech.

"I've seen the light," he called across the legislative chamber during one vote.

Each time he rose to vote with the Progressive-Conservatives he received a thumping ovation from government benches.

He supported the government despite the fact that he criticized it strongly during his speech in the Throne debate.

Outside the House yesterday he said "what I've seen is that the Drew government is doing a good job and a conscientious job."

"I'm still an independent. I was elected as an independent Liberal-Labor. Once I was a Conservative. But my interests are with the working man and I think this government is doing a good job for them.

"I think the working people of my riding will support me. It doesn't matter what platform I run on because the people in my riding know the job I am trying to do for them."

DREW'S PROGRAM

The C.C.F. sub-amendment regretted what it described as inadequate labor legislation, insubstantial housing program, lack of health and welfare planning and failure to recognize "need for comprehensive planning and broad measures of social ownership."

The L. P. P. sub-amendment, supported by C.C.F. and Liberals regretted failure "to make available to all old age pensioners the $10 monthly supplement now being paid to a restricted number of Ontario's aged pensioners."

Alex Parent (Ind-Essex North) supported the resolution. Mr. Meinzinger, James Newman (Lib.-Labor-Rainy River) and William A. Murray (Lib.-Stormont) sided with the government on the amendment.

Liberal Leader Heard

Speaking on the Liberal amendment, opposition leader Farquhar Oliver reiterated previous contention that the Drew government should have proceeded with development of the upper Ottawa River in 1943 when it first came into power.

He recalled that Hon. George Challies, vice-chairman of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission, had said in the legislature that the former Liberal government had been responsible for the overall power shortage and that low water levels were the cause of the specific shortage this winter.

Mr. Challies' assertions, he said, are completely at variance with statements of commission members who declared the situation would be worse in 1949 and 1950. Surely, Mr. Oliver said, weather conditions could not be predicted a year ahead. Thus, there must be other reasons for predicting the shortage for next year.

"In 1943 Ontario was drawing power considerably in excess of what was contained in the original contracts" with Quebec companies, Mr. Oliver said.

Therefore, he added, the cancellation of contracts with those companies in 1935—only to be renewed within 18 months—cannot be the cause of the present power crisis.

Against C. C. F. Amendment

On the C.C.F. amendment, Mr. Oliver said their criticism of the government housing program was premature in that the plans had not yet been presented to the legislature.

Mr. Oliver added that his party does not believe in "wide application of the principles of social ownership." The Liberals believed the government should govern, not run the business of the province.

Premier Drew described Mr. Oliver's remarks on power as a "repetition of inaccuracies."

He said there were two things responsible directly for the power shortage: A demand for power above the amount available; and a decrease in supply due to low water levels in both Ontario and Quebec.

Drew Blames Liberals

He again blamed the Liberal administration of Premier Hepburn for the shortage, stating that it was the "most unbusinesslike management this province has had since confederation. . . ."

He said the reason the Upper Ottawa River development was delayed until 1946 was that the province could not get priorities for men and materials from the Dominion to the extent that it wanted.

Right today, Premier Drew said, the Power Commission can't get all that it needs.

Premier Drew expressed surprise at the C.C.F. criticism of its labor legislation. He said the C. C. F. had always asked for uniform national labor code. Now that the Ontario government had taken steps to implement the Dominion code, he could not understand the C.C.F. sub-amendment.

Two Aussie Tipplers Down Thousands Of Gallons of Beer in Frothy Bout

By LESLIE BRODIE
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Sydney, Australia, (CP)—Two young men wandered into a hotel bar in North Sydney on January 1, 1912, and ordered beers.

Since that day 36 years ago the youths, Rowley Collins, now 59, and Stan Warren, 63, have repeated the order more than 72,000 times from the same spot.

Collins told a reporter that it all started over an argument early in 1912 on the amount of beer a man could drink in a lifetime.

Collins estimated that he would drink about 120,000 pints before he died. The crowd laughed and the two men decided to test their estimate by keeping count of the number of pints they had in the hotel.

At their steady average rate of consumption of 5 1-2 pints a day over the past 36 years it will take them another 24 years to reach their target.

"When we each get through our next 6,000 gallons (48,000 pints) to reach our target I'll be only 83, and Stan 87," Collins told the reporter.

"If we feel then as we do now, we'll make our target 160,000 pints each."

The Sydney Sunday Telegraph went into figures relating to the two men's phenomenal drinking and arrived at the following conclusions:

To drink 120,000 pints each it will take them 60 years at their average rate of consumption. Drinking leisurely, says the Telegraph, Rowley (Rollins) lifts and replaces his glass five times and takes four swallows to each lift.

1,440,000 Swallows

He has lifted his glass 360,000 times for 1,440,000 swallows and will lift it another 240,000 times for a further 960,000 swallows for a grand total of 600,000 lifts for 2,400,000 swallows.

Stan is a slower drinker and takes a few more swallows. He already has some 432,000 lifts and 2,160,000 swallows and will finish up with around 720,000 for 3,600,000.

Their place at the bar counter is indicated by two brass plates bearing their names.

The Sunday Telegraph adds these final figures to indicate the distances they lift their glasses from the counter to their mouths and the return to the counter.

Both stand close to the counter and the beer travels two feet each lift and two feet back again to the counter, which gives Rowley a distance of 272.6 miles in lifting and setting down his glass, and Stan 327.2 miles. Before they have finished, the two weather-beaten little boat builders will have a grand total of distance in lift, etc. of 454.4 miles in the case of Rowley, and 546.4 miles in the case of Stan.

Both men claim to have been heavy drinkers "before they settled down to the quiet few at the local."

Friendly Advice Factor in Ending Marital Troubles

By J. C. GRAHAM
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Auckland, N.Z., (CP)—Great success is being achieved in New Zealand by conciliators set up under the Domestic Proceedings Act eight years ago to attempt reconciliations between couples contemplating divorce.

Although the conciliators have rooms in the magistrate's courts in the chief cities, there is nothing of the courtroom atmosphere about their operations. Conciliators usually write a friendly note to the parties when separation proceedings are filed asking the couple to come and talk things over... They seldom meet with an outright refusal.

Lawyers are barred from proceedings before the conciliator and he treats anything that occurs before him as confidential to himself and the couple involved. In such an atmosphere grievances are often overcome.

Some conciliators claim that in more than 50 per cent of cases before them legal proceedings have been dropped and undertakings given to make a new start.

Conciliators come from varying walks of life. The conciliator in Auskland is J. B. Paterson, a 74-year-old former shipping manager with many years of service on local bodies behind him. In Wellington the position is filled by Rev. Harry Squires, young Anglican missioner. An understanding of human nature has been found a better qualification for the past than any legal or academic training.

Need Auxiliary Help

Some of the conciliators have found, however, that quite a large proportion of the cases come before them when it is too late to bring any real reconciliation and they favor the creation of auxiliary bodies to give help at an earlier stage in marital disagreements.

To meet this need marriage guidance councils have been formed in several cities on the lines of those operating in Britain. Young couples meeting difficulties in their marriages are being urged to come to these councils for advice before their disagreements become acute. The councils have a panel of experts, including doctors, and trained psychologists, to call on in dealing with special cases.

Returns show that a very large proportion of the marital failures in New Zealand occur in the first ten years of married life. Of all divorce petitions filed 72 per cent of the parties have been married less than ten years. There is no living issue in 50 per cent of the cases and only 17 per cent of those filing petitions have three or more children.

Mr. Squires says that in his experience of cases which have come before him, the second year of marriage is by far the most dangerous period. "The novelty has worn off by then," he said.

ELECTROCUTING WHALES?

Montreal — (CP) — Electrocuting whales instead of shooting them with harpoons was advocated by Dr. Harry R. Little, Scottish surgeon who served on an Antarctic whaling expedition before a group of McGill University students. Harpooning is needlessly cruel and causes a loss of thousands of tons of badly needed whale meat annually, he said.

High Markup Of Butter Caused Dealers Concern

Ottawa, March 24 — (CP) — Gordon McLean, secretary-treasurer of Lovell and Christmas — (Canadian), Ltd., told the Commons price committee yesterday that the Montreal firm of butter dealers had been "concerned" about its high markup on butter in recent months.

Mr. McLean made this statement under questioning by R. H. Winters (L — Queens - Lunenburg). However, he agreed with Mr. Winters that the company had not taken action to reduce its prices.

Mr. McLean and John Freeman, president of the company—wholly-owned subsidiary of a British firm — objected when committee members asked for its balance sheet, though they agreed to produce some excerpts from it.

The committee did not decide whether or not it would demand full details, but Health Minister Martin, chairman, reminded them the committee could send its own auditors into the company at any time.

In response to questioning by Mr. Martin as to whether the company was withholding butter from the public, Mr. McLean said it was not withholding any from its own customers.

The committee next called William R. Aird, president of Dominion Dairies, Ltd., which distributed butter in Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa and several smaller Ontario and Quebec communities. The company both buys and manufactures butter.

Figures presented by Mr. Aird showed that the company, which has 100,000 customers, made 1.31 cents a pound on all its butter operations in the nine months up to last Dec. 31.

For the previous four fiscal years, the company had suffered losses on its butter operations.

Asked for his opinion on what caused last year's rise in butter prices, Mr. Aird said one factor had been increased prices for milk both for fluid sale and for other manufacturing purposes.

Committee counsel Fabio Monet asked who had "benefited mostly" from the rise.

"In the first instance, the producer," Mr. Aird replied. "Then we benefited. And the consumer did, to the extent that he got more butter."

Road and Rail Communications Back to Normal

London, Ont., March 24 (CP)—Road and rail communications were nearly back to normal today as floods from swollen rivers receded leaving damage unofficially estimated at $10,000,000 in western Ontario.

Train service into Wingham was restored and the highways department reported all highways open except that between Bluevale and Listowel.

Wingham saw its first train since Friday when the Canadian National Railways yesterday began a cross-country taxi service bringing one train a day into the town's north-end. Transfer of passengers to another train in the south sector of the town was accomplished by taxis.

C.N.R. workmen, striving to repair bridges in the Huron county town, ran into more difficulties yesterday when another column supporting the main trestle spanning the Maitland River was washed away. A second rail bridge is also out of action.

The Canadian Pacific Railway also started construction on a new bridge to replace the one swept away by the flood last Saturday. The bridge can be completed in two months, C.P.R. officials estimated. Repairs to the C.N.R. bridge are estimated to require 28 days.

Flood threats disappeared today in Chatham when that city passed through its flood peak without any Thames River water spilling into the town. No damage was reported at Thamesville, where the No. 2 highway was opened yesterday, after three feet of water subsided.

Suspend Order For Disposal Of Air Properties

Ottawa, March 24 (CP)— Defence Minister Claxton disclosed to the Commons yesterday that several weeks ago he issued instructions that steps being taken for disposal of surplus military naval and air properties be suspended while the question was being reconsidered.

He was replying to a question from G. H. Stokes (PC-Hastings South) regarding the airport at Deseronto.

The minister said that this airfield had been declared surplus sometime ago and "I think procedure was being entered into for its disposal."

However, the suspension order has temporarily at least stopped the disposal of the Deseronto airfield along with other armed services surpluses.

It is understood that the instruction was issued before the current crisis in world affairs but is nevertheless interpreted here as a mild precautionary measure in event of an emergency arising.

Calgary, March 24 (CP) — Canada's finest figure skaters, including World and Olympic Champion Barbara Ann Scott of Ottawa, today donned their skates for final practice sessions as they strive to perfect the form that they hope will earn them top laurels in the Dominion Championships opening here tomorrow.

Following the lead of the pretty Ottawa skating queen, majority of the 40-odd skaters were scheduled to concentrate on the difficult compulsory figures—opening event of the two-day competition.

Miss Scott again was expected to follow her schedule yesterday when she spent the major portion of a stiff-hour workout on the figures and then wound up with a brief display on free skating. She only left the ice after her physician had ordered a complete rest for the remainder of the day

Also practising figures were Wally Distelmeyer and his partner attractive Suzanne Morrow, both of Toronto, who placed third in the Olympic pairs events.

Four-time winner of the Ottawa Junior Skating Championship, 17-year-old Pierette Paquin of the Minto Club—Barbara Ann's home club—spent several minutes on one particularly difficult one-foot figure before going on to the next. Miss Paquin is entered in both Senior and Junior events.

Little Jeanne Matthews of Vancouver, Western Canada Women's Champion, was the centre of considerable attention from spectators as she went through her routines under the watchful eye of Trainer Otto Gould. Miss Mathews, Miss Morrow and defending Champion Marilyn Ruth Take of Toronto are expected to prove the main opposition for Miss Scott, who did not compete last year.

Ottawa Senators Senior Finalists

(By The Canadian Press)

Ottawa Senators last night defeated Shawinigan Falls Cataracts 8-3 to win the best-of-seven Quebec Senior Hockey League semi-final series. Senators took the series 4-3 and now will meet Quebec Aces in the finals.

Victoriaville Tigers blanked Sherbrooke St. Francis 2-0 in the first game of their best-of-seven Provincial Hockey League final round.

Ottawa scored decisive victory after a hard battle in which the Cataracts came from behind three times to tie the series. Connie Tudin was the big gun in the Ottawa victory by firing four goals, all in the final frame. George Greene notched a pair while Alec Smart and Bobby Copp had one each. Cataracts' scorers were Phil Maloney, Jim Carthy and Ralph Buchanan.

Eddie Vigneau was the first Victoriaville marksman when he connected in the opening period. Kelly Burnett scored the other marker in the third frame.

Ottawa Senators and Quebec Aces will meet at Ottawa Friday in the opening game of a best-of-seven series for the Q.S.H.L. championship.

Three Teams Will Play Round-Robin Series for Title

Toronto, March 24. (CP)—The Ontario Hockey Association Junior B championship will be decided in a round-robin series, it was announced yesterday.

Taking part are St. Michael's College Buzzers, Hamilton Aerovox and either Kingston Vics or Upper Canada College, depending on the outcome of their best-of-three series which the College crew now lead 1-0. The round-robin opens tonight with St. Michael's at Hamilton Aerovax.

The three teams will play home-and-home games against each other on the basis of two points for a victory and one point for a tie. The two squads finishing with the highest points will then meet in a best-of-five series for the title.

Hamilton Tigers Want to Continue With Big Four

Ottawa, March 24 — (CP) — In the spring a young man's fancy turns to love — or football.

There wasn't much love shown on the first day of spring — Mar. 21 — when Hamilton Tigers, angered when they failed to achieve a desired financial split on away-from-home games, stomped out of the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union.

It was a set-up for Hamilton Wildcats of the Ontario Rugby Football Union to graduate to senior company. They drew big crowds last year and could do it again in the Big Four.

Again it may be that unpredictable spring weather, but the Tigers' love for football has engendered a change of heart. They may be back, begging forgiveness.

On the eve of a Big Four executive meeting in Toronto at which an application from Wildcats is scheduled to be considered, Jack McGill, Tiger executive, appeared in Ottawa and confessed that Hamilton had changed their minds. They are willing to continue in the Big Four, if the league is willing.

Filchock Coming Back

Nobody is going out on a limb, but a report that Frank Filchock, Tigers' triple-threat United States import, is coming back to Hamilton to accept a job, may have some influence.

It also means that a Big Six, instead of a Big Four, is in the making — if the Tigers can obtain a satisfactory financial arrangement. A meeting of the executive at Toronto tonight will decide the issue.

Besides the Wildcat application, it is understood Toronto Indians, another O. R. F. U. entry, has applied for a berth in the I.R.F.U.

It's no secret that most O. R. F. U. teams lost money last year and a solid I. R. F. U. entry might solve financial difficulties. In addition, Ottawa Trojans, have decided to amalgamate with Ottawa Rough Riders. Any way you look at it the O. R. F. U. is due for reorganization.

Enlargement of the Big Four has been sought for years, but has never been realized. Montreal Alouettes' threats to leave the league also might be nullified by a larger union. With more teams — and variety — gate receipts might be boosted to keep all entrants out of the red.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON Jr.

New York, March 24 — (AP)— Big project on the book for the United States Basketball Coaches Association is the filming of a movie that will show approved rules interpretations "on which we all agree." The title probably will be "The Unfinished Movie." There still aren't too many signs of agreement . . . Doug Mills, reporting on the big nine's experiment with allowing cage coaches to talk to their players during time outs, claims the only complaint is that the coaches can't think of what to say . . . Similarly, Colgate's Karl Lawrence, describing his elaborate coaching charts, warned his colleagues: — "Don't get so mixed up in statistics that you forget to coach."

It Snow Fun

The break-up of a hard winter prompted Alden Calkins, who beats the drums for the Hambletonian, to check up on whether horses trained in the sunny south or snowy north have been more successful in the August trotting classic . . . While southern training is beneficial in preparing for early racing in California, the results don't prove much . . . it may be that the late Walter Cox, who always did his training at Goshen, N. Y., was right in his theory that the stables shipped south not so much for the horses as for the comfort of the trainers.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

BY GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

Northern Ontario clashes with the "Banana Belt" on two hockey fronts tomorrow night when senior and junior champions meet in the next round of the Allan and Memorial Cup playoffs. Hamilton Tigers, OHA senior luminaries open their best-of-seven series with the Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds, northern winners in Hamilton. In the beardless division, Barrie Flyers, cream of the Southern Ontario junior "A" crop tangle with the Porcupine Combines at the McIntyre rink in Timmins.

• • •

George Panter, OHA prexy has announced that the senior series has been cut to three games because of the lateness of the season. The winner meets the Ottawa district-Maritime champion in the next round starting April 1. The junior winner opens the following round of the playoffs with the Quebec-Ottawa-Maritime champion starting April 5. The seniors meet at Hamilton, tomorrow, March 25 back in Toronto March 27, and at the Soo (Michigan) March 29. The juniors tangle at McIntyre March 25 and 27 and in Toronto, March 29, 31 and April 3.

• • •

There has been quite a bit of controversy based mainly through ignorance of the rules on the part of a number of fans around here anent the "slow whistle." Referees and linesmen officiating in the Memorial Arena here for the past season have been the targets of vitriolic verbal barbs from the yaps of rinkside referees, so perhaps the following taken from the Chicago Black Hawk program may clear up some things, and interpret a much-misunderstood rule.

• • •

The fans see a team sweep down the ice on the attack with one member obviously offside as he crosses the blue line into the attacking zone ahead of the puck carrier. But the referee does not immediately blow his whistle. He watches the play closely and, to the fan it seems as though he waits a minute before making up his mind to blow it.

• • •

Actually the referee is trying not to penalize the defending team. Next time such a play sweeps into your team's defence zone and you are on your feet calling the referee "a thief" watch and see if your team hasn't broken up the play and is away on the attack. If the referee blows a "quick whistle" on these plays an alert defenceman who braks up the play as it enters the defending zone and has an open break up the ice loses his chance to capitalize on this opportunity.

• • •

Have you evre seen a defending player commit a foul and the referee point at him but not blow his whistle until the attacking team loses the puck? Here again you have the slow whistle and the reason is quite obvious. The defending team would be gaining an advantage if the play was stopped to put a man off the ice when the attacking team still has a chance to score. Therefore the referee uses the "slow whistle" points at the culprit to indicate he is aware of the fact that a penalty should be awarded and the minute the attacking team loses the puck he stops play and sends the guilty party to the penalty box.

• • •

This should clear up a few mysteries as to why it takes the referee so long to blow his whistle, or in some cases, he doesn't blow it at all.

President Ken Waters of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association has announced the conditions which will govern the award to be made to the person or persons making an outstanding contribution to minor hockey. The purpose of the award is to encourage hockey men and other sportsmen to contribute to the welfare of minor hockey in Ontario by recognizing each year some person or group of persons, club or association, who, in the opinion of the OMHA have made an outstanding contribution to minor hockey.

• • •

The award, according to Secretary Jack Christie, of the OMHA, shall be in the form of a suitable trophy to be held by the winner for one year. A suitable replica will be presented to the annual winner for permanent possession. Any club, association or executive member of the OMHA may submit nominations for the award. The presentation will be made to the winner at the OMHA luncheon following each annual meeting. The first winner will be announced and presentation made following the fifteenth annual meeting of the OMHA to be held in Toronto, Saturday, November 27th, 1948.

• • •

While a rather detailed account of the testimonial dinner given Phil and Mrs. Marchildon by their fellow townsmen at Penetang has appeared, there were one or two little stories told there which might interest fans.

• • •

Mayor Bill Thompson came up with a pretty good one, as he usually does at such affairs. Trouble is we aren't able to print all of them, our supply of asbestos paper being limited. This one concerned our hero, Phil, who, said Bill, had gone from the toils of this earth to pass through the pearly gates.

• • •

There he was struck by the presence of many other diamond notables, such as Frank Chance, Walter Johnston, Hugh Jennings and many others. This was too good a chance to miss, says Phil, and he immediately began organizing what was undoubtedly the greatest team ever assembled. Soon he had all the equipment, the team was in shape and ready to go, when he was called to the phone. Who should be on the other end but that old devil, Satan himself.

• • •

"What are you trying to do up there," shouted the man with the horns and tail, "don't you know you can't play ball in heaven?"

"What do you mean, can't play ball? Why, I've got the greatest team ever," said our hero.

"That's all very well," retorted Satan, "but how in h— can you play ball up there when I have all the umpires down here?"

Red-Hot Barons Find Providence A "Soft" Touch

Cleveland Barons served notice last night that they have no intentions of taking things easy in the first round of the American Hockey League playoffs just because they finished the season unbeaten in their last 27 league outings.

The red-hot Barons found Providence Reds, loop leaders in the East, a soft touch and humiliated the Rhode Islanders 6-1 in the first game of a best-of-seven semi-final series.

In two quarter final series, both best-of-three affairs, New Haven edged Pittsburgh 2-1 while Buffalo defeated Hershey 5-3.

The game in Cleveland was close for two periods but in the final canto, the Barons ran wild and banged in four goals. Second game of this series will be played in Cleveland Thursday.

At New Haven, the Ramblers played spirited hockey to edge Pittsburgh Thursday.

Hershey, playing on home ice, were never in front as Buffalo captured the first game of the series. As officials skated off at the end of the game, spectators attacked them. Police finally were able to direct the officials to their dressing room before any serious damage was inflicted.

Second game of the series is scheduled for Thursday in Buffalo.

Gananoque And Aurora Juniors Here Tonight

What should be a ding-dong battle between two outstanding O.H.A. Junior "C" squads takes place tonight at Memorial Arena when the Gananoque and Aurora kidlets tangle in the first game of their best of three series.

The Gan. team which rubbed out Lindsay here last week is one of the smartest junior teams to show their wares here and the Aurora kids will have to be good to turn them back.

A large crowd of Gananoque fans will be here for the game, while Belleville hockey lovers, who thrilled to the fine play of the lads from the "Gateway of the Thousand Islands" will likely turn out in crowds to watch the boys go through their paces. Game starts at 8.30.

Boucher Declares Boston Bruins Will Win Trophy

New York, March 24 (CP)—Take it from Frank Boucher: New York Rangers have a chance to win the Stanley Cup but pick the Boston Bruins to win the National Hockey League's prize bowl.

Boucher, leading the Rangers into their fourth playoff series against Detroit Redwings tonight, looks dubiously at his injury-riddled line-up but nevertheless advises the guessers to throw the season's records out the window.

With sudden death hanging around th. corner anything could happen.

But for those who like their statistics, it might be noted that Rangers were unbeaten in seven games during one streak this season and stretched that to 12 with one loss.

Boucher's injury troubles begin with Phil Watson whose chances of playing tonight are slim. And Captain Neil Colville's and Frank Eddolls' are little better.

Looking on the bright side, he has sure-fire Buddy O'Connor whose 60 points during the season were just one behind Elmer Lach of Montreal Canadiens in the individual scoring race.

One Definite Line

A definite starter is the line of Edgar Laprade, Tony Leswick and Ed Kullman who piled up a total of 25 points this season against Detroit.

Don Raleigh, a 32-point season scoring record behind him, will pivot Cal Gardner and Rene Trudell, who had 25 and 20 points respectively. All are competing in their first playoffs.

That leaves as possible Wingers for O'Connor: Rookie Ronnie Rowe, recently brought up from New York Rovers of the Quebec Senior Hockey League; Ed Slowinski, who scored 11 points this season; and Veteran Bryan Hextall, who has played in five playoffs with the Rangers and notched 22 points this season.

With Eddolls and Colville doubtful starters, the defence will comprise Bill Juzda, Jean Paul Lamirande, Fred Shero and Bill Moe.

For the first game at least the ramparts will be guarded by Claude (Chuck) Rayner who started the season like a stone wall but was forced out with a broken cheek bone. He has ousted his hunting camp-partner, Sugar Jim Henry, who might, however, be back in the nets again before the playoffs are ended.

The Rangers have won Lord Stanley's mug only three times and the odds-riggers make the Red Wings 12-5 favorites for their current meeting.

But this time ,at the bottom of the playoff pile, the Rangers feel they have nothing to lose.

Sports Shorts from Britain

London, March 24. (CP)—Costs of the Oxford-Cambridge boat race are so high this year, the universities fear the Putney-Mortlake course may have to be forsaken for Henley, where the race began 119 years ago.

This year's battle, on March 27, will cost each university £2,300 ($9,200)—three times more than pre-war—and each "Blue" will spend £30 to £40 from his own pocket.

"If it had not been for two benefactors, one of whem presented us with a new boat," said G. C. Richardson, the Cambridge president, "we would have been in difficulties this year." ...

This year's "gate" will be worth at least £30,000 but all the two boat clubs have ever received was about £150 between them—from sale of programs, rental of seats on accompanying boats and broadcast and film rights.

Bulk of the "gate" goes to riverside space owners who get spectator and parking rights and to hucksters who sell anything from favors to programs.

Transferring the race to Henlay, officials estimate, would save each team about £500 in hotel and transport costs.

Football-cricketer Denis Compton probably could make a fortune on social invitations if this time were his own, but every morning a postman leaves a batch of letters at his Kenton, Middlesex, home which have to be answered: "Mr. Compton regrets . . . ."

Most sought-after athlete in British sport today, Denis is inundated with requests to speak at church bazaars, savings rallies, sports meetings, religious revivals and political meetings.

Compton accepts only one or two invitations a week, usually unpaid.

He trains every morning with other Arsenal soccer players and cannot spare the time to stay overnight on lecture or speaking engagements. He has also refused lucrative cricket-coaching offers from India and New Zealand.

"Football is my winter business," says Denis, "and I have no intention of giving it up for several seasons."

Jacko, the starter's horse, caused more trouble than a field of two-year-olds at Wolverhampton, Staffordshire. He kicked the starter's assistant in the chest before the first race and galloped riderless after the runners.

When the next race began he ran away with Capt. W. R. Brown, galloped half a mile, and ended up among cars under the railway viaduct—but not before he had jumped over the hood of a motor horse-box.

Jacko was sent back to his box in disgrace, but he had recaptured past glories—he is an old racehorse.

Old-timers and present-day hockey players met in Windsor Station, Montreal, to honor Felix Berger, who during the past 30 years has looked after some 50,000 of them "on the road" as Canadian Pacific Railway passenger agent. In appreciation they clubbed together and handed Felix a cheque for $1,000. Left to right: "King" Clancy, "Newsy" Lalonde, Mr. Berger, Billy Wray, chairman for the evening and long-time hockey fan, and Maurice "The Rocket" Richard.

By GEORGE FORSTER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Regina, March 24 — (CP) — The Cinderella story of Montreal Canadien's Elmer Lach — who edged out Buddy O'Connor of New York Rangers for individual scoring leadership in the National Hockey League — makes him eligible for plenty of consideration when they hand out the All-star awards , says Dave (Regina Leader-Post) Dryburgh.

"No other player in the N. H. L. has weathered the setbacks that have come Lach's way," Dryburgh says.

But the irony of the Lach - O'Connor race to the wire was that "Canadiens couldn't use Buddy O'Connor because they had better centre ice performers."

"That," says Dryburgh, "was the judgment of Frank Selke, who takes full responsibility for peddling Buddy to New York, and a year ago the wolves who are now Selke's doorstep were in complete agreement."

Lach has made consistent comebacks despite injuries, including a shattered arm that took some of the zip from his shot for a while after he was again a star.

The suggestion of William Northey, a life member of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association that the Allan and Memorial Cups should be retired because of the professionalism in the C. A. H. A. doesn't get much support from Dryburgh.

"Many of us, including C. A. H. A. boss Al Pickard, are inclined to think Mr. Northey is viewing with alarm and isn't too greatly concerned over what is going on this year or what has happened in the past. He's been listening to too many speeches by our erudite friend George Panter."

Panter, president of the Ontario Hockey Association, suggested at a January C. A. H. A. meeting that a contract system be adopted for junior 'A' and senior 'A' hockey with open sale and trading of players — a suggestion that was adopted and is due for final consideration at the annual C. A. H. A. meeting in April.

"Panter won't get much support at the C. A. H. A. annual confab and we daresay Mr. Northey will relax and permit the Allan and Memorial Cups to stand as symbols of the best in Canada instead of collecting dust in Jim Sutherland's Hall of Fame at Kingston," said Dryburgh.

Training Camp Notes

New York, March 24 — (AP)—Manager Connie Mack of Philadelphia Athletics is getting his boys ready for the siege of night games. The A's are playing their exhibitions in Florida under the lamps.

The A's have some men who like night play — Elmer Valo, who batted .398 under the lights in 1947; Barney McCosky, whose night average was .325, and Hank Majeski, who had a respectable .319 compared to a season's average of .280..

Chicago Cubs' hospital list at Los Angeles is gradually getting smaller, but it's still imposing.

Phil Cavaretta, Bob Sheffing and Lloyd Lowe now have their arms working well after treatment. But Bill Nicholson still has shoulder miseries and Len Merullo is troubled both with a lame arm and bad back.

Several members of New York Giants, including manager Mel Ott and outfielder Willard Marshall have been laid up with colds in Sacramento, Calif.

Ray Sanders, first baseman acquired from Boston Braves, isn't going to rush things in workouts with Brooklyn Dodgers in the Dominican Republic. Sanders has seen no action yet, although he works out easily each day and is swinging hard in batting practice.

Hockey President Says Team Must Be Ready Thursday

(By The Canadian Press)

President Azaire Choquette of the Q.A.H.A. said today that unless the Junior Amateur Hockey Association winners are ready to meet Quebec Red Wings at Montreal in the first game of the provincial finals Thursday, the J.A.H.A. winner will forfeit the right to continue in Memorial Cup play. The J.A.H.A. finalists, Montreal Royals and Montreal Nationales, are slated to meet in the fifth and deciding game of their series the same night, Thursday.

Choquette said that President Alphonse Therien of the J.A.H.A. had been notified twice that his league would have to declare a winner before March 25. Quebec Red Wings won the Quebec City League championship, a junior B circuit until this season when the loop was raised to junior A status.

General manager Frank Selke of Montreal Canadiens said yesterday at Winnipeg, he is seeking to expand the pro team's amateur farm system in western Canada. He disclosed he is heading for Regina to complete negotiations for sponsorship of Regina Pats of the Saskatchewan Junior league.

"We are more anxious than ever before to take junior clubs and their minor affiliates under our wing," he said. "We frankly do so with the idea of building up an endless reservoir of future talent for our pro teams, but also genuinely wish to assist the operators and promoters of minor league amateur hockey."

Canada's Olympic hockey champions R.C.A.F. Flyers last night defeated an all-Canadian Scottish league club 7-1 at Perth Scotland. The Flyers were without 33-year-old Louis Lecompte of Ottawa, out with a badly-bruised eye.

Rinty Monaghan of Belfast last night became the undisputed flyweight champion of the world by knocking out Jackie Paterson of Glasgow in the seventh round of their scheduled 15-rounder title bout at Belfast.

Jackie Davies, president of the Quebec track and field association, announced yesterday that the eastern zone Olympic trials will be held at Montreal June 19. The eastern zone takes in Qubec and the Maritmes. The women's preliminary trials likely will be held the same day with provincial championships also at stake.

Guy Lombardo, who is fast becoming as famous for his boat racing as his band leading, will attempt to set a Uunited States speed record for powerboats in his Tempo VI. With a new 1,300-horsepower, 12-cylinder engine mounted in the 25 foot boat Lombardo, a native of London, Ont., hopes to better the 124 mile-an-hour record established by Gar Wood 16 years ago. In a trial yesterday Lombardo estimated the boat "hit around 120 miles an hour."

Identical Scores Made by Three Teams in Playoffs

(By The Associated Press)

Identical 3-1 scores gave Kansas City, Minneapolis and Fort Worth leads last night in the United States Hockey League playoffs. The three games opened the playoff series.

Kansas City won at Houston in the best-of-seven series between the Northern and Southern Division-leaders. Fort Worth won at Tulsa in the series involving the second-and-third-place teams of the Southern Division and Minneapolis won at Omaha in the Northern Division's second - and - third-place team encounter.

All are idle tonight, but will resume action tomorrow night with Kansas City at Houston, Omaha at Minneapolis and Tulsa at Fort Worth.

75,000-POUND FISH CATCH

Toronto — (CP) — Ontario's commercial fish catch for January was 75,000 pounds, the Ontario lands department has estimated New statistical methods and monthly reports are providing the department's fish and wild life division with up-to-date, province-wide data, Dr. W. J. Harkness, division chief, said.

Boston Bruins "Hot" Team On Eve of Playoffs

Boston, March 23. (AP)—Beset by injuries most of the season and hampered mentally by hockey's betting scandal which hit directly Boston Bruins nevertheless are well set for the Stanley Cup series against Toronto Maple Leafs.

They face a jinx in the fact that they haven't won a game against the Leafs on Toronto ice all season.

Nevertheless the last time the Bruins opposed the Leafs in a National Hockey League playoff series, 1940-1941, they won in seven games. That, too, like this season, was in the first round for the Stanley Cup and the Bruins went on to win the cup in the final match against Detroit.

The Bruins also won the coveted ice trophy in 1939 by whipping the Leafs in five games.

Milt Schmidt, Bruins' great centre missed 27 games this season because of injuries. Without him the Bruins appeared like a rudderless ship.

Finish in Hot Streak

Since his return to action the Bruins have lost only one of nine games—three were ties—as they finished the regular season with the hottest streak of any team in the league.

Boston also is strong defensively and playoff hockey is essentially defensive hockey. In Frankie Brimsek they have one of the game's best goalies, with due respect to the Leafs' Turk Broda, winner of the Vezina trophy.

On this point the Bruins also are confident, emphasizing that Brimsek is best in a series of this type. Defencemen Jack Crawford and Murray (Moe) Henderson also have recovered from injuries.

The Leafs, Bruin players agree, not only are rough to beat but are the defending champions and cup holders.

All three of the Boston lines are scoring threats, even the new trio comprising Paul Ronty, Johnny Peirson and Veteran Kenny Smith.

All in all the Bruins figure they can beat the Leafs and, give them even one victory in the two games scheduled for Toronto and they'll be awfully tough in the next few at home.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

For all normal purposes, bids in bridge have natural meanings. Bids with artificial interpretations are used for giving unusual information. These are known as conventions.

You are the dealer and have this hand:

♠A 2
♥A K Q 7
♦A Q 8 3
♣K 9 4

What should be your opening bid? One heart, one diamond, one no-trump, two hearts, two diamonds, or two no-trump? How would you know? Or would you guess?

First decide what bids apply in a hand like this. It may be that more than one kind of a bid fits it. If so, select the bid that tells partner the most truth about the hand.

An opening of one in a suit shows at least five tricks, four of which are high cards, of which two are sure; and a biddable suit. You have everything in this list.

An opening of one no-trump shows at least five tricks in high cards (aces, kings, queens), of which two are sure; and no suit that is biddable. You have a biddable suit.

An opening of two no-trump is also a convention. It signals a hand that needs only one high card in partner for a no-trump game. You have almost enough for such an opening.

Thus, there is something lacking for any bid other than one in a suit. With two suits of the same length, first bid the higher rank. So, your most honest opening bid is one heart.

You will not be far off with any of the other bids. Most correct is an opening of one heart. You may prefer two no-trump. Let's not quarrel about it.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 24 — (AP) — Rudy Vallee, the tireless troubadour, is out to conquer yet another medium — television.

One of Hollywood's non - stop talkers, the former vagabond lover described his newest project, Vallee-Video. He believes that radio has passed its peak of popularity as a form of entertainment and will soon take a back seat to television.

Right now Vallee is experimenting with illustrated songs. For example, he takes a tune like "These Foolish Things" and flashes the "things" on the screen as the song is played. Such films take from one to four days to complete and the producer said he is is no hurry to release them.

"I can wait a year or two," he declared. "The market isn't one-hundredth the size it will be. When the demand goes up, prices go up and a backlog of programs is like gold in a vault." He'll have to get a bigger vault, then; Vallee is rumored to be one of the richest men in show business.

Thrill-Seeker

Olivia DeHavilland was telling about the thrill she got presenting the Academy Award to Ronald Colman. When she was a teenager, he was her idol. She even wrote for and received an autographed photo from Colman . . . . Note: I hereby resolve never again to try to predict Academy winners. Not this year, anyway . . .

Winner Colman told me he has no future pictures in mind. He is one of Hollywood's most critical script readers. Some sources have suggested he do a stage version of "Othello," the high point of his "A double life" performance. "I'll stick to pictures," he said. "I know when I'm well off."

10-second Review

"April Showers" (Warners) is that solid movie commodity— the nostalgic musical. This one is better than most, being enacted by two amiable performers Jack Carson and Ann Sothern, plus a talented kid, Bobby Ellis. It's about a vaudeville family, and the father takes to drink, and — well, you get the idea.

Famous Boat Race Scheduled For Saturday

London, March 24 (AP)— Two crews of rowing heavyweights, averaging 175 pounds a man, will "pull their hearts out" in the annual Oxford and Cambridge Universities boat race Saturday.

Britain hopes to find its Olympic games "eight" from this annual contest dating from 1829.

Neither Oxford nor Cambridge, however, has fulfilled its early promise in final training on the 4 1-4 mile stretch of the Thames from suburban Putney to Mortlake — the traditional boat race course.

Cambridge won by 10 lengths last year, but Saturday's race looms up as the most open ever. Rowing critics are divided on the merits of the rival crews, yet Oxford's full-course trial times give them the edge over Cambridge primarily because the big men in the middle of the boat haven't given the stroke, C. M. R. Barton from Eire, the support he should get.

Cambridge has so far won 49 of the 93 official races. Oxford has won 43, and only once has a dead heat been rowed, in 1877.

Girls Wanted To Play Ball

Irvington, N. J., March 24 (AP) — Athletic ladies who want a job paying $55 to $100 a week for playing baseball will apply here tomorrow.

The All-American Girl Baseball League, a Midwestern circuit which will expand this year, is scheduled to hold tryouts for feminine ballplayers in the east who think they can hit, field and throw in a skilful as well as lady-like manner.

The league, which drew nearly 1,000,000 fans in its fifth season of operation last year, features former major league stars as managers. Johnny Rawlings, one time New York Giant luminary, will supervise the tryouts. Rawlings piloted the championship Grand Rapids, Mich., club last year.

Started with four teams by Philip K. Wrigley, Jr., owner of Chicago Cubs, the loop will have 10 clubs in 1948. Besides Grand Rapids, they include Chicago, Rockford, Peoria and Springfield, Ill., Racine and Kenosha, Wis.; Fort Wayne and South Bend Ind., and Muskegon, Mich.

AT THE BELLE — Joe Brown and Richard Lyon take time out to go fishing in the 20th. Century-Fox production "The Tender Years," revealing one of the greatest and best-loved comedians of all time emerging as a wonderful new screen personality. Noreen Nash and Charles Drake are the romantic interest in "The Tender Years," due today at the Belle Theatre.

AT THE CAPITOL — Kaylossal Komedian Kaye who skyrocketed to fame in his first picture returns again in "The Birth of a Star," behind the scenes story of how Hollywood discovers its new personalities — but hilariously. This gay comedy starts tomorrow at the Capitol Theatre and on the same program "Jungle Book," in glorious Technicolor starring Sabu.

AT THE McCARTHY — Yvonne DeCarlo, the lovely dancing and dramatic star of Universal-International's Technicolor production, "Black Bart," starting today at the McCarthy Theatre, is the object of admiration by none other than a pair of outlaws Dan Duryea (right) and Jeffrey Lynn, in this scene.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was up on the Avenue with ma, and we stopped in frunt of the pet shop to see what people were standing there looking at, being 4 little puppies in the window, and they were looking out at us the same as we were looking in at them, proving dogs are probably as intelligent as people, and I said, Oh, that little fluffy white fellow. Look at him sitting there with his head on one side, and sutch a cute expression. I never saw anything so cute in my life, she said.

Aw, ma, the little brown one with the strate legs and the wiskers is mutch cuter, I said. Look how he's jumping up and down just to show us he likes us, I said, and ma said, Well naturelly all puppies are cute. That's what makes them puppies. But there's something particulilly adorable about that fluffy white one with his quiet, wise little manner. I could just cuddle him and cuddle him, she said.

Aw heck, ma, a dog aint suppose to be a doll, I said, Gosh, ma, look at that brown one. He never stays still a second. Look ma, he's up on his hine legs trying to come out through the glass. He must think we're all rite, ma. He's 50 times better than that white one just squatting there like a old man, I said, and ma said, You dont need to set sutch great store on meer action. I assure you that people think more highly of you when they see you sitting down quietly in a well behaved manner than when you assault their ears and nerves like a war path Indian, she said.

Aw well, all rite, then buy the doped white one, I said. At least it's some kind of a dog, I said, and ma said, Well of all the ideas, I haven't the faintest idea of buying any of them.

Well then jimminy, ma, I mean gosh, do you mean, we've just been standing here arguing for nuthing, I said, and ma said, I dont mean a thing, now let's go.

Which we did.

Little Benny's Note Book

Us fellows were standing around the letter box watching Maggie Jonsin skating backwards on one foot in her cowboy pants, being something none of us fellows can do, especially in a cercle like Maggie Jonsin, and I said, Hay, did you hear about her offering to fite Skinny Martin? I was rite there when she challenged him, I said.

G, why didnt you fite her, Skinny? Sid Hunt said, and Skinny said, Aw, I'd be ashamed to fite a gerl.

Not saying he'd probably be even more ashamed to get licked by one, and Glasses Magee said, Hay, let's get up a club and keep her out.

Sure, we haven't got up a new club for a heck of a while I said, and Skinny said, Lets call it the All Boys Athletic Club.

Sounding like a swell idea, and we started to make up club rules and things, the main club rule being we wouldn't leave any gerls in, and all of a suddin somebody said, What club are you talking about, I'll join it.

Being Maggie Jonsin, and Skinny Martin said, No you wont, either, nuthing doing.

Why not, who says so? Maggie said, and Glasses said, We say so, dont we, fellows?

Sure, nuthing doing, no gerls, absilutely, us fellows said, and Maggie said, Why, whats a matter? I can do anything you guys can do, she said.

No you cant, either, Skinny said and she said, Oh is that so? Tell me what, for instance? she said.

You cant join this club, that's what, Skinny said.

And we all went over to his house and finished the meeting in the garage, locking the door to be even safer.

Proving people cant be forced against their will if they stick together.

HANDFUL OF STARS

By Margaret Gorman Nichols

"A little jealous, Maybe," she said. "But, Bonnie, when you are really in love, you don't see other people. They can't get close enough to you to tempt you. Love protects those who are really in love."

Bonnie looked over the newspaper. "Michael was here again today. Mrs. Ryan told me."

"Do you think he wants to come back? I told you that Michael's infatuation was an illness and that he'd get over it."

Bonnie shook her sleek brown head. "I wouldn't take him back!"

• • •

Lyle lived for letters. Her mother wrote "Jeff hasn't been to see me yet." Jeff wrote, "I haven't gotten around to seeing your mother yet, Lyle. I don't want her to think I'm a sick stripling. This place is great. I indulge in food, sunshine, and swimming. Don't work too hard, darling."

There was a letter from California from Suzanne one morning, inviting her to visit her.

She did not see Stephen. And in the store she was so engrossed in her work that she did not know that twice the first week Jeff was away, Stephen came down to Lois Penniman's office on the pretext of discussing work when actually he came to see Lyle's bent auburn head through the glass of Lois' office. That auburn head was like magic that drew him.

But he stayed away, toying with the idea of calling her some evening and asking casually, lightly, "Do you think Jeff would mind too much if you went to dinner with me?" but dropping the idea because he felt incapable of light, casual moments with her and because, too, he felt that he would be taking advantage of Jeff's absence. Would she never again decorate the drawing-room of his Connecticut house? Several times recently his guests had inquired, "Don't you invite Lyle Marsh up any more, Stephen? She's so lovely." And several times recently on weekends when his house was filled, he had found himself glancing up the steps for a glimpse of toeless silver sandals on a small foot and a slim graceful body in a silver dress and shining coppery hair, hair such as he had never seen before.

With amusement and irritation he thought that there were a great many things he had mastered by concentration and hard work. In sports he wasn't bad. He was a success in business. He had scores of friends. But what defeated him who had never let anything defeat him was love for a slender, bright-haired girl who could have of him anything she wished and — she wished nothing. He told himself that he must accept this, his first defeat. But somehow a gnawing inside of him would not let him lower his colors—yet.

He wished Suzanne were here so that he could say to her, "There are a lot of people who jump with fear when they see me—people in the store. There are a lot of people who envy us, who think I have the world by the neck. But those same people would howl with laughter and think I'd gone pretty soft if they knew how often I go about the house imagining I see Lyle again in this chair or seated on the divan. There's only one person who can make my heart beat fast. That's Lyle. And for Jeff she is a shoulder to lean on, to complain on. She thinks so straight about everything—except herself."

And so he did not see her because he knew that if ever they were together again, he'd make love to her and that words which had shouted for outlet for weeks would have to be said. He knew he'd say, "I'm not a vice-president! I'm a man in love with you, deeply and passionately in love with you. And the masterpiece of my life isn't anything. I've ever done or ever shall do in business. It's my love for you, Lyle."

Her hair brushed back off her small ears, nose shining, a faded blue smock over her business dress, Lyle worked in her room on a cruise scene for Mrs. Nash's dress shop, with travel literature of glamorous places on her bed. Mrs. Ryan had just looked in to say good night. Mike's last loud protest at being put to bed had just subsided. Bonnie was dressing to go to the theatre with Elizabeth Hunt and Dick, Elizabeth's husband.

Bonnie, wearing green velvet, came in.

Lyle said, "You look lovely,"

"Thank you, darling." Of Lyle's wor she said, "That should make people cruise-minded and send them into Mrs. Nash's shop. Aud speaking of clothes, Lyle, you haven't bought anything for yourself in months."

She had not bought any clothes because everything she earned over her board and the money she sent to her mother in Miami and to her uncle had gone to Jeff. No new clothes for her but Florida for Jeff....

"Oh, I don't need anything, Bonnie."

Bonnie's eyes scoled but she spoke gently. "Have you forgotten what I told you about—about giving too much?" She had begun to worry about Lyle recently. She thought, "She doesn't confide in me as she used to. And she doesn't because the things she'd have to say aren't pleasant things. I wonder about Jeff. He's charming. But is he substantial? To him is Lyle no more than a girl very lovely to look at? Is it romance with Jeff or is it love?"

Lyle said, "But you have to give a great deal when people are down, Bonnie. Jeff has had such bad breaks."

The other nodded slowly, her eyes thoughtful. Then she said, "I'm going to get the flowers Dick sent me out of the refrigerator. Wasn't it sweet of him to do it? I—I never considered a woman's position — without a man before. You're always—the odd one. I'm married and I'm not married."

She came back after a moment with the orchids pinned to her dress. "I think the baby will be good. He's tired. He just about wears out poor Mrs. Ryan during the day." She smiled. "I'll love it when he's big enough to talk to me and we can do things together. Then—then I won't be the — odd one."

Bonnie was in her bedroom kissing Mike good night when the bell rang. It was too early for the Hunts. Besides, they usually called from downstairs and Bonnie went down to meet them.

Bonnie called, "Will you see who it is, Lyle? Mike wants another glass of water." Her laughter drifted lightly to Lyle. "That's the cute trick he thought up all by himself to keep me with him a few minutes longer."

Lyle took off her smock hurriedly, pulled her hair from behind her ears, went to the door, and opened it.

Bonnie called, "Who is it? If it's Elizabeth...."

Lyle spoke with effort, "No. It's—it's Michael."

Lyle knew as Michael stepped into the living-room that Bonnie would see an altered Michael, grim and so thin his clothes seemed scarcely to touch his large frame. He held his hat as if he were a stranger who did not know where to put it. Restlessly his eyes shifted around the familiar room where the two white lamps on tables beside the green divan and the tall white floor lamp over the big chair, his chair, were lighted.

Lyle stood stiffly but her knees were weak. She thought, "He has come back either to ask Bonnie for a divorce or to ask her if he can come to stay." And if it were the former, she thought, then Bonnie would continue to be—the odd one to whom her friends' husbands sent flowers until little Mike added many inches to his baby body. But if it were the latter....But Bonnie had said that she would not take him back.

There was no time for her to go, to escape seeing husband and wife meet. If only she could go and see Bonnie's face! And in spite of everything tha thad gone before she ached for Michael who would not have to say he had suffered. Because his suffering was in his face.

The world was not dominated primarily by commerce and politics and war, Lyle thought. The most important thing to the men and women who walked the earth was their relationship to and with each other. So with Michael. So with Bonnie who could come in any moment now. And when she came in everything—her job, her home, her child—would drop away as if they had never existed and there would be only Michael ....For a woman there was only one man and for Bonnie that man was Michael who had the power to turn her world upside-down and to rend her heart from end to end....

Bonnie paused abruptly on the threshold of the living-room.

"Hello, Michael. How are you? Won't you take off your overcoat and sit down?"

He seemed scarcely to hear her. Lyle thought, "He sees how she's changed! He wonders if this Bonnie, elegant in green velvet and orchids, with her hair smooth and curled and shining, is the same Bonnie who greeted him in a plain little house dress, who ironed his shirts, and whose hands were always red from washing for the baby. He had probably thought she was whipped and would have a beaten look. And this is her little moment of triumph when Michael is looking at her and thinking how lively she's grown!" And again her heart moved in admiration for Bonnie who had not "given up." Oh, but the courage that is so easy to say and so hard, so hard to live!

Lyle said "Excuse me."

But Bonnie said, "No, stay, Lyle. You may hear whatever Michael has to say."

"I'd rather not."

Michael said, "I'd like you to stay, too, Lyle. You—you earned this, too."

Earned what? Lyle sat down. Michael sat on the divan, still wearing his overcoat, his hat still in his hand. Bonnie sat in the big chair.

He looked at Bonnie. "You're looking fine."

"Thank you. I haven't much time, Michael. I'm going to the theatre.'

She did not have much time, Lyle thought. Bonnie who had never had any time for any one except him now had little time for him....

That stung him. He said, "Then I'll talk fast. There's pretty much to say."

"If you are going to ask me for a divorce, I'll give you one without any trouble. But I'd rather you'd talk to my attorney."

He shook his head and smiled bitterly. "I didn't come to ask you for a divorce. I came to tell you that I haven't seen Helene since—since the day after I left here." The bitter smile again...." "Bonnie, the biggest sap that ever lived is sitting right here before you. But I don't expect you to feel sorry for me. I expect you to laugh at me and I'll sit here while you do it!'

Lyle saw his eyes fill with ears.

"When I told Helene I'd left my wife and child for her, she laughed in my face! She'd had a good time with me. I was new material, a diamond in the rough. But marry me, an accountant for her father's company? She said, 'But, Michael, this is fantastic! I'd no idea you felt this way about me! Ithought we were just having a little fun. If my father hears about this, he'll be furious with me and probably fire you.' I haven't seen her since. I don't blame her. Any man who lets himself be made a fool of can't blame the girl who did it. She was bored with playboys and millionaires and actors. I was new.

"And so, all these months, I've been living in a hotel room not seeing anybody. You can't sit night after night within four walls and not get to know yourself pretty well and the people who really mean something to you. I thought I'd go crazy if I didn't see Mike. I was never coming back to you, Bonnie. But coming back to see Mike and seeing my home again, I thought there were only two answers you could give me—yes or no."

Lyle caught her breath and held it.

Bonnie uncrossed her gold sandals. Then she said tightly, "The answer is—no, Michael. You took your way out and now I'm taking mine. I like my freedom."

Lyle thought, "You're not telling the truth! You're not free! You're the—odd one! And you'll always love Michael and no one else!"

He said, "I won't beg or implore you. Duty didn't bring me back. Love for Mike didn't bring me back tonight. I came back because—because I love you, Bonnie—because I'm incomplete without you. I've had a promotion and a raise...."

"So have I. I've had a promotion and a raise. And I go to parties and the theatre, not with men but with married couples and unmarried business women friends. Michael, I lived when I wanted to die. One of us had to live for Mike. You walked out. Ah, you were willing to pay for him. Money is necessary but not as necessary as a father who is his son's friend, a father who stays young because he has a growing son. Nothing a mother can do or give her son means as much to him as having a father who is his pal. You walked out on your son." Michael's jaw was lean and sharp. "And no is your final answer?" His eyes begged.

Bonnie lowered her head. Then looking up she said gently, "No is my final answer. I like my new life, my work, my friends."

"And your clothes." He shook his head. "You've changed, Bonnie."

"Who made me change?" There was no fire, no anger in the question. She asked it wearily and her voice quavered.

The phone rang then. She got up, went to it, and said, "I'll be down directly, Dick." She turned to Michael. "I must go. My friends are waiting for me."

He stood up and his eyes were in chaos from his thoughts when he watched her go. Then he looked across the room to Lyle.

"What's happened to her? She isn't the same! She's...."

"She never walked out on you before. I know. She never sat across from you and looked at you coldly and spoke to you coldly. I know that, too, Michael. And she always cried so easily. But she's been hurt and she's exhausted all her tears. She's built a wall around her heart. She's never going to let anybody get close enough to her again to hurt her. She is different. She's grown up and she's grown beautiful."

But she was thinking, "I didn't think she could send him away. How could she when she loves him so, when she knows he needs her and that he's sorry?"

Navy Wins in Battle to Keep Smokes Duty Free for Sailors

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, March 24 (CP)— His Majesty's Navy's longest engagement has been with His Majesty's Customs and Excise Department and, as usual, the senior service seems to be victor.

The battle has been over duty-free tobacco supplied to sailors, a constant irritation to the excise branch. The navy has clung to its privilege, honoring it all the more vigorously since the price of tobacco has increased by more than three times, mainly due to the imposition of duties.

No Duty in 1793

Duty-free tobacco was supplied to men at sea in 1793 and since 1887 men at some shore establishments and on service in home waters have smoked cheaply too. The Excise Department hustled into fray again before the Second World War when it learned that between 1926 and 1931 the annual consumption of duty-free tobacco had doubled and there was evidence of "smuggling by navy personnel."

The department suggested in 1932 that the Admiralty exercise sharper control, resumed discussions in 1935 and an inter-departmental committee to examine the position was established in 1938.

In December, 1939, the treasury, as chief of the Excise Department, agreed to defer the question until the war was over. But it did not forget and recently asked if anything was being done, spurred by knowledge that the ordinary consumer last year had the price of his cigarets raised by 1s (20 cents) for 20 from 2s 4d to 3s 4d by a 50 per cent increase in the duty on imported tobacco.

Still Unsettled

The latest word has come from Sir Frank Tribe, comptroller and auditor-general, who said the problem's transition after the war "has militated against the settling of permanent arrangements."

Before the duty was raised last year, Britons were smoking one-third more than pre-war and this meant a drain on United States dollars as most of Britain's tobacco came from the Eastern States.

The tax was designed to reduce consumption by a third, but after a sharp decline when the new levy became effective, smoking has tended to rise towards old levels.

One economy device favored by many smokers is to consume as many cigarets as before but of a smaller type which cost 2s 6d for 20 against 3s 4d for what previously had been considered the normal type.

FEDERAL GOVT. ABANDONS HOUSING PROGRAM

Expansion of U.S. Armed Forces Urged

Drafting of Men 19 to 25 Years Asked by Forrestal

Odds Still Favor Peace States Defence Secretary

Washington, March 25. (AP)—Top military leaders of the United States asked Congress today for an immediate expansion of the armed services and the drafting of men 19 to 25 years of age.

Defence Secretary Forrestal grimly outlined the recent turn of world events in urging steps to make United States military might match that of Communist Russia.

As Forrestal spoke before the Senate Armed Services Committee, President Truman announced he is preparing to give the Congress a revised defence program.

Truman told his press conference he can't estimate yet how many additional billions of dollars the program will cost. Estimates from the Defence Department had not yet reached him.

Forrestal said the odds still favor peace and the free countries of the world.

Program Outlined

But he asked Congress to approve immediately:

1. An increase in the present authorized strength of army, navy, marine and air force manpower by 349,500 officers and men.

2. Another $3,000,000,000 in cash and contract authority for the armed services to cover this expansion. This presumably would be in addition to $11,000,000,000 already in the budget.

3. Drafting by Selective Service of men from 19 to 25 years inclusive. He said this would provide 1,355,000 men but added that only about 220,000 probably would be taken. He estimated 500,000 probably would volunteer.

4. A permanent system of universal military training which would become fully effective within three years. Forrestal said this would provide some 850,000 men each year with basic training.

"Because of the world situation as it exists today, there is certain detailed information which we cannot safely disclose in open session," Forrestal said.

Current strength of the armed services is 1,392,000.

NEW LOOK INFLUENCE

London (CP)—A fashion note says that shoes, gloves, handbags and hats are all subtly changing their lines to accord with the new silhouette. Shoes must be more pointed and slimmer, handbags less bulky and less tailored, while hats will be worn straight on the head with a slight forward tilt and must be trimmed

Mrs. Clara St. Cyr Acquitted Of Murder Charge

Cochrane, March 25 — (CP) — Mrs. Clara Irene St. Cyr, 32-year-old mother of six children, today was acquitted by a Supreme Court jury of the axe-slaying of her 34-year-old husband, Jerome.

She walked from the court a free woman after hearing the verdict. The jury had been out 90 minutes.

In a court jammed with spectators the jury heard yesterday how the woman led a life of misery and abuse during her 13 years of married life.

Mrs. St. Cyr made the sign of the cross as she heard the foreman of the jury pronounce the words "not guilty." Then she rose to a half-standing position and seemed frozen by the tension. After that she sat down and continued praying with her two hands clasped to her breast.

Defence counsel Gregory T. Evans asked for an immediate dismissal and Mrs. St. Cyr walked from the court room.

The verdict brought to a close a four-day hearing before Mr. Justice Jean Genest. The jury heard his charge before retiring.

The judge gravely told the jury that if the facts of the case indicated beyond a reasonable doubt the woman was guilty, they were duty bound to return a guilty verdict regardless of any sympathy they might feel for the woman and regardless of the sordid acts St. Cyr was accused of during the trial. His Honor also gave instructions on the matter of reasonable doubt. If such existed in the minds of the jurors they should bring in a verdict of innocent.

Stresses Provocation

Considerable stress was placed on the provocation of the crime in the judge's address. Reading from the Criminal Code of Canada, the bench defined homicide in all its forms and distinguished between murder and manslaughter.

Before ordering the retirement of the jury, Mr. Justice Genest suggested it could choose among three possible verdicts: (1) guilty of murder as charged, (2) not guilty of murder but guilty of manslaughter and (3) a verdict of not guilty.

He said provocation might warrant reduction of the conviction from murder to manslaughter but was not in itself enough to warrant an innocent verdict.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, March 25 — (CP) — Synopsis: Over southern sections of the province the weather is clear and cool. Light snow is falling over the Canadian prairies and gradually spreading across Northern Ontario. On Friday this snow will remain over the northern sections of the province and with moderating temperatures will change to drizzle. Prospects for Friday over Southern Ontario are cloudy skies and milder weather.

A BILL; NOT A REFUND

Hartford, Monn., March 25 — (AP) — A Hartford woman taxpayer smiled with satisfaction when the Internal Revenue Bureau sent her a slip of paper bearing the figures $5.07.

She paid a groccry bill with it. The bank bounced it back to the grocer. He gave it back to her.

It was a bill for $5.07, not a "tax refund cheque."

Tax officials said the woman told the story sheepishly when she settled accounts with the bureau.

CREW HUDDLES ON ICE PACK AS SEALER FOUNDERS

Plane, Ice Breaker Rush to Rescue of 21

Halifax, March 25 —(CP)— A searching R.C.A.F. Canso with relief supplies aboard was prodding through blinding snowflurries over Cabot Strait between Cape Breton and Newfoundland this afternoon looking for 21 crew members of the Magdalen Islands sealing schooner Teazer, who abandoned ship earlier today when an ice pack crushed and splintered their vessel.

Search and rescue headquarters here reported the big Canso aircraft was "in the immediate vicinity of the shipwrecked men but hasn't been able to locate them yet." Headquarters said they expected the Canso to spot the sealers "shortly."

The men are huddled on the tearing jam of ice hoping their distress signal, sent out before they abandoned the sealer, has been heard.

R.C.A.F. Gets Signal

Unknown to them the signal was picked up by the R.C.A.F. here and a search and rescue plane with emergency supplies is on its way from here.

From Charlottetown, also, a plane took off to pick up Fred Barry, agent for the Teazer, and fly him over the stricken crew.

Weather reports showed the ice pan on which the men are marooned was lashed by a gale gusting to 55 miles an hour and temperatures were bitterly cold. Visibility was good, however, and the weather was expected to abate late today.

Meanwhile the ice-breaker Saurel is also steaming to the rescue from North Sydney.

The crew of the rescue plane will drop sleeping bags, tents, rations and other equipment for use of the shipwrecked sealing men until the Saurel arrives to take them off.

The Saurel has 240 miles to cover but some of the course lies through pack ice and this will slow her down considerably. It also makes it difficult to estimate when the men will be reached.

Search and rescue parties said there was no immediate danger for the men but a sudden storm might break up the ice pack, separate the men and make their situation grave. The sleeping bags, tents, food and other supplies would give them some shelter and remove some of the danger of exposure.

The sealer Teazer, owned by the Gorton Pew Fisheries Company of Graindstone, Magdalen Islands, was placed at a position 20 miles southeast of St. Paul's. On Tuesday a Canadian Press staff writer flew with the ice patrol and reported: "The flight also looked over a herd of several

Britain Rejects Russian Protest Negotiations Violated Agreement

London, March 25. (AP)—Britain today rejected Russia's protest against the Anglo-United States-French negotiations for rebuilding Western Germany's economy.

A firm note to the Soviet government said Great Britain wished "entirely to repudiate the accusations" made by Russia that the negotiations violated the Potsdam Agreement.

The note blamed Russia for the breakdown of four-power co-operation for restoring Germany's economic unity.

"In the opinion of His Majesty's government," it said, "responsibility for the frustration of their consistent attempts to promote to the greatest possible extent practical co-operation in Germany, directed to the economic recovery and unity of that country. . . .rests clearly upon the Soviet government..

"The refusal of the Soviet government to allow those conditions to exist in Germany which are essential for the well-being of Europe has been amply demonstrated by their actions in the Control Council and the Council of Foreign Ministers and in all aspects of the political and economic discrimination in the Soviet-occupied zone."

The note was sent in reply to one directed by Russia to the three big western powers while their representatives were conferring in London.

Out of that conference came an agreement to place the industrial Ruhr Valley under International control, give Western Germany a federalized form of government and assign the area a role in the European economic recovery program.

The Soviet protest said that the conference "violated the Potsdam agreement and the agreement on control machinery in Germany, despite the best endeavors of the Soviet Government to promote the successful working of the agreements."

Britain said it saw no reason to comment in detail on the allegations.

Arab-Jew Truce Conference Called by Truman to Halt Bloodshed in Palestine

Washington, March 25 (AP)—President Truman said today he has instructed Warren Austin, United States United Nations representative, to call Arabs and Jews into a truce conference to halt bloodshed in Palestine.

The President told a press conference the United States reversed its original stand for partition of Palestine because partition could not be enforced without American troops.

Austin announced the reversal last Friday. He proposed a temporary United Nations trusteeship over Palestine.

Truman said the United States proposed the trusteeship to provide a government "to keep the peace."

He read a prepared statement saying a truce must be reached between the Arabs and the Jews "if we are to avert tragedy in Palestine."

Therefore he had instructed Austin to call responible representatives of the Arabs and Jews to a U. N. council table to seek such a truce.

Unless something was done "open warfare is just over the horizon."

He said that the United States would be prepared to back a United Nations trusteeship, but when asked if that meant troops would be needed, he replied, not necessarily. He did not believe force would be required to enforce trusteeship.

He said:

"Unfortunately it has become clear that the partition plan cannot be carried out at this time by peaceful means.

"We could not undertake to impose this solution on the people of Palestine by the use of American troops, both on (U.N.) charter grounds and as a matter of national policy."

The President, under questioning, said Britain was supposed to stay in Palestine until Aug. 15 but suddenly decided to pull out on May 15.

Italy Willing to Negotiate Directly With Yugoslavia

Rome, March 25 (AP)—Striking printers went back to work today and set the news that Italy is willing to negotiate with Yugoslavia over Trieste.

A foreign ministry spokesman said negotiations could be considered only in the spirit of the British, American, and French note proposing return of the 400-square-mile free territory to Italy.

The government and the Communist-controlled Italian Confederation of Labor, which some observers had accused of calling the press strike for political reasons, announced the end of the printers' walkout.

The strike had deprived Italians of newspapers since Sunday. Radios and public loud speakers had been about the only means of distributing news in Italy since the western powers announced they favored the return of Trieste to Italy.

Premier Alcide De Gasperi's office said the settlement provided for renewal of the National Printers' contract, effective April 1, with advances on pay increases eventually to be granted. The printers resumed work immediately.

R.C.M.P. ARREST MAN AT AIRPORT AND SEIZE $8,100

Edward Klein of New York Alleged to be Dealing in Canadian Funds in U. S.

Toronto, March 25 —(CP)— Royal Canadian Mounted Police and investigators of the Foreign Exchange Control Board last night arrested a New York man at suburban Malton airport and seized $8,100 in Canadian funds which investigators said were obtained on a money draft cashed at a Toronto bank.

Police said the man who was arrested as he prepared to board a plane may be a member of a ring engaged in the illegal export of Canadian funds to the United States.

In police court today, Edward Klein, 27, was remanded until April 1 on $5,000 bail.

He was charged with a breach of the Foreign Exchange Control Board regulations and was taken to jail when he failed to raise the bond.

Investigators said Klein had no permit to export the funds he was carrying.

Exchange Control Board officials said the ring's manipulations may have made some New York men "small fortunes." Investigators said members of the alleged ring apparently found a loop-hole in the exchange system whereby they could make money on the difference between Canadian and United States funds.

It was learned that the money is made by negotiating a money draft the discount between this and cash differs by three to four per cent. The draft is cashed in Canada and the money taken back to the U. S. and sold back at the prevailing price for cash.

A Foreign Exchange Control Board official said today the only Canadian money that can be taken out of the Dominion without an order is Canadian money which has been brought in. Police said Klein declared only a small amount of money when checked by customs officers.

PLANS TO TAKE OVER AMUSEMENT TAX FIELD UPHELD

Will Impose Tax in Province as Soon as Federal Govt. Takes it Off

Toronto, March 25. (CP) — Ontario government plans to take over the amusement tax field just as soon as the Dominion vacates it were supported to the tune of a 50 to 4 vote during second reading of the bill in the legislature yesterday.

The standing vote, called by Premier Drew, recorded two things: objection by the two Labor-Progressive party members and Alex Parent (Ind-Essex North) who usually supports them; and deviation from party line by George Harvey (CCF-Sault Ste. Marie). He voted against the bill while other members of his party supported it along with the Liberal opposition.

Two bills, including the Southern Ontario Frequency Conversion Measure, were approved in committee. Premier Drew replied to opposition questions on the hydro changeover.

Eight bills from private members and seven government bills were read for the second time and four were given third reading.

Provincial Secretary Michener tabled the 80th annual report of the Department of Health, hospitals division.

He explained the provisions of a bill to establish the Ontario Research Commission as a permanent body. The bill was one of those given second reading.

ESCAPEE RECAPTURED

Sydney, N. S., March 25—(CP) — R. C. M. P. today recaptured 23-year-old William Jewers, who escaped from the crowded county jail here brandishing a revolver last night. Two other prisoners who attempted to follow him were subduel by an unarmed guard.

Jewers was recaptured at his home at nearby New Waterford. He offered no resistance.

EXCISE TAX ON CONSUMER GOODS WILL CONTINUE

Parliamentary Approval Given Contentious Bill

Ottawa, March 25 (CP)—Canadians—possibly amid muttered and unavailing protests — will continue to ay the 25-per-cent excise tax imposed Nov. 18 on a long list of consumer goods.

The contentious tax bill—one of several measures inaugurated precipitiously last fall to conserve dwindling supplies of American dollars — was given parliamentary approval and royal assent yesterday.

But approval and assent came shortly after opposition members of the Commons made concerted efforts to have the bill defeated before they left on a 10-day Easter recess. Opposition was less pronounced in the Senate, which adjourned until April 19.

As a climax to arguments that the tax was unconstitutional, unjust and inequitable, Commons' opposition parties forced the division bells to ring three times before giving up their efforts to have the tax bill defeated.

Despite the solidarity of opposition ranks, the government, possibly aided by the fact that many members had departed early for the recess, won all votes handily.

The opposition fight stems from the fact that the tax was imposed while parliament was prorogued. John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, termed it "unfair, unjust and inequitable and said it had been imposed "most illegally, most unconstitutionally and without precedent." It taxed articles essential to the Canadian way of living.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, branded the government's action as 'illegal from every historical point of view."

In Non-Essential Class

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, said the Canadian people were opposed to the tax and he had no alternative but to vote against it.

Since A-Bomb Burst on Hiroshima No Damage or Ill Results Developed

By DUANE HENNESSY

Tokyo, March 25 (AP)—The top scientist studying Hiroshima said today the atomic bomb has not damaged that Japanese city since the split second in which it burst.

Dr. Philip S. Owen said the long study by the atomic bomb casualty survey commission "disclosed no residual radio-activity." He termed false speculation that the area would be deadly for possibly 80 years.

Dr. Owen is executive director of the comission. The scientists are studying residents of Hiroshima and those of nearby Kure, for comparison.

He told The Associated Press it "is eight years too soon" to say whether the bomb caused heriditary changes. But he emphasized that, if there are any, they would result from the split second of the blast, not from subsequent atomic action.

He shrugged away previously published reports of luxuriant plant growth, curiously twisted vegetables and twin onions.

"We haven't found any such startling results," he commented. "They could happen anywhere, but in Hiroshima people seize on radio-activity as an explanation. It's probably just potash in the soil, ashes of burned buildings and human bones."

Official casualty figures in the bombing, Aug. 6, 1945, are 78,150 killed. Radiation killed 21.2 per cent; the others died from concussion, injuries, infections or perished in burning buildings. Another 19,699 were injured seriously and 44,979 slightly.

Dr. Owen stressed that the casualties resulted from the blast — none from anything that developed later.

The commission has divided its study into two parts: Examination of injury cases to determine latent effects on the blood; and registration of pregnant women to determine what, if anything, is the effect on children.

Ontario Legislature Forces Action Says Hon. C.D. Howe

Bill Can Exclude Housing From Any Municipality

Ottawa, March 25 (CP)—Reconstruction Minister Howe said today that because of housing legislation by the Ontario government the Dominion will be forced to terminate its efforts to relieve Ontario's need for rental housing.

He said the Ontario legislation is the Dominion crown tenants provincial-municipal services act, which has passed second reading in the Ontario Legislature.

At a press conference, the minister said the gist of the bill was that as far as wartime housing is concerned, the Ontario government can take action "where the arrangements for the payment of provincial and municipal services are not considered suitable by the municipality concerned."

The Province can exclude any such wartime housing from the local municipality and order the cutting off of all services, including schooling, water, sewage, fire and police protection, garbage disposal and health and welfare.

Mr. Howe said this will affect 9,670 war workers houses including 5,000 occupied by veterans, and 5,560 veterans' houses.

Asked why he thought the Ontario government took this action, he replied:

"Just to take a roundhouse swing at the (Federal) government, I think."

Only Hurts Tenants

But he emphasized: "It doesn't hurt us any. It hurts the tenants."

Mr. Howe said the Ontario Legislation means cancellation of federal plans for construction of some 5,500 low-rental units in that province this year. They were to have been part of the Dominion's $75,000,000 program to build 12,000 units during 1948.

All units at present under construction will be completed.

"No one contests the municipality's, or even the province's, right to tax the tenants of wartime housing," Mr. Howe said in a statement distributed at the press conference.

Several municipalities, notably in British Columbia, had taken advantage of a federal announcement in July, 1946, providing for "extra taxes."

Under that arrangement, municipalities may tax wartime housing tenants if they consider inadequate the Dominion's payments in lieu of taxes. The additional levy by the municipality is collected by the federal authority in the form of an additional monthly payment of tenants.

The Ontario bill "appears" to end agreements between Wartime Housing and Ontario municipalities "where the provincial government accepts the representation of the municipality that suitable arrangements have not been made to pay for provincial and municipal services," Mr. Howe said.

"It is noted that no provision is made for discussion or consultation with the Dominion. The final decision can be made arbitrarily by the province.

Cease Negotiations

"In other words, the legislation places the province in the position of determining, whether agreements between municipalities and the Dominion in respect of wartime housing are satisfactory."

The bill's provisions for cutting off services, particularly water, sewer, police and fire protection, would make the dwellings "quite unsatisfactory for habitation."

Sable I. Lighthouse Being Undermined By Shifting Sand

(By WYN RHYDWEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Sable Island, N.S., March 25. (CP) — The treacherous shifting sands of Sable Island are slowly undermining the lighthouse at the western end of the "Atlantic Graveyard".

Two engineers of the Department of Transport flew in an R.C.A.F. plane to the 21-mile-long stretch of sand, 90 miles off the Nova Scotia coast, yesterday and spent nearly three hours examining possible sites for a new lighthouse.

At the east end of the island, only a mile wide at its extreme breadth, the east lighthouse is still a safe distance from the water. But with the island shifting its position several feet every year engineers are keeping a close watch on it, fearing it, too, will be endangered in a few years.

PEARL IS FOUND IN OYSTER STEW

Charles Wilkman, Bonarlaw had a pleasant surprise the other night while eating oysters at a supper held in the Springbrook Orange Hall. Feeling a solid substance in his mouth Wilkman discovered it to be a perfectly-formed pearl.

FIRE IN ORCHARD

With the disappearance of winter's snow and the return of the urge for spring cleaning the Spring crop of grass fires has commenced it was reported today by firemen who already have answered several calls of this nature so far this season.

This morning firemen were called to the Ponton farm west of the city where the long grass in an orchard on the south side of the highway was reported afire. Firemen extinguished, the blaze and reported that approximately one half of the orchard grass has been burned over.

Gananoque Fan Has Expensive Evening

Taking everything into consideration it was rather a dear hockey game for a Gananoque fan who yesterday evening motored from that centre to attend a hockey game at Belleville.

Following the game William McKenzie of that town apparently got mixed in his directions and proceeding along Highland Ave., lost control of his car at the corner of West Dundas Street, breaking off a hydro pole at the base. The car was then driven onto Parker Street where it was stopped.

Later at the police station McKenzie was charged with leaving the scene of an accident and also with careless driving. He pleaded guilty and paid fines on both counts. Undoubtedly he will also be called upon to pay for the hydro pole.

With the body of his car considerably battered as result of the collision with the hydro pole the motorist then continued on his way to Gananoque. Possibly the fact that his home town won the hockey game was some consolation for all his troubles.

Safe Carted Away in Stolen Truck, Rifled on Garbage Dump

Working at their leisure in the seclusion of a deserted garbage dump two miles from where they had broken into the store, burglars early Thursday morning hammered open a 900 pound safe belonging to John W. MacLaurin, Point Anne merchant and postmaster, and rifled the contents.

Entrance to the store was gained by smashing the glass of the front door following which the safe was trundled into a stolen truck and carted to the garbage dump where it was opened. Post Office papers, including blank postal notes and money orders, as well as a quantity of cash was taken from the safe.

Provincial Police at Belleville today announced that the tools used to smash open the safe had been found along with the safe at the garbage dump while the truck used in transporting the safe from the store was found abandoned on No. 2 Highway a short distance from the Point Anne lane.

The truck, owned by David's Electric Shop, in Belleville, was stolen some time after 12:30 this morning from in front of the home of J. Moring on Herchimer Ave.

Tools used in the break-in and in hammering open the combination of the safe apparently had been stolen from a railway tool shed as Canadian National Railways markings were found on a sledge hammer and several crowbars found at the scene. The tools were discovered early this morning by D. Cummings, Point Anne trapper, as he crossed the garbage dump to attend his trap lines.

Provincial Police J. Driscoll stated the combination of the safe had been cut with the use of a centre punch after the safe had been transported from the store. Marks of the safe in the floor of the abandoned truck were clearly visible, it was stated.

Ratepayers of Six Communities Favor Set-up of High School Districts

Ratepayers and officials of Deseronto and Stirling held special meetings in their respective communities last night, and heard the advantages of the establishment of a high school district, in their area.

Upwards of 80 representatives of Stirling, Marmora, Frankford, Huntingdon and Sidney voted unanimously for the establishment of the high school district. Deseronto representatives decided to refer the matter back to the Town Council for action after a discussion on the relative merits of the Napanee Collegiate Institute and that of Belleville.

Outlines Advantages

L.G. Therrien acted as chairman of the Deseronto meeting and introduced High School Inspector S. D. Rendall, Toronto, who outlined the advantages of the proposed district.

Deseronto officials who visited the Belleville Collegiate Institute a few weeks ago were favorably impressed with the school especially in view of the fact that the city school had a vocational branch while that of Napanee had not. It was also pointed out that if the Deseronto students were sent to Napanee they would have a local representative on the school board, while this would not be the case if they came to Belleville.

Vote in Favor

Mr. Clifford Hatton, head of the Stirling Board of Education and Reeve Harold Wells officiated at the Stirling meeting which was attended by reeves, and other officials of the surrounding townships. Following the discussion, the meeting decided unanimously in favor of the proposed school area.

Six meeting have been held in the county on the question thus far with five voting solidly in favor of the scheme. The only township to have a split decision on the matter is Hungerford. The last meeting is being held in Frankford this afternoon.

48 Hollanders Arrive in District En Route to Farms

Garbed for the most part in their national costumes and wearing the traditional wooden shoes, a party of 48 Dutch men and women and children detrained at Belleville early this morning enroute to farms in the immediate Bay of Quinte district where they will be employed as farm help.

The party detrained at Belleville consisted of the heads of 8 families and 29 children, and 3 single men. One family consisted of nine children, while in another family there were seven children.

Brought to Canada under The Netherlands Immigration Plan, the eight families detraining at Belleville came to Canada on the Netherlands ship "Kota Item" which docked at Halifax on Monday. The party came through on a special train. Three of the families will go to farmers in Hastings county but the majority are destined for farms in the Trenton and Prince Edward districts.

In the absence of Mr. H. H. Reed, manager of the local employment office, the Dutch families detraining at Belleville were met by Mr. Eric Naylor, and by officials from the Trenton and Picton offices. The Netherlanders were quoted as saying they had a good trip across the Atlantic and seemed enthusiastic over their opportunity of coming to Canada. All family heads have had farming experience.

Under agreement each of the families going to Canadian farmers are to be supplied with a tennant house and with free garden space and milk. Salary schedule to be paid by farmers was not definitely stated.

The train load of Dutch immigrants was in charge of Rev. John M. Vande Klieft, Home Missionary at Large, for the Christian Reformed Church.

Picton

Coroner's Jury Says Negligence Not Apparent

Picton —(Special) — In the opinion of the jurors, death was caused by accident and negligence was not apparent on the part of those in charge under existing conditions, a coroner's jury reported following an inquiry into the death of five-year-old Linden Hook, who lost his life during a cave-in at a sewer excavation here last Saturday afternoon. The jury recommended that more precaution be taken by those in authority to the effect that some one of the employees remain on duty during the noon hour at excavations of similar nature. The jury found that death was due to asphyxiation caused by suffocation due to the cave-in of the west wall of the excavation.

Coroner Dr. R. A. Thompson presided. Summing up the evidence, he referred to the natural curiosity of children. "I do not think any barricade would have stopped these youngsters. They did not fall in; they went in voluntarily. Under ordinary circumstances, there would have been workmen around," he commented.

Dr. Gerald Allison and Dr. C. R. Richmond testified that the child had been dead 15 or 20 minutes when taken from the trench. County engineer Boyd Arnold gave a description of the scene of the accident. Harry Grimmon, William Claus, Clifford LeGuff, Arthur Weaver, Fred Forshee, of the construction company told of assisting in the rescue. Grimmon stated he usually ate his lunch in the steam shovel cab but had been absent Saturday half-an-hour when he went to get tobacco. They stated there was no definite order for some one to remain on watch and at night there is a barricade. There had not been any evidence of a possible cave-in when they left for dinner.

Jack Scott, Pat Hodgson, Milton Dulmage, Vernon Wheeler, first on the scene, described early rescue operations. John Dunkley, engineer of the McFarland Construction Co., told of difficulty being experienced in keeping spectators away from the scene of operations. "The only thing I can think of to keep them back is a solid board fence" he commented.

Mary Young, 12, who is credited with saving the life of Nancy Wright 12, by scraping the earth away from her head and face after the cave-in, said they had gone into the trench to get the children to come out. They had seen them go in and the Hook boy, and Linda Prior, who escaped, had been digging the earth at the side of the trench.

Stirling Car Burns After Turning Over, Occupants Uninjured

Frank Haggerty, Stirling, and another passenger, escaped what might have been serious injury early this morning when on Highway 14 at the Oak Hills a rear tire of his car blew out, the vehicle going out of control to crash through the guard rails where it completely burned.

Mr. Haggerty was proceeding north toward Stirling when the accident occurred. The car ripped out nine guard rail posts and overturned in a deep ditch where it caught fire. Mr. Haggerty and his passenger miraculously escaped uninjured.

Provincial police were notified of the incident this morning, the accident being investigated by Traffic Officer Sam Ervine.

Ice Fields in Bay Breaking Up

Effects of the warm sun and wind of the past few days have done much to disintegrate the ice on the Bay of Quinte, it was noted today. The open stretch of water from the bay bridge now extends eastward beyond the government dock while the river mouth is completely clear of ice.

Muskrat trappers setting traps in the marshes of the bay report that ice is rapidly rotting and that it will no longer carry the weight of a man. One trapper stated he had dropped through to his chest on several occasions earlier in the week.

Although isolated ice fields still remain in the dead water of the Moira River north of Corbyville, long stretches of open water can be seen as far north as Plainfield. One Tweed resident stated that ice in Stoco Lake was beginning to move.

Dismantled Safe Arouses Suspicions Of Police Constables

With numerous reports of safe cracking circulating about the province two local officers of the law Constables William Evans and Peter Thomson last night thought they had stumbled onto the real thing when they were checking doors at the Glen Roy Creamery on Pinnacle Street.

Shining their flashlights through the window of the creamery the officers saw parts of a safe lying on the floor along with what they took to be a number of burglar's tools. The officer at the police station desk was quickly notified and in turn the proprietor of the creamery with result that the true state of affairs was uncovered.

The creamery proprietor informed the officer that his workmen had the day previous been engaged in dismantling the office safe and not having completed the job had left their tools and partially dismantled safe when they quit work the evening before.

Members Demand Suspension Of Death Penalty

London, March 25 — (Reuters) — A demand to parliament for suspension of the death penalty in Britain for murder was introduced today by 150 members of the House of Commons, belonging mostly to the Labor party.

The demand is in the form of an amendment to the criminal justice bill.

Its effect, if adopted, would be that, for an experimental period of probably five years, no one would be sentenced to death for murder. Life imprisonment would take the place of the death sentence.

Abolition of the death penalty for murder has been the subject of considerable controversy in Britain recently.

The government has shown considerable sympathy towards the idea of abolishing the death penalty, but it is believed to be apprehensive of such a reform at a time when post - war social conditions have not had time to return to normal.

Deranged Veteran Takes Own Life

Boston, March 25 (AP)— A man described by police as a deranged United States Army Air Force veteran barricaded himself in a hotel room early today and in an hour-long, shot-punctuated siege held off 50 patrolmen before taking his own life.

Police surrounded the hotel after the man called police headquarters and said:

"My name is John Silva. I'm wanted for murder in San Francisco. Come and get me. I've got enough ammunition to last a week. Nobody's going to take me alive."

Shortly after he died in hospital he was identified by his father as Harold Benedict, 26, of Somerville, Mass. He served four years in China and India during the war.

Police said he had no police record either here or in California. He had been under treatment at a veterans' hospital recently for a mental upset.

Officers who first approached the door of his room quoted him as crying out: "I'm going to kill all the cops I can before I go."

Rifle Shot Ends Fabulous Life Of Convicted Spy

Peiping, March 25 —(AP)— A rifle shot ended today the fabulous life of Manchu Princess Yoshiko Kawashima, convicted as a spy for Japan.

She died without a whimper, prison officials said, and in comparative privacy, as she had wished.

Then the prosecutor announced that her last appeal had been rejected and she would be executed.

The order to kneel followed.

Then the executioner fired a single shot into the back of her head.

In the cell she had shared with a Chinese woman opium smoker she left her unfinished autobiography.

Born in Tokyo to Manchu Prince Su and a Mongolian princess, she was adopted by Kawashima when she was 3. She had never married. "Men only make trouble for women," she told me a few days ago.

She was only 33, but few traces of beauty remained.

She was convicted last October of wartime espionage.

Earlier this month, she begged for a private execution rather than the public ceremony scheduled at Peiping's Bridge of Heaven.

That would be embarrassing, she contended, for "only real traitors and other criminals are usually shot there."

Robinson's Trial May be Adjourned

Toronto, March 25. (CP)—J. J. Robinette, counsel for the Department of Immigration in the deportation hearing of Reid Robinson, eastern vice-president of the International Union of Mine Mill and Smelter Workers (C.I.O). said today he would not oppose an adjournment to enable witnesses to be called from the United States.

Mr. Robinson is detained by the Immigration Department under a section of the Immigration Act which prohibits entry into Canada of persons who believe in or advocate the overthrow of the government by force or violence. The hearing which began yesterday will investigate charges that Robinson is a Communist and that, as such, this section of the act might be applied to him.

After a half-hour session yesterday, Robinson was freed on $500 bail.

Robinson was arrested by Royal Canadian Mounted Police in Timmins, Tuesday and brought to Toronto. If the three-man Inquiry board recommends deportation he will have the right to appeal to Hon. J. A. Glen, Minister of Mines and Resources.

CREW HUDDLES

thousand seals, wobbling over the floes to escape the crew of the sealer Teazer out of the Magdalen Islands."

Embedded in Ice

"The Teazer was embedded in a sheet of ice which will carry her along until it melts in southern waters. Meanwhile, crew members could be seen walking along the ice, overtaking a seal, to 'bat it over the head.' Large patches of red indicated where the skinning of the animals had occurred and evidenced a bumper catch."

Veteran fishermen experienced in the hazards of the ice - fields said the Teazer must have been seized in a tremendous grip before its hull gave way.

They said all sealers are specially reinforced and also sheathed in greenheart to shoulder their way through the ice-pans.

Although no serious accidents had befallen sealing expeditions in recent years, terrible losses had been suffered in early days. Seventy-seven men froze to death on an ice pan April 14, 1913 only a few years after the heavily-laden Southern Cross plunged beneath the waves off Cape Race with the loss of 290 men.

ONTARIO

"In the light of the foregoing, the Dominion will cease negotiations with municipalities for new wartime housing projects and we will be forced to terminate the Dominion's efforts, in the Province of Ontario to relieve the need for rental housing."

The Ontario legislation came at a time when the shortage of rental accommodation was "acute." Ontario had never taken "positive steps" to relieve the need.

"The Dominion and the municipalities have as a result had to bear the brunt of the problem. The Dominion cannot proceed, however, without the co-operation and agreement of the municipalities. And if the Ontario government is going to make such agreements between the municipalities and the Dominion impossible, then the Dominion has no other recourse than to wihtdraw from the field . . .

"This provincial legislation shows the difficulty of the Dominion entering the direct housing field without the co-operation of the province and the municipalities. It seems unfortunate that the province which has done so little to meet housing needs should use its powers to terminate a program which is helping meet the need.

"It may be that the other housing legislation forecast in the Speech from the (Ontario) Throne will have the effect of making the Dominion's activities in the housing field unnecessary in Ontario. The Dominion would be very happy to see this take place and would willingly turn over such activities to the Ontario government.

"If such is the intention, however, there was no need of the current bill to achieve this purpose."

Claimed Form of Insurance

In amusement tax debate both J. B. Salsberg (LPP — Toronto St. Andrew) and A. A. MacLeod (LPP — Toronto Bellwoods) declared it was taxation which hit unfairly at the pockets of the average wage earner.

As an alternative way of raising money for hospital expansion and development — the purpose of the tax — they suggested a two per cent addition to the current corporation profits tax.

Attorney General Blackwell said it was a small sum the average wage earner would pay for what he would receive in benefits of hospitalization. In effect, he said, the amusement tax was a form of insurance.

There would be no advantage in increasing corporation taxes, he said, since the boost would be passed on to the buyers in the form of higher prices.

Mr. Frost said he hoped the Dominion would vacate the field of amusement taxation by the end of this month so that the province could get started on its program of hospital development.

At present hospital facilities were not sufficient to allow implementation of a national health plan. But Ontario's program to be financed with amusement tax would bring closer the day when hospital facilities could support a national health scheme.

Numerous Questions Asked

During discussion of the power changeover bill, opposition members directed numerous questions at Premier Drew.

Farquhar Oliver, Liberal opposition leader, said he was in favor of the proposed conversion in Southern Ontario from 25 to 60-cycle power.

He asked if it were wise to continue putting 25-cycle equipment into farm areas when the plan will require its change in a few years.

The Premier said rural electrification would not be held up on account of the conversion.

Mr. Oliver: Would private manufacturers be inclined to continue production of 25-cycle products during the changeover period?

Premier Drew: Wise manufacturers would watch progress of the program and set production plans accordingly, decreasing 25-cycle manufacturing and increasing 60-cycle production as conversion continued.

Mr. Grummett: Why wasn't the large reserve — about $87,000,000 applied to lower hydro rates in Ontario?

War is Blamed

Premier Drew: It was the war. There was well-based fear that power facilities in Ontario might be damaged or destroyed as a result of enemy action or sabotage. The reserve was kept for emergency.

Mr. Harvey: Suppose a man has his equipment changed from 25 to 60-cycle current during the conversion, and then moves back to a 25-cycle area before the changeover is complete in Southern Ontario. Will the second change in equipment be paid for by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

Premier Drew: Such conditions have been considered and the estimates provide for such costs to the commission.

Mr. Grummett: Since Ontario will continue to get power from Quebec companies who will pay for changing equipment in that province.

Premier Drew: Since Ontario asked those companies to build equipment for 25-cycle power, Ontario will also pay for change in generators.

Easter Holidays

Schools are out and the bells will not ring until the week after next and boyhood and girlhood are free to enjoy the pulsing spring.

Easter holidays are a wise provision, a break in the teaching term from New Year's to the end of June when summer is already at hand; pupils are free to enjoy this season of the year in observing the processes of nature and to delight in the sense of freedom which late March and early April foster. Teachers too with the hard grind of three months past feel the healing power of this time. After the week and more of freedom, both scholars and teachers come back refreshed in mind and heart and body by the rest and change through the holidays. From then on they go forward to the three months of April, May and June to round out the twelve months' progress in education. The present vacation is not long but the benefits are vital.

Greece

Greece which defied the boasting tyrant Mussolini, defies forces of disintegration today as she battles the guerrillas and stands firmly by democracy.

Hers is a deathless story which through all the ages has been the inspiration of freedom. Twenty-five centuries ago this classic land hurled back the Persian armies and fleets and saved the western world so that it might develop according to western ideals of liberty. During the Second World War she stood staunchly by the democracies of the world against two nations which had become the willing slaves of aggressors and tyrants, Germany and Italy, and suffered greatly but earned again for herself the everlasting glory of halting the Hitler thrust towards the East.

Since the war's end she has been subjected to pressure but has remained as ever loyally by the democratic peoples. There in her strategic position in the Eastern Mediterranean she is as resolute as ever in her history.

This land, so rich in the courage of her people through twenty-five hundred or three thousand years of world history, whose resources are first of all the courage of her sons and daughters, her noble history in democracy and her loyalty to freedom under the greatest trials of the past few years, is not a rich country at all and is small, mountainous and rocky, and rugged in climate in the winter. She digs her resources out of the soil by the patient sweat of her agricultural class. Hers has been a struggle but all her history has been a heroic struggle. She struggled through the threats of invasions in classic days, she has gone through centuries of occupation and life has been a struggle but she moves forward. She is always on the side of right. She gave the world a great share of the riches of thought, philosophy and science and produced the greatest era in the arts of all time and she still is resolute in her stand. Today she is with those stronger nations of democracy and takes her share in preserving the security of the world.

Hers is a record of greatness which inspires younger and more powerful nations.

Still the Weather

Man so soon forgets. Of course he remembers it was cold during the late winter and is ready to boast how chilly it was but when it comes to wearing his overcoat it is different. He is ready to shift from the heavy coat to a lighter one on the first hint of a mild day.

This latest dip in weather is just another hint that March is not yet out and no one knows—even the Weather Man is unable to tell—just what will yet come. It is difficult to believe when the sun is shining and pelting down warmth on a March day that it is still March with nearly a week yet to go.

The mild spell which has been so enjoyable brought a number of results besides coaxing some to switch to a very light coat. It was accompanied by rain which has left an effect which will be beneficial for it released the waters which were so much needed by the Ontario Hydro Commission and other power organizations of Canada and brought the end of the recently imposed power restrictions in this Province. In this district there was an abundance of flooding but in other parts of the country there was flooding on a large scale with waters rising to very high levels.

How favorable the break-up of the Moira River was and how the factors controlling such events as annual spring freshets on rivers and streams worked hereabouts to bring about an orderly opening-up of the Moira is clear enough now in the light of the unprecedented rampages of rivers and creeks in other parts of this Province. More unfavorable local conditions could have changed the situation greatly.

Balmy weather for several days has just about been in step with the coming of spring. But March has yet to make its exit. Yet whatever befall, man is all enthusiasm for the continuance of the idyllic spring weather of the first days of this week, with the rusty-looking sod taking on a tinge of the green of earliest spring and the tulips bursting out of the earth.

Norsemen of Algoma

Hats off to Mr. J. W. Curran of The Sault Ste. Marie Star. Faces under the hats may be red, but the hats must come off just the same.

For years this rugged Algoma editor has had two main subjects. One was timber wolves. (His slogan: "any man who says he has been et by a wolf is a liar.") The other was his insistence that the Norsemen had penetrated the heart of the continent long before Christopher Columbus landed on its coast.

People used to smile behind their hands. Poor old Curran, they would say, a good man once, but see what happens when a man gets a bee in his bonnet. Norsemen in Algoma! What next! Even when Mr. Curran produced swords and helmets that certainly looked Norse, they all looked the other way.

Now the Smithsonian Institution, after prolonged study of rune-stones in Minnesota, has declared the evidence conclusive that a party of Norsemen reached that area probably from Greenland, as early as 1264. If they got to Minnesota, there is no reason we know of why they did not come by Sault. It would be, in fact, a natural route for these seafaring men, following the waterways and the lakes.

So, as we remark, hats off to Mr. Curran, who called the play long before the Smithsonian scientists took a hand in it.—Montreal Star.

PATHS ALONG HIGHWAYS

The time has not yet arrived when everybody goes on wheels; there are still people old-fashioned enough to prefer walking, and plenty who cannot afford the luxury of an automobile. These are deserving of more consideration than they get, and it is really surprising how patient they are. Compared with the cost of permanent highway, the little path along the side which wuold serve for the accommodation of the pedestrian is a minor problem. Perhaps that is why it receives such scant consideration from the authorities, Sarnia Canadian Observer notes.

Drill yourself in little things and from them proceed to greater. — Epictetus.

BEAUTY EVERYWHERE

Oh, whether north or south men live,
Or east or distant west;
It seems the Lord has tried to give
The charms that suit them best.
I've found no haunt so barren made
His love has not embraced;
And, suited to the sun and shade,
With bits of beauty graced.

The palm trees by the southern sea
Repeat the ocean's song.
The pine and elm and maple tree
To northern scenes belong.
There's glory on the mountains tall.
On wood and open field
The Lord's great love for one and all
In beauty is revealed.

Always the charms we know the best
Are those we long to see.
Home, north or south or east or west,
'Tis there we wish to be.
For some the palm, for some the pine,
For some the mountains tall;
But everywhere, the Lord Divine
Has blessed us, one and all.

Claim N.Z. Workers Can't Buy Luxuries

By J. C. GRAHAM
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Wellington, N. Z., March 25 — (CP) — A claim by the government's economic information service that a man earning under $20 a week in New Zealand can have an automobile and a refrigerator if he spends his money wisely has aroused the ire of trade unionists who claim that such things are luxuries beyond the reach of the skilled tradesman, who earns about $25 a week.

The economic information service said that in a working life of 40 years a worker on $19.20 a week earned more than $38,400.

A pre-war survey showed that the average family spent 35 per cent of annual income on food, 22 per cent on housing, 12 per cent on clothing, 6 per cent on fuel and lighting, 3 per cent on household equipment, 4 per cent on insurance and 4 per cent on transport. Part of the remaining 14 per cent was saved and the rest spent on small luxuries. By cutting down on these non-essential items, this money could be saved to buy refrigerators, cars and radios.

Before the war, New Zealand had one of the highest proportions of cars per capita of any country outside North America, but prices today are making many people who have saved up for an automobile wonder if they ever will be able to afford one. The smallest English cars cost from $1,600 to $2,000 and the lowest - priced American or Canadian cars are about $2,300. Even in better homes refrigerators are far from universal.

"Such utter balderdash has never been written before," declared T. Hill, national secretary of the New Zealand Waterside Workers' Union. "The best economist in New Zealand is the housewife and she would be pleased to get a formula that would show her how to live and provide food, clothing and shelter for her family — without any thought of either a motor - car or a refrigerator.

"This silly information could contribute to great domestic discord. In fact, even on $25 a week, earned by working overtime most families show a deficit. I know that thousands of my members have competent wives and mothers who are hard put to it to provide the necessities of life today."

DEMANDS FORRESTAL BE DISMISSED

Sen. Glen Taylor of Idaho, above, demanded that President Truman fire Defence Secretary Forrestal for opposing the partition of Palestine to protect American oil interests in Arabia. Taylor, vice-presidential candidate on Henry A. Wallace's ticket, said in a letter to Mr. Truman that Forrestal "has been most aggressive" in trying to have U. S. foreign and military policy shaped to "the interests of the oil companies."

Three Young Men To Stand Trial For Bank Holdup

Windsor, Ont., March 25 — (CP)— Three young men, two from Windsor, one from Amherstburg, Ont., were committed for high court trial yesterday, charged with the Feb. 16 armed robbery of a Royal Bank branch here.

The three charged are: Fred Bouzide, 18; Paul Stuart, 25, Amherstburg, and Alex Frazekas, 22.

Bank Manager Donald Boynton testified that $2,963 was stolen and the staff herded into the vault, and warned to stay there for five minutes.

Two Peterborough girls, Miss Helen Compton and Miss Viola Whatman, said "the boys" bought them clothing, and took them to Hamilton.

A third witness, Mrs. Shirley Beaver, of Hamilton, said two of the trio, the two girls, she and her husband "did the town" in Hamilton, and said she was told the three youths robbed a bank.

Miss Compton said she and Miss Whatman came to Windsor to look for jobs. She said she met the three young men over a space of two weeks.

She said she saw them all the morning of Feb. 16 and met them again at 4 p.m. The boys offered to buy them new clothes.

She met them again at 6.30 p.m. and they had an automobile. They drove to Hamilton, arriving at noon the next day. She said Frazekas left them that night, and returned to Windsor.

Bomb-Damaged Mansion Bought By Canadian Govt.

London, March 25 —(CP)— A bomb-damaged mansion once valued at £40,000 ($160,000) has been purchased by the Canadian government as a permanent residence for Norman Robertson, Dominion High Commissioner in London, and his successors, The Canadian Press learned Wednesday.

Canada House declined to confirm that the sale was completed but Way and Waller, estate agents, said the mansion has been sold for between £20,000 and £25,000.

Once one of London's finest homes and the scene of lavish parties before the war, the house at 12 Upper Brook Street, near Grosvenor Square, is situated in an area known familiarly as "Embassy Row."

Extensive renovations are necessary and it is unlikely that the high commissioner will be able to occupy the house at least for some months.

OPTIMAL RATION FOR C V D

Although for years I have owelt on the minutaness of the daily requirements of iodin for children and adults, that is, the very small amount of iodin everybody needs for good nutrition and good health, correspondents tell me how many drops or grains of iodine or iodide they are taking and frightening me by adding that they are taking it upon my advice.

For the nth time I repeat I do not advise or recommend taking medicinal doses of iodine or iodide in any circumstance—if you take medicinal iodine or iodide you should take it only as your physician directs. If you are interested in the Iodin Ration which I recommend for everybody, child, youth or adult, ask in writing for the instructions for taking the Iodin Ration, and inclose a stamped envelope bearing your address.

Now for adults who have reached the acme of life, the peak, the very pinnacle of manhood or womanhood or at least what should be the full bloom of growth and development — I'd rather not be more specific but say middle age and I don't quibble about it—I suggest a special iodin ration, but please remember, old timers, this is still nutritional, not medicinal, and it is not a remedy to "try" for a while. If you take it at all you should take it from now on, as regularly as you take meat and potatoes, bread and butter, tea and toast, or whatever victuals you live on.

Adoniram J. Quimby, M. D. found that hardening of the arteries and the other features or manifestations of cardio-vascular degeneration are less frequent among seafaring men notwithstanding their hard life. Dr. Quimby thought this might be due to their habit of eating sea food—fish, shellfish, Irish moss (chondrus, caragheen), foods that contain considerable iodin.

Dr. Quimby further suggested that the invigorating effect of sea air may be due to the iodin in it. He regarded iodin as a preventive against the premature aging of persons who work for years with X-ray. He advocated daily consumption of a minute quantity of iodine (medicinal) as a preventive against high blood pressure and arterisclerosis (hardening of the arteries). He acerred that such use of iodine (medicinal) seemed distinctly tonic, a tonic I may remind you, is anything that improves function and declared that it increases exuberance of spirit and ambition. Finally Dr. Quimby asserted that some athletes go "stale" because their daily intake of iodin is insufficient, and a special iodin ration will sometimes put the worn or exhausted business man (and I, Brady, would mention also the worn or exhausted housewife) back in condition, even when a vacation fails to do any good.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Polyps

For the last five years I have had a succession of polyps in the nose. They were removed with snare several times but within a few months they grow again . . . Cannot breathe through nose in cold weather or when there is any change. (S. M.)

Answer—That is the usual history. The underlying sinus infection must be corrected, surgically or otherwise. Removing polyp, in any case, is only a palliative measure, for temporary relief of obstruction. As long as the underlying infection remains the polyp is likely to recur.

Crippled Tooth

Dentist filled tooth a year ago, but said he feared the filling would not prove successful because there was so little tooth to hold it. Now again having pain in that tooth. I am 34, have all my teeth and hate to lose this one—is it advisable to have the nerve killed and keep the tooth? (Mrs. W. F. A.)

Answer—If it were mine I'd leave it to my dentist to say which course is likely to give the most satisfaction. If extraction were decided upon, it would be only on condition that a functionally efficient denture can be immediately installed. No vacancies.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Can a person be a citizen of a State without being a citizen of the United States?

Whether a person can be a citizen of a State without being a citizen of the United States is a point on which authorities differ and which has never been definitely settled.

The Federal Constitution as originally adopted declared that, "The citizens of each State shall be entitled to all the privileges and immunities of citizens in the several States," and the Congress shall have power "to establish an uniform rule of naturalization."

For 80 years after the adoption of the Constitution there was no adequate definition of what constitutes a "citizen of a State" and a "citizen of the United States." Many eminent jurists held that no person could be a citizen of the United States except as he was a citizen of one of the States. Yet the fact that residents of the District of Columbia and the Federal Territories could be citizens of the United States without being citizens of any State indicated that Federal citizenship and State citizenship were distinct and might be separately acquired.

Section of the 4th Amendment to the Constitution, which became effective in 1868, was designed primarily to confer citizenship upon persons of African descent, but it also defined citizenship and distinguished to some extent between citizenship of the United States and of a State. That Section reads: "All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States, and of the States wherein they reside. No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws."

The privileges and immunities guaranteed by this provision to citizens of each State in all the States are those that are common to the citizens in the States and under their constitutions and laws by virtue of being citizens.

This provision does not guarantee in other States the special privileges enjoyed by citizens in their own States. Although a State cannot make an alien a citizen of the United States, it may confer on him all the privileges that it confers on its own citizens, including the privilege of voting.

It seems that a person can be a citizen of a State without being a citizen of the United States, but "citizen" has a different meaning in the two cases. A State cannot make a person a complete citizen in the political sense that the term is used in the Constitution. It can merely clothe him with all the civil privileges of such a citizen, but the protection of these privileges is limited by the power of the State within its own jurisdiction.

Buddies 17 Years, Both Now Sleuths

Montreal (CP)—At one time they manned a street car together but now, 17 years later, they are one of the sharpest detective teams on the Montreal police force.

Their names are Henri Desjardins and Rocco Del 'Aniello and they cover one of the toughest beats in the city. The pair are inseparable. They work together 16 hours a day and plan their cases together; they go to court together and present almost identical evidence.

They first met in 1930 when both were employed by the Montreal Tramways Company. Fate so arranged it that one day they were booked together on the same street-car and for several months they handled the same vehicle over lines in northeastern Montreal.

Then each decided independently to join the Montreal police force. They made application and were enrolled on the same date, May 1, 1930. After pounding separate beats for a time each was promoted to the detective bureau.

They had occasion to work together several times but it was only a few months ago that they teamed up together to become one of the best teams on the force.

"It's a happy day for crippled kids" says ten-year-old David Sommer, "when the camp nurse comes round to ask if we can go to camp." Miss Isabel Fairchild, Director of Camps for the Ontario Society for Crippled Children points out to him a new addition to the camp this year. Actively supported by many groups of Rotarians, Shriners, Kiwanis, Lions and other service clubs, the two camps operated by the Society, Blue Mountain on Georgian Bay and Wooden near London, are a proven factor in the rehabilitation of Ontario's afflicted youngsters. Each year over 350 children from all parts of the province spend a summer holiday which is both training and vacationing. One main result of last year's Easter Seal Sales was raising enough funds to commence operations on a camp to be located in Eastern Ontario. This year's Easter Campaign funds will help broaden this effort as well as clinical, transportation, hospitalization, nursing and other services to crippled children within the province.

United Nations Discussed By Women's Guild

Young Women's Guild met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. M. P. Buck, 22 Chatham St. Mrs. Kerr conducted the devotional period, dealing with the Christian way of life individually, nationally and internationally.

The topic for discussion was the United Nations, conducted by Miss Olive Elson, assisted by Mrs. A. Wells, Miss K. Daly, and Miss Joy Nicholls.

Membership in the United Nations is open to all peace loving states, which accept the obligations of the Charter, and are judged by the organization to be able and willing to carry out these obligations.

Its purpose is to maintain international peace and security, to develop friendly relations among nations based on the equal rights and self determination of peoples and to take other appropriate measures to strengthen peace; to achieve co-operation in solving international, economic, social, cultural and humanitarian problems, and in promoting and encouraging respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms for all, without distinction of race, sex, language or religion; to be a centre for harmonizing the actions of nations in achieving these ends.

It is composed of six different organs, The General Assembly, The Security Council, The Economic and Social Council, The Trusteeship Council, The International Court of Justice and The Secretariat. There are several special agencies.

Canada Well Represented

Canada is very well represented, Gen. McNaughton is admittedly one of the ablest men on the Atomic Energy Commission. L.B. Pearson distinguished himself when he presided over the General Assembly. Canada is represented on eight of the subsidiary organs.

From present indications it is found that the United Nations has a very difficult job to perform. In passing a verdict, it is well to remember, that it is still comparatively new, that it requires a good deal of care and attention, it was never intended to make or establish the foundations of peace, but only to preserve a peace that was to have been made. Mankind should not write it off as a lost cause, because at times it appears not to be successful in its endeavors. President Truman says, "It is still the brightest hope of the world."

The subject was found to be so extensive, that it was decided to continue in more detail at a future meeting.

Lunch was served by the hostess committee, and Mrs. Buchanan thanked Mrs. Buck for her hospitality.

Two of Bach's Monumental Easter Compositions Will be Broadcast Here

In keeping with the solemnity of the occasion of Good Friday and Easter Sunday, CJBQ will offer to its listening audience two outstanding performances in the realm of sacred music, especially so in relation to these two Christian Festivals. Beginning at 2.00 p.m., on Good Friday afternoon, a complete performance of Bach's immortal St. Matthew Passion will be presented in its entirety. The Passions of Bach were written for Good Friday services. They tell the story of Jesus according to his disciples. Of the five passions that Bach wrote, only two still exist, the St. John Passion, and the St. Matthew Passion.

Supreme Work of Bach

The St. Matthew Passion is one of the supreme works of Bach, and is "the deepest and most moving expression of devotional feeling in the whole of musical literature. It is at all times an intensely and personal and true setting of the text." The work as a whole has a decidedly epic character. Although it is cast in a colossal mould, lasting over three hours when performed fully, demanding double orchestra and double choirs, with even in one number, a ninth voice added, one forgets the elaborate means employed, and the story passes along in the simplest manner, viewed by a mind full of reverence, sympathy and faith.

Of interest to many will be the fact that this will be the second time as far as can be ascertained that this work will have been presented over the air on the entire North American Continent, the radio premiere having been given last night in an actual performance from Toronto

Begins at Noon

Beginning at twelve noon on Easter Sunday, there will be a special Easter presentation of Bach's stupendous "Mass in 'B' Minor". This work overshadows everything else that Bach ever wrote. Its structure is so vast that it could never be performed as part of any church service. Its extent and elaborateness of design clearly fit it for the concert hall, or at least for special presentation such as it has received so often and so satisfactorily in famous Bach festivals throughout the world.

Few works in the entire musical repertoire tower to such inspired heights; few single works contain within themselves so wide a gamut of feeling, thought and contemplation to those wishing to hear a memorable presentation, of these two magnificent sacred works as performed by the finest artists and groups available through the means of contemporary recordings. Both the St. Matthew Passion to be heard Good Friday and Bach's Mass in 'B' Minor will be annotated and described by Mr. Eugene Lang, the regular commentator of the CJBQ Symphonic Hour heard on Sunday mornings.

Only One of Kind

Mr. Lang is to be commended for his efforts in this regard, inasmuch as the recording is the only one of its kind in Canada. It is an original German version recorded in Germany. As an afterthought, the Easter program of the Symphonic Hour will present compositions appropriate to this time of the year. Included in the works to be heard will be, Rimsky-Korsakoff's Russian Easter Overture and Schumann's Spring Symphony.

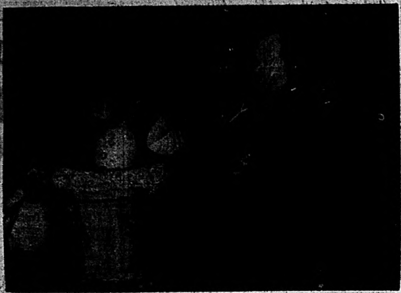
WEATHER TO GROW LEMON PLANTS!



William Mackie, manager of a local implement company in Regina, Sask., has a dwarf type lemon plant growing in the window of his office. On it can be seen two large, juicy lemons all ready to go into a taste tempting pie. The plant, six years old, has produced four crops of lemons, bearing two on each occasion. It is about 15 inches high and Mr. Mackie says that the lemons grown on his tree give four times as much juice as the store varieties because of the fact that they are tree-ripened. Dwarf lemon plant is native of California, produces about six lemons per crop in that climate. It requires considerable care, and a great deal of manufactured plant food to grow well.

CPR.s New Came up Hard Way

Winnipeg (CP)—A typical railroadman's railroadman would be one way of describing W. A. Mather, recently appointed president of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Billy Mather—as his friends call him—came up the hard way. Starting as an ax-man with a survey gang, he has reached the president's desk by push—not "pull."

Broad-shouldered, with stocky build, wavy iron-grey hair, and a healthy color in his cheeks, he strikes you as being calm and competent.

You can't imagine him getting excited, but you can visualize him getting plenty of action when action is needed.

"Do you think advice is worth a darn? Think anybody pays any attention to it?" he replied with a smile, when asked what advice he had for young fellows starting out in life.

Then he added: "If any young fellow asked me, I would tell him to concentrate on learning everything connected with his work so that—if the boss asks for anything—he's the man they come to."

Mr. Mather sits at a long mahogany table with a glass top. There is nothing on the top but a desk set, an ash tray and a few files of correspondence. You don't need to be told that he keeps his mind, like his desk, uncluttered with minor details.

This theory is that once you've chosen a man to run a job, you should let him run it with a minimum of interference. And he has the knack of picking the right man.

Studied Engineering

Mr. Mather was born at Oshawa, Ont., but his family moved in 1879 to Keewatin, Ont., where his father went into the lumber business. He went to McGill University graduating in 1902 as a civil engineer. At McGill he played goal for the university hockey team. Railroading was on his mind even while at varsity and he spent his summer holidays working with survey gangs.

He got his first permanent work with the railroad in 1903 and by 1910 he was a transit man in charge of grading the double track between Winnipeg and Brandon, Man. He was transferred to the operating department in 1912 when he became acting superintendent at Kenora, Ont.

From then on his climb was rapid. He became superintendent at Medicine Hat, Alta.; assistant general superintendent at Vancouver; general superintendent at Calgary, and in 1933 was sent to Montreal as assistant to the vice-president, Grant Hall. He came to Winnipeg in 1934 as general manager, western lines, and was made vice-president in 1942.

As for hobbies and relaxation he remarks: "I like to think I am a bit of a sailor, I've had some success fishing, and I used to be able to hit the odd duck."

He also calls himself a consistent golfer. "My score is consistently bad."

$50 FOUND BY THIEVES

Toronto, March 24 (CP)—The boys worked hard for that $50 last night.

The gang dragged a 1,200-pound safe from the office to the shipping room of a north end firm smashed open the strong box with sledge hammers and crowbars, a job requiring considerable labor and then found only $50.

Tweed

Service Diploma Presented To Reeve Chas. Rush

Tweed (Special) — The feature event of a recent meeting of the Tweed Agricultural Society was the presentation of a Service Diploma to Reeve Chas. Rush, Hungerford township. This diploma is awarded by the Board each year to a member who has given much of his time and energies to the promotion and interests of the fair. Mr. H. M. Coulter, Past President, addressed Mr. Rush, and the presentation was made by the secretary, John Sager. Mr. Rush recovered from his surprise to thank the officers and directors for the honor. He assured them that it would be a cherished memento of his association with the Tweed Agricultural Society.

Mr. Dennis Fleming, President, presided over the assembly of fourteen officers and directors, and five lady directors. A report on the provincial agricultural convention held in Toronto was given by the president. It was decided by the committee that 60 bushels of registered Beaver Oat Seed be ordered for Field Crop Competition through Mr. E. Hodgins, Tweed Feed Mill. The seed is to be supplied by the mill to the farmers at cost.

Among the suggestions put forth as a means of raising funds to defray the costs of the new grandstand were hardball, softball games and horse races.

A report on the district meeting held in Belleville last Friday was given by Mr. Coulter. The secretary was authorized to go ahead with the prize list. The board of directors agreed to meet every first Saturday of the month, starting the first of June and continuing until after the fair September 14th and 15th.

Grows Tomatoes And Canteloupe By Peace River

Edmonton, (CP)—The "Early Gardens" are probably the most northerly commercial flower and vegetable gardens in Canada—but they have definitely become legendary in Northern Alberta.

Owned and operated by 81-year-old Joseph B. Early, holdings now under cultivation include 330 acres. However, only 30 acres are used for the gardens—the remaining 300 acres are operated by Mr. Early's son and are seeded to the usual grains.

Out of the gardens come sweet corn, tomatoes, cucumber, peppers, celery, watermelon, canteloupe and many other hardier vegetables. In addition to the vegetables he has what he calls his "show window" of more than 12,000 gladioli, the finest collection of delphinium in the province, and thousands of annuals. He prides himself on the fact that he can identify every one of his 175 varieties of gladoli on sight.

Belgian Horses, Too

To add to the variety, Mr. Early also boasts of 16 head of purebred Belgian horses, a large swine herd and some of the usual farm stock.

In an area where water is as precious as gold—the Peace River Valley in Northern Alberta—Mr. Early has a perfect source of moisture. Natural spring water flows through his farm and he has installed an irrigation system throughout his gardens. Since the water is very cold, the irrigation ditches were constructed so that the water would run sluggishly, thus warming up before being taken to the land.

On Sunday afternoons during the summer, as many as 100 automobiles bring visitors to the farm to buy vegetables and flowers and just "look around." Mr. Early says that with an average of four people to a car, he's rather crowded at times.

Some afternoons, parties buy a sack of sweet corn and then go down to the river bank, build a bonfire and have a corn-roast.

WARNS NOT TO DRIVE AFTER DOMESTIC SQUABBLE

Washington, March 24 — (AP) — Don't drive a car after you've lost an argument with the wife. You may have an accident.

An expert on safety says an assertive reaction after losing a domestic squabble often causes a driver to disregard safety considerations and step down hard on the accelerator.

Dr. Amos Neyhart, head of the Institute of Public Safety at Pennsylvania State College, says too many motorists are "expressing suppressed desires behind the wheel of a car."

The Mixing Bowl

Hello Homemakers! Eggs are what might be called "First Aid" foods. In emergencies, if handled properly, they can be made into very good dishes such as omelettes. They make delectable desserts—custards and souffles—if cooked slowly and removed from the heat at the right moment.

We talked about custards and souffles recently but what about those omelettes? Omelettes are adaptable and allow for plenty of variation. A plain or jelly omelette for breakfast; a western, cheese or Spanish omelette for dinner—or possibly a fruit omelette for dessert.

Where most omelettes "fall down" is in the cooking. Slow cooking at a low temperature is the secret of a successful omelette.

There are two main types of omelette—the fluffy or foamy, and the French. The former has a lighter texture when finished, but if not throughly cooked, it falls rapidly.

It is made by beating yolks and whites separately, adding 1 tablespoon of liquid—milk, water, tomato or vegetable juice for each egg. This liquid is mixed with the yolks. When the greased frying pan is hot (but not smoking), the stiffly beaten whites are folded into the yolks and the mixture is poured into the pan. Then the heat is reduced and the omelette is cooked very slowly until set.

For a French omelette, the eggs are beaten very slightly, with the required liquid (one tablespoon per egg). During the slow cooking the mixture is lifted from the bottom as it sets and the pan tipped to allow the undercooked portion to run underneath. Serve from the pan to hot plates.

* * *

TAKE A TIP

To fold an omelette: Holding the pan with the handle directly in front of you, loosen the omelette around the edges. Now, using a spatula and with the pan tilted slightly away from the handle, start to turn the omelette away from the handle. Then holding the edge of the warm uplatter, flip the omelette on to the platter, letting it turn right over so that the underside becomes the top.

To test a Fluffy Omelette: Press the top lightly and if there is no finger impression, the mixture is cooked.

FLUFFY OMELETTE

6 eggs, 6 tbsps. water, 3-4 tsp. salt, 1-8 tsp. pepper.

Separate yolks from whites. Beat whites until stiff but not dry. Add water, salt and pepper to egg yolks and beat. Fold yolks into whites and then pour into hot greased frying pan. Cook over low heat. When the omelette has browned on the bottom (test by lifting edge with spatula), set it in moderate oven to finish cooking for 10 mins. Fold and serve at once.

VARIATIONS OF FLUFFY OMELETTE

Jelly Omelette — Before folding, spread with jelly or jam.

Chicken Omelette—Add 1-2 cup minced chicken to mixture and spread 1 cup between fold.

Mushroom Omleette—Add 1 cup browned mushrooms to egg mixture.

Fruit Omelette — Add 1 cup diced, drained fruit to egg mixture plus 1 tps. sugar for a 6-egg omelette to serve 6.

BUDGET OMELETTE

1 1-2 cups soft bread crumbs, 1 1-2 cups milk, 6 eggs separated, salt and pepper, 1-4 cup grated cheese.

Mix milk and crumbs, let soak, add salt and pepper and combine with bread mixture and cheese. Fold in beaten egg whites. Pour into hot greased pan and cook slowly until firm about 25 mins. Cook in a slow oven for the last 10 min.—if you wish to brown the top.

VARIATIONS OF FRENCH OMELETTE

1. Spanish Omelette—Add 1-4 cup chili sauce.
2. Grand Omelette—Substitute 1-4 cup tomato juice for 1-4 cup milk.
3. Vegetable Omelette—Fold 3-4 cup creamed vegetables into omelette.

HUNTER'S STYLE OMELETTE

Fry 6 slices of pork shoulder and 4 sliced cooked potatoes until brown. Season with salt and pepper and place half of these in the omelette before folding and arrange the rest around the edge.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

College Introduction Problem

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a freshman at college, and in a few weeks my mother and father are coming here to visit me. Of my introductions of them while they are here, I want them to be proud. . .and toward that end, I need your help!

1. How should I introduce my mother to a man professor?

2. How should I introduce my father to a woman professor?

3. How should I introduce a classmate (or other college friend) to my parents?

4. And another introduction problem. Is it really necessary for me, a student to introduce myself to members of the faculty who are my teachers, when I meet them at large college social gatherings? This is a large college, the classes are large, and at the two or three teas I've attended, I've of course recognized my teachers, but they've been "vague" (to put it mildly!) about recognizing me. Of course I do not want to force myself on them so that they will have to talk with me, but on the other hand, I do want to do what is polite.

Frances T.

1. First, Frances, let's correct the wording of your first question. . .you should introduce the man professor to your mother. There is a double rule about this: (1) always introduce a man to a woman, and (2) introduce everyone to your mother. Say, for example, "Mother, this is Professor Robinson—my mother, Mrs. Thompson." (I suggest in this case the addition to your mother's name, since the professor may not at once recall your name.) This same form is proper when you introduce a woman professor to your mother. And instead of using the form "this is," you may, in your introductions, say "may I present" or "may I introduce".

2 When you introduce your father to a woman professor, mention her name first, saying, "Professor Seymour, may I present my father, Mr. Thompson". (Your father's name mentioned for the same reason of name-identification to the professor.)

3. "Mother, this is Mary Hill, a classmate of mine who lives in my dormitory." . . . "Jane Forbes, this is my father (or 'may I present my father')."

4. Your sense of courtesy, appropriate courtesy, is entirely right in these circumstances. Naturally it isn't easy for faculty members, particularly in a large college, and, most particularly with freshmen, to remember the names of students, and I assure you that they will greatly appreciate your forthright introduction of yourself to them. Simply say, "How do you do, Professor Marsh. I am Frances Thompson. I am in your eleven o'clock History class. And he or she will be mighty pleased "if you add "—and I want to tell you how very much I enjoy your class." If you honestly do enjoy the class (don't say it if you don't), naturally your words of appreciation will please the professor, and your gracious comment will provide a perfect conversational lead.

Woman Offers Her Hand First for Handshake-With-Introduction

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a man is introduced to a woman, is it he or she who is the first one to offer to shake hands?

Floria

Correctly it is the woman who is expected to offer her hand first. . . . If there is to be a handsake accompanying the introduction, which, nine times out of ten, nowadays, there isn't. However, if the man is a cordial person who is naturally inclined to shake hands to express his cordiality, and so offers his hand first, of course the woman immediately offers her hand.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Chins Should Stay Single

There are women with slender bodies and lovely oval faces who have been astonished to find that the chin is underslung, that a little roll of flesh is appearing where it has no business to be. There are explanations for this strange state of affairs. It can come through fixed facial habits. Emphasizing one's speech with a downward thrust of the chin, as in disapproval, and depressing the chin, instead of holding it up and reasonably forward, are practices that break down the tissues. In the heavyweight, a second chin is sure to appear. A third one may come to form a facial terrace. One must be watchful.

Vigorous massage, of the right kind, will break up the excess tissue. A heavy cream should be applied—always on a clean skin surface—to offer resistance to the manipulations. Pick up the flesh in tiny folds and roll between thumb and first finger. Stroke from chin tip along the jawline to the ears, then do the same movement farther down until you are working on the throat. When starting this movement, curve the first finger of each hand, have the knuckles meet. The treatment is heavier when the knuckles are used instead of flattened fingers.

While the cream remains on, have an ice friction. Move the cube about in the same manner as you have used your fingers, lifting the flesh gently.

Cold compresses are effective. The best time for this treatment is when you are about to go to bed.

Dip several folds of gauze in an ice cold astringent —witch hazel will serve—and place over the chin. Then on with a chin strap to hold it in place. There will be a quick reaction of the blood streams. The flesh will be warm and glowing. Speeding up circulation is one of the best ways of toning tissues that have become inert and depleted.

A few minutes spent each day in toning exercises will help the fight against the extra chin. The purpose is to strengthen the muscles that extend from the jaws down into the chest. Strong muscles mean that the flesh will have a smooth surface, that contour will be normal.

Sit in a straight-backed chair, hands on the hips, chest high spinal column fully extended, head on the level.

Send the head as far back as you can, at the same time inhaling deeply through the nostrils. Still maintaining the thrown-back pose, turn the head from side to side. After two turns, exhale, bring the head back to first position and repeat.

When sleeping, don't go into a huddle with shoulders drawn forward, chin on chest. Sleep with the body in such a position that breathing is free and the head is thrown slightly backward.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Impatience Gets Nobody Anywhere

Youth and impatience are two words that go together. To learn the wisdom of waiting requires some years of living.

That, of course, is why young people who write me about their romances are so apt to say: "Don't tell me to forget because I can't", or, "Please don't think that because of my age I am not in love."

The second of those two sentences is a direct quote from a letter I have just received from an 18-year-old girl who is a college freshman. She is completely convinced at this time that she is permanently in love with a young man who is a senior at the college she attends.

The young man in whom she is so deeply interested has, she says, "almost everything I want in a boy—looks, money, ambition, family, everything." Moreover, she feels they are particularly congenial, with similar backgrounds and interests. Neither of them cares too much for excitement. On the contrary, they have their best fun when they just sit at home, play games and talk. "We don't neck—we just have fun," this girl says.

Now from the standpoint of a middle-aged adult, it seems as though this girl might be very well satisfied with things as they are for the time being. But not youth! Not eighteen! So far, from being satisfied with the situation, this girl is in a state of emotional upheaval because her young man does not declare himself in love with her.

"I am just a friend, I think," she writes; "that's all. I keep telling myself that the greatest loves are based in friendship, but I can't seem to reconcile myself to this fact. He seems to be very much interested, and, for a while, I was positive he was falling in love with me. Then all of a sudden we went back to our old footing. So what am I to think? We still date, but nothing ever comes of it. Do you think he is afraid?"

What this girl says she really wants to know is: "Do I keep on the way I am going, hoping something will come of it, or shall I make a clean break while I still can?"

Because she doesn't want me to tell her she is not in love at 18, she has, to a considerable extent, tied my hands—or should I say my tongue? But perhaps she will be willing to go this far with me and concede that, even if this romance should flop, there might be another for her later on. If she will agree to this premise, and not let herself forget it, then I think she would be perfectly safe in letting things ride as they are—letting events shape themselves as they will But, if she does this, she had better school herself to have such patience as she can and not permit herself to waste emotional energy trying to hurry things.

"If, on the other hand, she firmly believes that this is her "one and only love", then I think she had better take the other alternative that she suggests and "make a clean break". For by such a course of action, whether she believes it or not, she would hasten the day when she would be interested in some one else.

RECORD OUTPUT IN 1948 IS AIM OF AUTO MAKERS

By DAVID J. WILKIE

Detroit (CP)—The heaviest production year in their history apparently lies ahead of United States motor-car makers.

In the first nine weeks of the year the car and truck factories turned out nearly 1,000,000 vehicles. By the end of March the total will be in excess of 1,300,000,

This is the conviction of some of the best-informed sources in the automobile industry. By the year's end, these sources say, the factories will have turned out upwards of 5,500,000 cars and trucks. The volume will be achieved without more than a two-shift operation in any of the factories.

Nineteen years ago with most plants operating three-shifts a day, six days a week, the record mark of 5,358,420 vehicles was established.

There is yet another contrast in the car industry's picture today as compared with that of 1929. The industry's market this year easily will absorb all the vehicles that can be produced and leave a sizable bank of unfilled orders. The 1929 output, coming on the eve of one of the worst depressions, was followed by several years of declining production.

A smaller part of this year's American motor-car production will go to Europe, but car makers generally expect no overall drop in their export business. More vehicles, they say, will go to Central and South America and South Africa.

Last year out of a total American production of 4,797,650 cars and trucks, 512,333 were shipped to foreign markets.

Demand a New High

Right now the nation's car industry is enjoying the greatest demand for its product it has ever experienced. This demand appears to hold up despite high prices and prospects of further increases.

It is true that for a limited number of models in the upper medium and higher price brackets almost immediate deliveries can be obtained. For the remainder, which represent close to 80 per cent of all the industry output, the demand far exceeds the supply.

Next major development in the American car industry will be the introduction of new Ford models, set for early June. They will be designated 1949 models, and, according to Henry Ford II, will be completely new. In designing and retooling operations the new models are said to represent a Ford investment of more than $200,000,000.

Details of the new models still are closely guarded. Persons who have seen some of the pilot models say they bear no resemblance to any Ford cars previously made. The change, they add, will be as striking as that made in 1927 when Ford switched from the old model "T" to the model "A".

The change to new models will involve shutdown for Ford of probably six weeks. At the present rate of production that probably will mean a production loss of close to 80,000 units.

What will follow the new model Ford introduction is arousing considerable speculation in industry circles. Many of its chroniclers say Chevrolet and Plymouth, leading competitors with Ford in the lower price brackets, may hasten their 1949 model planning to meet the appeal of a completely redesigned Ford.

So far Plymouth has made virtually no change in its cars since last year and Chevrolet, leading producer in the industry, made only minor changes to avoid a prolonged assembly line shutdown.

"I TALK TOO MUCH"

Spokane, March 25 (AP)—Bob Bob Johnston, a coeur d'Alene, Idaho, student attending Gonzaga University, complained that he wasn't getting any mail.

Some of his "friends" heard him.

They started clipping coupons from magazines.

Advertisements for pre-fabricated houses and muscle building courses poured in.

Letter arrived thanking Johnston for deciding to enroll for banjo lessons, study hotel management, learn Norwegian and take lessons in making Eskimo "snuggles."

A letter from Ecudor brought wishes for a pleasure tour of Central America.

"Sometimes I talk too much," Johnson said.

Defence Minister Calls for Recruits For Canadian Army

Ottawa, March 25 (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton in the Commons yesterday called for recruits for the Canadian Active and Reserve Services.

He said that the Active and Reserve Forces are needed "so that we can be ready to meet any emergency and maintain the existence of our country and the freedom of our people, so that we shall continue to say what kind of life we want to lead."

The minister hoped that the effort to fill up the ranks "will have the support of all parties, of all veterans of the two wars and of the country as a whole."

In reply to a question by Alan Cockeram (PC—York South), Mr. Claxton said that with respect to recruitment for the army "it is contemplated that it will be brought up to strength by March 31, 1949."

He did not have the dates for the navy and air force, but said they are "approximately the same.

Earlier, in a re-statement of the current and authorized strength of the armed forces, he said that at the end of February the strength was 34,276, representing 80 per cent of the authorized strength of 42,145.

"It is interesting to note that the proportion of regulars on strength compared with the target for March 31, 1949, is the same in Canada as in the United Kingdom.

"Unlike other countries which still have men who were enlisted for the duration of hostilities or who were called up for a limited period, all Canadian forces are permanent or regulars."

He reiterated that the current recruiting campaign "has shown good results."

This year up to March 15, a total of 1,625 recruits were obtained, of which approximately half were for the army.

Legislatures Rise On Eve of Easter, Some Prorogued

(By The Canadian Press)

Provincial legislatures rise today, some proroguing their 1948 session and others taking an Easter recess.

The end of this year's deliberations in the Prince Edward Island legislature came early today. In closing hours the House passed a Temperance Act. To become effective if authorized by a plebiscite next June, the Act replaces a Prohibition Act which now requires a doctor's prescription for liquor purchases.

Premier Angus L. Macdonald, who also is provincial treasurer, brought down the Nova Scotia public accounts yesterday. He reported a surplus for the last fiscal year of $9,507,215 which hes aid resulted from a Dominion-Provincial tax agreement bringing $9,493,914 to Nova Scotia.

The Quebec legislature assembly studied the $14,000,000 budget of the roads department with discussion of winter roads policies and highways contracts. It sat afternoon and evening.

In the Ontario House, scheduled to adjourn today for a five-day Easter recess, government plans to take over the amusement tax field as soon as the Dominion vacates it were supported by a 60-to-4 vote on second reading of the bill.

Premier Stuart Garson told the Manitoba legislature he had been corresponding with Trade Minister Howe in Ottawa about the Dominion government's proposal to place domestic marketing of coarse grains under control of the Canadian Wheat Board. He said he sent Mr. Howe his latest letter Tuesday.

A Liberal opposition move to have the single transferable ballot adopted for Saskatchewan elections was voted down at Regina.

The Alberta House passed a motion giving the Social Credit government authority to investigate coarse grain marketing.

Agricultural Minister Frank Putnam told the British Columbia legislature that agriculture in that province should be reasonably stable for some years to come.

$100 BILL IN CAR FOR 2 YEARS

San Diego, Calif., March 25 —(AP)—H. J. Janke found a $100 bill in his automobile yesterday. It had been there for more than two years. Janke discovered the bill in the licence card container. It turned out on inquiry that it had been left there by the son of a man from whom Janke bought the car two years ago. The son, F.C. Grable, said he had just forgotten about it. Janke gave it back.

Guided Missiles Can Search Out An Enemy Ship

New York, March 25 (AP)—Plane maker Glenn L. Martin said yesterday that the United States Navy has perfected guided missiles that can search out an enemy ship and destroy it "even if it is half way across the ocean.

The United States' present-day warfare developments, Martin said, also include a radio-active cloud that will kill anything it touches, new bacteria weapons and an A-bomb far more devastating than those dropped on Japan.

The Navy's guided missile is equipped with a homing device which steers it to its target, Martin, head of the plane manufacturing company that bears his name, said at a press conference.

The missiles also can be used against iron foundries, and "it will be possible to eliminate a nation's steel industry in time."

The radio-active, or atomic, cloud is spread by wind, he declared. There's a danger of it backfiring on its user if turned loose when weather conditions are not suitable but "it is effective over a much larger area than is the atom bomb and might mage the area it touches radio-active for an indefinite time."

Martin also mentioned new bacteria weapons, some of them capable of lying dormant for a time and then "making the victim ill, with an illness from which he does noes not recover."

If another war comes, the new weapons make it likely that its ultimate course would be determined within 65 days, he said. In Washington, the Atomic Energy Commission had no comment on Martin's statements.

Possibility Of War Justifies Purge Of Reds--Attlee

Congress Indignation Mounts Over Reports of Warplane Engines Shipped to Russia

Washington, March 25 (AP) — Indignation mounted in Congress today over testimony that American warplane engines and other supplies have been shipped to Russia at a time of critical world tension.

Spurred by disclosures before his House of Representatives Investigating Committee, Chairman Ross Rizley (Rep.-Okla.) told reporters these moves are under way:

1. A demand on the Department of Commerce for a complete breakdown of all United States materials sent to Russia and her satellites.

2. An immediate check into reports that boxes and crates marked for shipment to Russia "are lying all over the New York waterfront."

3. A full-scale inquiry into the operations of Moore-McCormack Steamship Lines of New York, described by a witness yesterday as the American firm handling all shipments for Amtorg, official Russian purchasing agency in the United States.

Rizley said committee investigators are "already on the spot" to go over Moore-McCormack's records. They also will check reports that 60 Russian-flag ships have been loaded in New York harbor since Jan. 1.

Committee members gaped when Carl Anderson, Assistant Chief of the State Department's International Resources Division, testified yesterday that the Department "has not yet worked out a policy of distinction between shipments to friendly and unfriendly countries."

All Sales Frozen

Rizley said he had been told by Jess Larson, War Assets Administrator, that an "order came through" yesterday freezing the sale of all surplus aircraft, aircraft equipment and parts in the United States.

Other W. A. A. officials said they had no such official notice.

But Rizley commented to reporters: "Presumably the army and the navy now want to keep whatever surplus aircraft they have left until they see what turn world affairs are going to take.

"It is ridiculous shipping potential war material to Uncle Joe Stalin when we may find ourselves actually in need of it."

Rizley called another session of his committee for today with Richard F. Finckie, a former W. A. A. official, now President of the Alpine Corporation of Washington, scheduled as the first witness.

Two witnesses at yesterday's first hearing testified that Finckie sold 30 new airplane engines to Russia through Amtorg for $6,000 each and 16 to Poland some time after May, 1947.

Leroy H. Luckey of Dallas, Tex. testified that he bought the engines originally from W.A.A. and sold them to Finckie. Luckey said the engines were suitable for bombers or troop-carrying planes.

Christians Pray in Gethsemane While Guns Bark in Strife, Jews Mark Purim Quietly

By CARTER L. DAVIDSON

Jerusalem, March 25 (AP) — Christians knelt in prayer this holy Thursday in Jerusalem, while around them rifles barked in the bitter strife between Arabs and Jews.

Holy week worshippers prayed in commemoration of Christ's Last Supper, his betrayal and arrest. While they knelt here gunfire clattered from an Arab village on a hillside where, the Bible says, Judas Iscariot hanged himself.

The danger of death cut to a mere handful the number of Christians of Roman Catholic and Protestant faiths who usually participate in day-long services.

At the spot on Mount Zion where Christ is believed by Christians to have had his Last Supper, pontifical mass was scheduled by Archbishop Msgr. Arthur Hughes, internuncio of the Catholic Church of Cairo.

After mass the churchmen were to walk to the Garden of Gethsemane for prayers at the spot where Christ is believed to have been betrayed by Judas and arrested by Roman soldiers.

Traditional night services in Gethsemane have been cancelled. After dark in Jerusalem has become a dangerous time to roam abroad.

Arab guards, however, have promised immunity to worshippers and will mount a sentry atop the old city hall. It is through a gate in this wall, the Bible says, that Christ walked on his triumphal re-entry into Jerusalem.

It is a day of celebration for the Jews, too. This Thursday is Purim, commemorating the legendary victory of Mordecai and Queen Ehther over Haman, Persian premier of the time of Jewish residence there.

But the Jews have curtailed their observance, too. Fireworks displays, long customary, were cancelled. There are too many other fireworks.

Labor Government Retains Seat In Lincolnshire

Brigg, Lincolnshire, March 25—(CP) — The Labor party retained its House of Commons seat for this northeastern district in yesterday's by-election, results showed today. Labor candidate E. L. Mallalieu defeated Conservative Anthony Fell 27,333 to 22,746.

The by-election, made necessary by the resignation of Labor member Tom Williamson, who won in 1945 by 8,104 votes, was fought by Labor primarily on agricultural issues.

New Coal-Saving Orders Drafted By U.S. Govt.

Washington, March 25 (AP)—The United States government drafted new coal-saving orders today for possible use in its pension strike showdown with John L. Lewis.

Federal officials still hoped the United Mine Workers chief would call his 400,000 soft coal diggers back to work before the shortage becomes acute. But they were not counting on it.

Instead, they prepared to follow the cut in passenger and freight service on coal burning railroads with a similar order to utilities to slow down their plants.

Dimouts and brownouts to conserve power possibly would result.

The freight order, effective next Tuesday, reduces shipments 25 per cent. The Interstate Commerce Commission set up a priority system giving top transport rating to food, fuels, medical supplies and other essential items.

Meanwhile President Truman awaited a report from his fact-finding board before making his next move.

Under the Taft-Hartley law he must wait for the board's findings before seeking a court order to halt the strike.

The group will study the "causes and circumstances" of the strike, but will not make any recommendations for settlement.

Organ Man Has Worked 45 Years On Royal Instrument, Can't Play One

By SAMUEL SOLOMON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Winnipeg, March 25 (CP)—For 45 years Alberta Blanchard has installed tuned and repaired pipe organs—but he can't play one.

Not that he finds this out of character to any great extent.

"I consider the pipe organ the royal instrument...with it you can imitate any instrument in the world. It's my regret I've never learned to play this instrument ... but my pleasure comes in the thrill I get from good playing on the pipe organ," he said.

Mr. Blanchard, who has repaired or tuned most of Winnipeg's pipe organs said that the sound of a pipe organ could vary depending on the amount of clothing worn by the members of an audience.

Weather conditions also play a part in the tone of a pipe organ. Mr. Blanchard said that the dry climate of the prairie provinces is helpful to the sounding of clear notes. He is now at work on the installation of an ultra-modern 40,000-pound organ in St. Matthew's Church.

The organ has 3,000 pipes, ranging in height from 16 feet to 1-8 inch —and in weight from 300 pounds to a few ounces.

Upper Chamber Threat to Revolt Runs Brief Course

Ottawa, March 25 (CP)—A pre-Easter threat of revolt ran out its brief course in the Senate yesterday.

By a vote of 25 to 17, the Upper Chamber overruled its banking committee which had recomended deletion of a clause in a government bill that would have empowered the Federal Wheat Board to handle sale of oats and barley in the same way it handles wheat.

The committee, on a motion by Senator John T. Haig, Progressive Conservative leader, had voted 15 to 8 to delete the clause from a bill to amend the Wheat Board Act. It started study of the bill Tuesday.

The Upper Chamber, in a far more unanimous mood, gave swift reading to all three phases of study of a bill to extend for another year the government's powers to bulk-purchase foodstuffs to fill contracts with Britain. It adjourned until April 19.

The Wheat Board bill, given third reading, also authorizes an increase in the initial wheat payment, establishes a pension fund for the employees and empowers the Board to control inter-provincial movement of wheat products.

10 Liberals Support

Senator Haig got the support of 10 Liberals, including two former cabinet ministers—Senators T. A. Crerar (L-Manitoba) and W. D. Euler (L-Ontario)—in the Senate vote that saw the committee recommendation go down to defeat.

All other Liberals backed Senator Wishart Robertson, government leader, who said the government considered the marketing clause most important and added that the cabinet would reinsert it if the bill went to the Commons without it.

Senator Haig asked for a year's delay of the marketing clause. If, in that time, the three provincial legislatures passed complementary legislation, "then I'll keep quiet."

Senator Norman Lambert (L-Ontario)—said the Senate would injure itself by overriding an important committee. The government was "irresponsible" in expecting one section of the country to carry a burden all should carry.

Blue Sky Easter Likely, Britons Surge to Beaches

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 25 (CP)—Rising temperatures and the promise of a "blue sky Easter" today sent Britons surging to fields and beaches in a gay mood.

In prospect it was the largest exodus since pre-war days as city dwellers jammed railway stations and airports in a race to get away from it all.

While families, with children carrying pets or spades and pails queued for hours before trains were due. Deck chairs and rows of bathing tents blossomed at seaside resorts.

Margate, Ramsgate and other resorts reported record advance reservations for the long week-end.

Eighty-four extra trains carried passengers to the south coast.

The air ministry said that sunshine and clear skies were likely to prevail through Easter Monday and forecast temperatures between 60 and 65 degrees.

Kicked, Punched By Police Says Jean Poitras

Toronto, March 25 (CP) — The Globe and Mail in a copyright front page story by Jean Poitras, today quotes the Ottawa-born laborer as saying he was beaten up the night of March 13 by Toronto police officers who took him into custody after a scuffle.

"For from eight to 10 minutes ...I was kicked and beaten while six policemen stood by without raising a finger," Poitras says in his first person story. "They seemed amused by the brutality.

"Even when I lay on the police station floor, bleeding and bruised and dazed and pleaded with them for help, they just smiled.

"Three of my front teeth were kicked out. I held them in my hand so they could see. I was beaten some more."

First word of the incident came when John MacLeod, a university student, wrote Mayor Hiram McCallum that he and three friends saw policemen beating a man late March 13. The Mayor promised an investigation.

The 26-year-old Poitras says in his story that he came here from Ottawa in January to look for work.

Poitras says he broke up a closing-time scuffle outside an east-central beverage room after a stranger tried to fight two of Poitras' companions. A policeman grabbed Poitras by the collar — "very rough"—and told him he was under arrest.

"He pulled out his blackjack and started to swing it. He was trying to bring it down on my head so I grabbed him by the neck and pushed him away...."

Put Foot in Face

In the patrol wagon "the policeman sat on the bench nearest me and he stamped his foot in my face. He kept on banging my face and shoulder with his foot and yanking on my arm with the chain as the wagon went on to the station....

"The two other policemen grabbed me by the shoulders and threw me as hard as they could to the garage floor. I guess that's where the people who complained to the Mayor later first saw what was happening. When I tried to get up the first policeman punched me in the face. Another policeman kicked me on the head.

"They dragged me into the police station through a connecting hall. My head bumped. Inside the station I stood up against the hallway wall. That's where they really laid it on....

Poitras says he pleaded guilty to a charge of being drunk—but claims he wasn't drunk—and was fined $10 and costs or five days. He took the five days and scrubbed floors in the Don jail.

"I insist I wasn't drunk and there are two reasons why I pleaded guilty. First the other boys warned me that if I didn't I'd have to stay in jail four or five days, anyway, on remand, and, secondly, I didn't want any person to see me in the shape I was in. The best place for me, I thought was in jail...."

Panic Buying Main Cause Of Butter Shortage

Toronto, March 25 — (CP) — Clarence C. Lackner, provincial dairy branch director, Ontario Department of Agriculture, today said: "If housewives stopped panic buying there would be enough butter during this seasonal slump period to go round."

W. H. Black, produce broker at the St. Lawrence market here agreed, adding that the shortage is further aggravated by lack of usual western supplies of storage butter.

Mr. Lackner said some creameries are increasing production slightly while others are falling behind. "Output of fluid milk is being maintained because it brings higher returns than butter. This, too, is reducing butter supplies," he said.

INCREASES APPROVED

Ottawa, March 25— (CP)—Salary increases ranging from $75 to $250 last night were approved by the Ottawa Separate School Board for religious and lay teachers in the capital's separate schools. A total of 186 lay teachers and 166 religious teachers are affected by the flat increases, which are retroactive to Jan. 1.

Quintuplets Born, Three Stillborn And Two Die

Louisville, Ky., March 25 — (AP)— Mrs. Roman V. Gadlace, 31, was reported resting comfortably at a hospital here today after giving birth yesterday to quintuplets — three girls and two boys.

The three girls were stillborn. The boys lived in incubators for about 20 minutes.

Dr. A. J. Pauli, attending physician, said Mrs. Gadlace was in her fifth month of pregnancy, and that if it had been a normal pregnancy the babies probably would have lived.

The babies ranged in weight from 8½ to 15 ounces.

One of the features of the enjoyable evening's program was a presentation to the retiring secretary treasurer, Miss Angella Hayes of the Belleville office. The presentation was made by Miss Kay Patterson of the Trenton office.

The executive committee consisting of one member from each of the six ofices in the district, will be appointed at a later date.

Ontario Research Commission Will Be Permanent

Toronto, March 25 (CP) — The Ontario Research Commission, being established as a permanent body, will receive $175,000 in provincial estimates this year, Provincial Secretary Michener said yesterday in the legislature.

Discussing the bill setting up the commission permanently, Mr. Michener said $25,000 would go for administrative expenses, $50,000 for scholarships, and $100,000 for encouragement of smaller industries to combine together in group research projects and activities.

The Provincial Secretary said that 58 scholarships were awarded last year under the system, which is already established and operating.

Particular powers given the commission will enable it to carry on where the temporary group, set up in 1945, leaves off.

Dr. R. C. Wallace, Principal of Queen's University, Kingston, will continue as chairman. Others are: Dr. Sidney Smith, President of University of Toronto, Dr. W. Sherwood Fox, former President of University of Western Ontario, Dean C. E. Burke of McMaster University, Hamilton and Dean C. R. Young of Toronto.

Also on the committee are Dr. G. I. Christie, former Principal of Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, Dr. T. H. Hogg, former chairman of the Hydro Electric Power Commission, and representative of industry.

BODY RECOVERED AFTER SIX HOURS

Scranton, Pa., March 25—(AP) — The body of Joseph Martinski was recovered last night after fellow anthracite workers dug for 6 hours through a rock slide at nearby Exeter. The body of John Laidinis was recovered earlier. The two men were buried yesterday.

Coal-Burning Freight Service To be Cut 25 P.C.

Washington, March 25 (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday ordered a 25 per cent reduction in coal-burning freight service, effective at midnight next Tuesday.

The I.C.C. said the cut is necessary because of the dangerously low level of railroad coal supplies and the continued work stoppage in the soft coal mines.

The cut in freight service follows a recent office of defence transportation order for a 25 per cent reduction in coal-burning passenger train service effective last Sunday.

Under the I.C.C. freight order, coal burning locomotives may be used to haul coal or empty coal cars without restriction.

With this exception, the Commission ordered railroads to hold their coal burning freight service to 75 per cent of that provided during the week ended March 6.

A system of priorities was set up. A number of itmes will have first preference for available freight space when the service is curtailed.

Commercial Fruit, Vegetable Production $44,817,100 in '47

Toronto, March 25 — (CP) — The value of Ontario's 1947 commercial production of fruits and vegetables is estimated at $44,817,100, as compared with $46,225,000 in 1946 and $37,400,000 in 1945, the Ontario Department of Agriculture reported today.

The Department said prices received by growers for fruit crops amounted to an estimated $14,997,880, as against $15,025,700 in 1946 and $9,870,000 in 1945. Vegetable prices also were down at $29,819,300 as against $31,119,800 and $27,530,600.

Acreage planted to tree fruits and small fruits was almost the same as 1946, 86,889 compared with 86,550 but vegetable acreage was down considerably at 150,285, compared with 163,734.

Apples, grapes, pears, raspberries and strawberries yielded larger crops in 1947 than in 1946 while cantaloupes, cherries, peaches and plums declined considerably.

'We Must Have Defences, Secrets Must be Preserved'

Prime Minister Quotes Canadian Espionage Probe

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 25 — (CP) — Prime Minister Attlee today ended a raging House of Commons debate by citing the Canadian espionage inquiry in support of the Labor government's ban on the employment of communists, fellow-travellers or Fascists in secret work.

Attlee replied to the angry assault on the government's policy by William Gallacher, veteran communist member for West Fife, who said that United States multi-millionaires sought to use Britain as an advance base in a war on the Soviet Union.

If war came "the Royal Family probably will go to Ottawa and the people will be left to perish," Gallacher asserted amid shouted protests from both sides of the Commons.

Both Conservative and Labor members asked the government to use carefully powers to remove communists, fellow - travellers and fascists from posts where they could imperil the security of the state.

No General Purge

Attlee replied that no general purge was planned and all cases will be examined to ensure fair treatment but, at the same time to protect security.

But Attlee insisted that "as long as there is a possibility of war we must have defences and those secrets must be preserved."

The government must look at "the sapping from within" and apart from communists and fascists there are also Crypto-communists.

"We are living in very serious times. I deplore these subversive movements. If they creep into the civil service they are enemies of the government service. I might be accused of many things, but I cannot be accused of even trusting the communist party."

Attlee announced that the appointment of an advisory body of three retired civil servants before whom any civil servant suspected of communist or fascist activities could state his case.

Not Many Dismissals Expected

He said he did not think there would be a great number of dismissals. There would be some — persons with fanatical loyalty to communism — but most would be transferred to another department

"Civil servants are entitled to know that the people with whom they work in secret matters are people who can be trusted."

In backing up the government's security division, Attlee delivered a ringing blast on Communist organization.

"Communists do not accept the obligation of loyalty and of ordinary moral dealings which enable us to deal with one another in our daily business."

Canadian Case

There was "the vivid illustration" of the Canadian case which was extremely interesting because in Canada "they had the Communist, the fellow-traveller and also the innocent person who was brought into the net—dragged in a little way first of all and his loyalty undermined.

One Labor member interjected 'cheepjack talk" when the Prime Minister said Gallacher should be "astounded" at the moderation of British policy. There would be no general purge; no witchhunt, Attlee said.

Although several Labor members have indicated disapproval of the methods proposed to remove untrustworthy persons from security posts no division was forced at the end of the debate which was raised on a motion to adjourn for the Easter recession.

Gallacher's Denunciation

During his denunciation of the government's ban, Gallacher asserted:

"The United States wants Britain to be a forward base for an attack by American monopoly capitalists on Europe and Russia.

"America wants to make war against the Soviet Union and use this country as a forward base. The government then will go away and the Royal Family probably will go to Ottawa and the people will be left to perish." This assertion drew heated protests from both sides of the Commons.

The government's policy of dismissals also was attacked by Harold Davies, Labor member for Leeds, who said that he was not prepared to give Prime Minister Attlee or any other minister powers to be used by the government in carrying out a security program.

Davies asked members not "to be driven hysterically into this witch-hunting campaign, a claim for power which will rot the Socialist party."

Noisy Scene in House

The Commons was noisy when Maj. C. F. Mott-Radclyffe, Conservative member for Windsor, spoke of persons who had discarded communism or fascism and mentioned Food Minister Strachey.

White-haired John Paton, Labor member for Norwich, rose and shouted that Strachey never had anything to do with fascism.

Shouts of "No" and "Sit down" interrupted Mott- Radclyffe when he replied that he was under the impression that Strachey at one time "certainly felt tempted" toward those parties.

Speaking loudly from his seat behind Attlee, Gallacher said "the slander campaign" against British communists was instigated by United States' millionaires. The combination of "Tories and tory-dominated Labor leaders" now were using "the same low vile slanders" against communists as were used against early Christians.

The communists were fighting for British independence and prosperity when these leaders were "selling the country to the big dollar boys of America."

First Refuelling In Mid-Air Over Ocean Carried Out

Shannon Airport, Eire, Mar. 25 — (Reuters) — The first refuelling in mid-air over the Atlantic by night was successfully carried out early today by a British Overseas Airways Corporation Liberator as it neared the Irish coast from Montreal.

This was part of the series of flight refuelling trials which started at the beginning of the year with the support of the Ministry of Civil Aviation.

The Liberator was flying at 9,000 feet. Three hundred gallons of fuel were passed from the Shannon-based tanker plane which made contact with the Liberator at the appointed rendezvous as planned with the aid of radar.

Most Expensive Babies in World Are Born in Canada Says Professor

Ottawa, March 25. —(CP) — Babies born in Canada are expensive. They may be, if a Toronto professor is right, the most expensive babies in the world.

But it's not only babies. It's a matter of economic pressures, housing crises, taxes and no jobs for older men.

In fact, said Dr. John Morgan, associate professor of Social Work, University of Toronto, the economic pressures of family life "make it economically desirable to live in sin."

He addressed the Regional Welfare Supervisors of the Heath Department at their second annual conference here yesterday and declared:

"It costs more to be born in Canada than anywhere else I know." Children are expensive to rear, feed, clothe, house and educate.

Children do not enter productive employment until much higher ages than formerly, said Dr. Morgan, and the present industrial system discourages the employment of older persons. Hence, he declared, the burden falls on young married people between the ages of 24 and 35.

But Dr. John Morgan did not see everything gloomy. In the United Kingdom, for instance, things were brighter.

The Health and Welfare measures in the United Kingdom currently being put into effect as well as such wartime programs as free milk and hot lunches for children in schools, pre-natal and post-natal clinics and special allowances for expectant mothers were all showing benefits.

The benefits were showing up in higher birthrates, lower mortality rates and healthier, heavier and more intelligent children, said Dr. Morgan.

This concept may be the beginning of an idea, said the professor, an idea which might easily be used to fight the Communists' way of life.

Marmora

School Inspector Favors Larger High School Area

Marmora, (Special) — A large and enthusiastic meeting of the citizens of Marmora, Marmora township and Deloro was held in the Town Hall, Marmora on Monday evening to consider whether Marmora village should become part of a large high school area, which has been recommended by the County Council. Reeve Vincent Lynch acted as chairman and Mr. S. D. Rendall High School Inspector addressed the meeting and discussed the local problems and the advantages of the larger High School area.

Outline Given

Mr. Lynch in his opening speech gave an outline of Marmora Continuation School, and High School since its beginning in 1920. He said the academic studies were handicapped by lack of room. In 1935 the status of the school was changed to that of a high school. He said Marmora had met with opposition from the Department of Education in their plans to build a new school.

For New Project

He said the new area would cover Rawdon, Huntingdon, Hungerford, Marmora, Madoc, Elzevir, Grimsthorpe and Casbel townships and Stirling, Marmora Deloro, Madoc and Tweed. In introducing Mr. Rendall, Mr. Lynch said Mr. Rendall was well informed of the scattered area of this district, but wanting the best possible for the education our children, he was for the new project.

Mr. Rendall said it was many years since he had inspected Marmora School but he knew that Marmora had not had easy going. There had been frustrations and disappointments as related by the chairman and Marmora always seemed to be a little late each time in reaching its objective.

He said there had been changes in schools as well as in business. He said Continuation Schools were all right in their day, this project of a High School Area started in Western Ontario in 1945, and districts have increased over 60 per cent of the counties in Ontario. The definite unit depends on the population of the area.

Established Year Ago

He said North Hastings had established this area a year ago and the project had taken a hold in the province. The districts in trouble were those with small attendance. Up until 1944-45 the grants were very small, but had increased to nine times what they were originally. He said education was not necessarily academic. Some students were gifted by mind, some by hands, and students have a right to be trainin practical as well as academic education. There should be a type of school to train both. He said it took two wars to bring this vocational education to the cities and it took the last war to bring it to rural districts.

Boys had to enter the services and Ontario people became vocation educational. He said if you have 300 pupils in one school all those courses can be taught economically. In order to get this you have to get a good slice of the country. Districts set up lately take in about 200 square miles of area. They pool their money and pay their own transportation. Eastern Ontario population is more scattered and schools must be operated together. No one is large enough to operate alone. In Centre Hastings there are probably not enough pupils as there are in one school in Toronto.

Town Pride

Behind this program is the desire of rural and semi-rural people to give their children the same education they get in the cities. There has been a great deal of town pride and people hate to think of losing their school but your children are the best things you have, and as it is impossible in these days to save much money, the best thing to leave your children is a way to make a living.

This broader idea of education proves this out and every father and mother should give their child a start in life. Give a measure of practical education along with the academic course. With 150 students these courses cannot be taught but by pooling your money and resources, you can give your pupils something like they have in Belleville. Mr. Rendall said "he would suggest that the five municipalities could do this for the senior pupils and keep the junior classes at home.

Cost Would be Less

In working out the costs of the present schools in the district, he was sure it would bring the cost much less than at present. He advised his hearers to get behind the setup and was sure it would work out to the advantage of all Mr. Rendall then asked for any question from the audience and a discussion was held.

Mr. Rendall said it might take five years to get this system going and it might be necessary to have two schools in the area instead of one. He compared the local area with that of Bancroft where they had an area of 1,600 square miles and an assessment of less than a million, and in the local area 1,200 square miles with an assessment of $8,000,000.

Vote in Favor

A vote was taken in which almost all present were in favor of the project and Reeve Lynch advised that the matter would be taken up at the next meeting of the council.

Mr. C. H. Buskard of Deloro addressed the meeting briefly in favor of the project and after the chairman had tendered Mr. Rendall a vote of thanks, the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

English Farmers Prepare For Big Production Year

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London (CP) — Farmers all over England have been cheered by early conditions which indicate they can reach the high production targets set for them in 1948.

The government's Economic Survey gave them these acreage goals, with actual 1947 acreages in brackets:

Bread grains 2,595,000 (2,207,000); other grains 6,050,000 (5,888,000); potatoes 1,423,000 (1,332,000); sugar beet 400,000 (396,000) and linseed 150,000 (40,000).

"General spring conditions are more or less ideal," said a National Farmers' Union spokesman.

"Last year, in contrast, agriculture was afflicted by a severe winter followed by spring floods and summer droughts. This year spring sowing and planting are going well. Winter wheat and other crops look promising."

"Home agriculture is a major factor in our hopes of a tolerable standard of diet in the years ahead, but it takes time to expand production, particularly to build up numbers of livestock," said the Economic Survey.

Livestock Problems

Shortages of feeding stuffs, the necessity of restoring flocks and herds after the 1946-47 winter losses, and uncertainties about labor all hamper the livestock expansion program. But in field crops farmers are given their opportunity.

First emphasis is on greater potato production so that rationing, now three pounds a head weekly, can be eliminated. Farm surveys indicate the desired acreage will be planted.

The wheat target for England and Wales is 2,300,000 acres and winter wheat sowings were estimated at 2,000,000 leaving 300,000 for spring wheat.

"In spite of difficult weather conditions last spring the wheat acreage then planted was 200,000 so it looks as if the target of a total of 2,300,000 can be achieved thos year," the N.F.U. spokesman said.

The government policy sets forth that increased home production of bread and other grains means a saving in dollars as the supplies Britain must import often are available only in dollar markets. But irrespective of the grains in home production, a large proportion of Britain's bread grains must be bought overseas.

TWO NEW COALFIELDS

Drivers' Eye Tests Studied in Toronto

Toronto (CP) — The "how-many-fingers-have-I - got - up?" variety of eye examination, often applied by police to candidates for motor vehicle operators' permits, will go the way of the horse and buggy if a group of Toronto optometry students have their way.

When optometry student Roy Brown of Toronto was asked by a driving licence examiner to read the number on a house across the street, he could scarcely believe that it was the only visual requirement for a licence. Now Brown and 13 other Ontario College of Optometry students have begun eye examination of at least 400 transport drivers. The Automotive Transport Association is expected to take their findings as a standard of visual requirements for drivers.

Driving records of the men are matched against examination results in an attempt to associate traffic accidents with visual defects.

The students take into accoum depth perception, color vision, muscular imbalances, acuity, dark adaptation and field of vision.

E. J. Fisher, director of the college clinic where the work is being done, explains: "Muscle balance shows whether the eyes when they are at rest, converge or diverge. Visual acuity is the keenness and sharpness of vision."

A driver's record might show that he had two or three accidents which happened on his left side and a scientific eye examination would show his field of vision was poor on that side.

Preliminary figures indicate most failures are in visual acuity, but in most cases the fault is correctible.

EXCISE TAX ON

Finance Minister Abbott, sponsor of the bill, likened his announcement of the levy by radio Nov. 18 to the budget practice of announcing taxes budget night and later obtaining parliamentary approval. He argued that the goods taxed were in the non-essential class.

Opposition members, said the bmin thamthesahtm minister, neglected to point out that the bill also reduced taxes on sugar, tea, coffee and electricity for household use, a saving to the people of $21,000,000 a year. The new excise taxes had produced about $6,000,000 in revenue in the last four months.

Trade Minister Howe announced that an equalization payment of 3.623 cents a bushel will be made to prairie farmers who delivered oats during the 1946-47 crop year.

Would Not Indicate Time

Mr. Abbott said he could not indicate when the Dominion will vacate the amusement and pari-mutuel tax fields.

Defence Minister Claxton called for recruits for Canadian active and reserve forces.

Besides the tax bill, members adopted legislation reducing the customs duty on tariff and another measure authorizing the government to spend $188,000,000 to carry on business during April and May. Supplementary estimates of expenditures for the 1947-48 fiscal year, amounting to $80,000,000 were approved.

A thumb-nail glance through the record of the 10 weeks which members have sat since Dec. 5, showed that, outside of approximately two weeks spent on the throne speech debate in the Commons, most of the time was devoted to passage of emergency legislation.

Cause Considerable Stir

There were two bills of a non-emergency character, but one of them caused a considerable stir in both the Senate and the Commons. It was a measure that would authorize the Canadian Wheat Board to increase the initial payment on wheat to western farmers; gring oats and barley under the control of the Board and establish a pension fund for Board employees.

The fight on the Wheat Board bill centred on the provision that would make the Board the sole agent for oats and barley as well as wheat. The Senate's banking committee voted 15 to 8 to delete the provision. Later, however, the Senate itself voted 25 to 17 to reinsert the provision.

As more or less of an anti-climax to the hectic discussions, Rt. Hon. Thibaudeau Rinfret, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Canada and Deputy to the Governor-General of Canada, quietly gave royal sanction in the Senate Chamber to the bills that both Chambers had seen fit to pass before the adjournment.

As a parting message, the government announced that when Commons' members return after the recess they will be asked to pass another of the exchange conservation measures. It provides for increased payments to gold mines for production over and above production for the year ended June 30, 1947.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

No wonder players argue over bridge hands. Some hands are just as correct with one bid as with another. Each could be correct. Neither might be wrong.

Take a look at this pair:

SOUTH
♠ Q 10 8
♥ 10 6 3
♦ K 9 7 5 2
♣ A 8

♠ A 2
♥ A K Q 7
♦ A Q 8 3
♣ K 9 4

It is correct for north to start with an opening of one heart. It is almost as correct to start this hand with an opening of two no-trump. Choose your weapon.

You have had plenty of practice with one bids. Talk about the bidding of this pair as if north started with two no-trump. You may need the practice for such an opening and its responses.

An opening of two no-trump says: "Partner, I have not quite all the stuff needed to guarantee a game in my own hand. Otherwise, I would have started with an opening bid of two in some suit."

It goes on to say: 'I have fully enough for a bid of one. And I may even have a biddable suit or two. But I also have enough high cards to make a no-trump game if you have one high card."

It continues to say: 'If you lack a high card you should pass. If you possess a high card or more, bid something. In such case, follow T-A-N; takeout, assist, no-trump."

Thus, anything but a pass by partner is a signal. It says: "I have a high card, at least. Otherwise, I would have passed. So, you know we have enough for three no-trump unless we find something better.

South has more than enough for a bid in response to an opening of two no-trump. He replies three diamonds. This promises a biddable suit in a hand that contains at least one high card.

A game in the pair is now determined. There may even be a slam. There is an easy way of digging for slams without getting too high. Let's dig.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 25 — (AP) — At last, baseball is getting the nod from Hollywood producers.

America's favorite game (wanna argue) has long been neglected by the movies, and for an important commercial reason. Movie - makers were afraid of diamond yarns because they figured foreign audiences wouldn't savvy. Things are different now that the overseas market is not so important. Also, it is figured that American troops carried baseball to far corners of the world.

M-G-M is preparing two baseball films — the Monty Stratton opus and the Kelly-Sinatra musical. Allied Artists as already at work on "The Babe Ruth Story." The latter is going all out for authenticity. Coaching the star, Bill Bendix, is Pat Flaherty, who played with Ruth for Boston Red Sox. He's also technical advisor and will portray Bill Carrigan, former Red Sox manager.

The film will feature other Ruth contemporaries — Red Ruffing, Bob Meusel, Mark Koenig and Umpire Ziggy Sears. Bob Feller is being sought for a part. Baseball sequences will take up 20 minutes of the film.

Second Award

Loretta Young's Oscar was only the second award for an actress' comedy performance. Previous one: Claudette Colbert in "It happened One Night." Producers may well note that Loretta's award went for the only really entertaining film in the female list. That's the temper of the times, boys . . .

Van Heflin faces his toughest job to date in "Act of Violence," which will be the first of M-G-M's semi-documentaries. He plays a Nazi captive who squeals on his fellow prisoners. Only one of them escapes alive and he later finds Van in the United States...

10-second Review

"The Search" (M-G-M) brings vitality and heart to the screen. Filmed in Europe with authentic backgrounds and cast it's the story of a Czech boy orphaned by war and befriended by an American soldier. Its stark view of today's Europe is a strong argument for United States aid.

Proud Quinte Junior Hoop Champions

Pictured above is the courageous junior girls' basketball team of the Ontario School for the Deaf. These youngsters whose only handicap is deafness, showed the way to other girls' teams of the district winning the Bay of Quinte junior title. They carried high the banner of O.S.D. basketball by winning one game in the Ontario championships, only to go down to defeat in their second tilt. Belleville, the O.S.D. faculty and students are proud of the court accomplishments of these grand young ladies. Left to right are, seated: Lulu Cayer, Jeannine Gravelle, Miss Eileen Leverence, popular coach of the team, Joan Laidlaw and Dorothy O'Neill. Standing are Gertrude McCourt, Dolores Renault, Lulu Vorvis, Emily Wilson, Rose Chapik. Dorothy Parks, another member of the team is missing from the picture.

Overtime Goal by Maple Leafs' Oldest Player Brings Stanley Cup Playoff Victory to Toronto

Toronto, March 25 — (CP) — Once during a Stanley Cup playoff manager Conn Smythe paced the Toronto Maple Leafs dressing room and declared Nick Metz "the best all-around player in the National Hockey League." That was six years ago but if the little major repeated it today he'd still receive plenty of support from Nick's mates.

Thirty-four last month and the club's oldest performer, Nick fired the deciding goal in overtime, as the N. H. L. champions came from behind three times to beat Boston Bruins 5-4 last night and successfully launch their defence of the stanley Cup. The teams meet in the second game of the best-of-seven round here Saturday night.

"He can play anywhere," said Smythe in his 1943 tribute to the Wilcox, Sask., wheat farmer, and that's just what old Nick did last night as they moved him to right wing in overtime to replace his brother, Don, who had tired in the heavy going.

They mobbed Nick in the dressing room but in typical Metz style he escaped to the showers with few words. He explained that just after the 17-minute mark Max Bentley's rebound landed on his stick and "I couldn't miss because Frankie Brimsek was out of position."

Only 12,982 fans saw the 77 minute-and-two-second thriller although every seat in the rink was sold out well before game time. There was room for 2,000 more to stand but after looking at block-long queues the day previous, cash customers figured their chances were hopeless.

No Sign of Despair

There was no sign of despair in the Boston dressing room after the game. Brimsek had 53 shots directed at him but it broke his heart when Jimmy Thomson scored his first goal of the season with a 50-footer less than seven minutes from regulation time.

For defenceman Jimmy, who counted 29 assists but went scoreless in scheduled play, the goal was a great thrill. But he gave the credit to Howie Meeker who blocked Brimsek's vision as the puck sailed over his shoulder.

In the Toronto net Walter (Turk) Broda, Vezina Trophy winner, had only 26 shots to handle but both clubs had numerous chances to salt the game away in extra time as they threw caution to the winds.

The Bruins held a 4-2 advantage when Syl Apps fired a disputed goal at 12.02. Referee King Clancy backed the goal judge but Boston winger Grant Warwick claimed the puck hit the post — "all the people around the goal judge were laughing at him." In the first period Apps kicked the puck into the net but the goal was disallowed.

Murray Henderson sent the Bruins in front early with a screened back - hand shot but Bill Ezinicki evened the count before the first session ended. Max Bentley of the Leafs matched an earlier goal by rookie Ed Harrison to leave the teams on even terms at the close of the second.

Pat Egan and Ken Smith both counted for the beantowners before the half - way mark of the third and they seemed headed for victory when Apps and Thomson came to the Leafs' rescue with two goals in one minute and 23 seconds.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

BY GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

The K.K.K. has come to life in this city. It's not what you think it is, merely the Kiwanis Kurling Krew consisting of four doughty kurlers who should know better, but are going to take a fling wi' the broom and stane again after years of reminiscence and increasing girths. They're going to represent the Belleville Kiwanis Club at a bonspiel being iced by the Peterborough Club on Monday at which curlers from 32 clubs in the district will vie for something or other.

• • •

Representing the Belleville club will be James (Ole Faithful) Cowan, who will be garbed in resplendent regalia of red flannel underwear, kilts of the Cowan tartan, three large-sized stanes, a half-dozen brooms, (stable, kitchen and factory) seven tooth brushes as an emergency kit, four bottles of liniment (the rubbing kind) and a lot of optimism. Jimmy hasn't flipped a stane since he played on the quartet skipped by Abou Ben Adam at Adis Ababa. Claims, though, he is in good shape from heaving man-size chunks of coal from one pile to another.

• • •

Skipping the rink will be Don Stanton, another veteran of the curling ice-lanes who has played on outstanding rinks over the country. Playing shortstop will be Alderman Claude D. Tice, who curled with rinks from Calgary to Saskatoon, and captained the famous Zwick's Island rink, in the Foster Ward Bonspiel. The fighting alderman will take along seven rule books, which he claims he wrote, several beakers of pain-killer, (he's the rink trainer, as well), four extra undershirts, and a copy of Frank Mencke's Encyclopedia of Sports.

• • •

Also going along is Kiwanian Norm Edwards, who will check on the boys' vision while sighting their curling guns on the target. Norm is a curler of repute and will add a lot of strength to the quartet. The rinks will lunch with their Peterborough Comrades at noon and will take to the ice at one o'clock.

• • •

Going along for more than the ride will be the Lieutenant Governor of Kiwanis District 5, Alderman Bruce Lattimer. Bruce will be the guest of honor at the luncheon where he will address the boys on various themes. While he is silent regarding the topic of his talk, it is reliably reported that he will discourse on the Ups and Downs of the Belleville Tax Rate, with no holds barred.

• • •

Largest attendance at a Stanley Cup playoff series was in 1945 when the series went 20 games out of a possible 21, and 247,805 fans passed through the turnstiles....Average number of games played in each series for the past five years has been 16.

• • •

Montreal Canadiens won the most consecutive games in a single playoff series in 1944 when they won eight straight. They dropped first game of semi-finals to Toronto, and then completed series in straight games by disposing of Toronto and Chicago in four straight games each to win Stanley Cup.... Canadiens are also holders of the highest shutout victory in playoff history. On March 30, 1944 they blanked Toronto Maple Leafs in fifth game of semi-final series played at Montreal by a score of 11-0....Previous record of 6-0 held by several clubs.

• • •

Most points in a playoff series is 18 and was made by Toe Blake of Canadiens in 1944 playoffs against Toronto and Chicago in nine games....Most goals in a playoff series is 12 and was set by Canadiens' Maurice Richard in nine games in 1944.. Elmer Lach, centre for Blake and Richard on the Canadiens in 1946 series established a record for most assists. In nine games against Chicago and Boston, Lach picked up 12 assists.

• • •

On March 23, 1944, Canadiens defeated Toronto 5-1, and at the same time set two playoff records. By scoring all five of his team's goals, Maurice Richard holds record of most goals in a single playoff game. Toe Blake assisted in Richard's five goals and as a result established a record for most assists in a single playoff game.

• • •

In the 1945 series, Frank McCool, Toronto goalkeeper registered four shutouts. Three of these were in succession against Detroit in the finals. Eight shutouts were chalked up in 17 games in the 1937 series. There were 13 games played in the 1938 playoffs and six of these games went into overtime.

• • •

Tommy Ivan of Detroit is the only rookie coach in the 1948 playoffs. Happy Day of Toronto will be gunning for his fourth Stanley Cup. He has already coached the Leafs to three Cup victories. Frank Boucher, Rangers' mastermind, will be after his second Cup triumph, while Boston's Dit Clapper hopes to crash the ranks of Stanley Cup winning coaches.

Between March 1st and 28th the Ontario Society for Crippled Children has been their annual Easter Seal Campaign with the aid of over 90 Service Clubs throughout Ontario. A concentrated effort is being made to have the people in their community and area support the drive by buying Easter Seals which help publicise the plight of Ontario's Crippled Children—youngsters right in our own backyard—and to raise funds in their aid.

• • •

Last year, the money raised with this method by Service Clubs was responsible for the expansion of services to Ontario's afflicted youngsters. Where four nurses were on staff in 1947, there are now eight. To cover Ontario effectively, fourteen are needed. These nurses are specially trained in orthopaedics and public health nursing. Their job is to help organize clinics, discover crippled children who need treatment, arrange for transportation, hospitalization and other aids.

• • •

It has been proven without a doubt that any crippled child rehabilitated, partially or completely, is an asset to the community. The Rotary Club in this area participating in crippled children's work, is made up of successful business and professional men who highly regard the monetary value to the community as well as the humanitarian aspects of the work.

Detroit Red Wings Defeat Rangers By 2 to 1 Count

Detroit, March 25 (CP) — Detroit's fast-stepping Red Wings, fresh from a 2-1 victory over New York Rangers in last night's opening National Hockey League playoff tilt here, were heads-up favorites today to repeat their performance when they again tangle with the New Yorkers here Friday.

More than 12,000 fans saw the Wings take the first game of the best-of-seven series late in the opening period by scoring two quick goals within four minutes. The lone Ranger tally came early in the final frame as the New Yorkers fought back desperately.

Left winger Ted Lindsay and Jimmy Conacher gave the home team their margin of victory while Bryan Hextall averted a shut-out by netting a 20-footer from, in front of the Detroit nets.

Lindsay's goal was a neat rebound off Sid Abel's hook shot while Conacher's unassisted tally came when three Rangers and two Red Wings watched from the penalty bench.

Hostilities developed twice during the bruising contest. First, Abel and Bill Juzda were handed major penalties for fighting, Tony Leswick drew two minor penalties, one for roughing and the other for cross-checking, and Gordie Howe of the Wings went off for roughing—all the result of a single melee.

Another rough-house threatened midway through the second period but was promptly quashed when Jack Stewart of Detroit and Fred Shero of the Rangers were chased for roughing.

Lineups:

New York—Goal, Raynor; defence, Colville, Moe; centre, Laprade; wings, Kullman, Leswick. Subs, Eddolls, Shero, Trudell, O'Connor, Raleigh, Hextall, Lamrande, Gardner, Juzda, Slowinski.

Detroit—Goal, Lumley; defence, Quackenbush, Stewart; centre, Abel; wings, Howe, Lindsay. Subs, Bruneteau, Reise, Lunday, Gauthier, Horeck, Sclisizzi, McFadden, Conacher, Pavelich, Kelly.

2—Detroit, Conacher 19.07

Penalties — McFadden, Abel (major), Juzda (major), Leswick 2, Howe.

Second Period

Vancouver, March 25 — (CP)— Vancouver, like many Canadian cities, is not free of racial hatred. Pat (Vancouver Sun) Slattery says the old anti-Semitism bugaboo has again reared its ugly head around golf clubs here.

"No more Jewish golfers can join a certain public course's private club," Slattery reported. "This new ruling will no doubt force the resignation of the only two Jewish members in the club."

Some Jewish golfers toyed with the idea of making a $30,000 investment in a golf course, but the majority have no wish to be part of a "ghetto" club.

"This would be playing right into the hands of the Jew-haters who would love to see segregation," quotes Slattery.

Rough Stuff

Clancy (Vancouver News-Herald) Loranger finds it's nice to be back in Canada, where men are gentlemen and women don't go around hitting hockey players.

Portland was a nice, polite hockey city, but Tacoma and Seattle — both players and fans — were rather rough, ready to wrap a purse, two-by-four or hockey stick around a neck.

Charlie Laveman, now sports editor of the Columbian in New Westminster, who knows all about hockey warfare from his experience on the Winnipeg Free Press, found out how rough the Americans are — he has a bruise to prove it.

Charlie went south with New Westminster Royals, was identified as an enemy, and had to do some fancy ducking when three Seattle Ironmen didn't like his remarks about a penalty.

Loranger had a front row seat and reported at the height of the scrimmage "the law rushed in, and delivered a stern rebuke to Laveman for disturbing the paying guests."

Rinty Monaghan Croons After Win

London, March 25 (AP) — Rinty Monaghan, the new world flyweight boxing champion, is an effervescent little Irishman who sings over the prostrate forms of his victims.

His theme song is "When Irish Eyes are Smiling" and he crooned Tuesday night at Belfast after hammering Jackie Paterson into a numb hulk in the seventh round of a fight to settle their claims to the world 112-pound title.

Singing got Rinty into the ring. He was admitted to a Belfast fight when only a kid to sing and jig between bouts.

He's been singing more than boxing ever since. During the war he retired from the ring for five years and sang to entertain troops at camp shows. The 25-year-old champion even plans on doing the vaudeville circuit between defences of his new world title.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

New York, March 25. (AP)—Latest reports from the south seem to confirm the general impression that major league baseball cubs will return to their old training programs next year and forget about the March 1 starting date. . . .Already managers are squawking that they've had to play too many exhibitions and hadn't had time for plain practice. . . .but, strangely, the pitchers on most clubs still seem to be "ahead" of the hitters, although they didn't get the benefit of a week's head start this year. . . Lincoln High School of San Jose, Calif., tossed six pitchers into a ball game against Campbell High recently and none of them gave a hit.

One-Minute Sports Page

After looking over Phillie pitcher Rubin Roberts, fresh out Yankees had more praise for pittcher Robin Roberts, fresh out of Michigan State College, than for the Ballyhooed Curt Simmons. . . . . National Hockey League statisticians have figured out that the average number of playoff games required to settle the Stanley Cup during the last five years has been 16.

William and Mary, which had last year's top college tennis team, is opening a new season with Fred Kovaleski and Tut Partzen battling for the top spot, left vacant when Gardner Larned migrated to Rolls. .

Boat Race Costs Each University About $12 Stroke

London, March 25. (CP) — Every time a sweating student dips his oar into Old Father Thames in the Oxford-Cambridge boat race Saturday, it will cost each university about £3 ($12). That's the conclusion of "Figure Filberts" who dare talk about London's greatest free sport show in pounds and shillings.

They figure it this way:

Each of the eight-man crews will average 25 strokes a minute over the four-mile, 374-yard course and the race is expected to take 20 minutes—or £1,500 for each university. And here's the cost to seat eight men in a boat for the honor of their side:

Purchase of a new boat £350; two sets of oars £117; housing and feeding of crew £325; cost of maintaining boathouse and payment of staff £130; daily transport £90; hiring attendant launches and marking the course £150; use of launch for officials and coaches in practice £90.

In addition, Cambridge bought a cow for £110 to provide extra milk for the crew and Oxford's dark blues trained on whale meat steaks. Special energy foods cost £503 to each university and miscellaneous expenses totalled another £75 to £100.

The race, an annual affair with only a few lapses since 1829, draws nearly 1,000,000 spectators who line the banks of the river at no cost to themselves.

BASE PRICES ON ONE MARKET

Ottawa, March 25 — (CP) —To prevent Canadian importers bidding excessive prices for oranges from points elsewhere than California, the Prices Board Wednesday announced a system basing all prices on those obtainable at the California Fruit Growers' exchange.

Under the new system, the importing wholesaler's price of any oranges will be limited to the price at which he could sell the same variety, size and pack of California oranges purchased from the California exchange, recognized as the pricing centre for the world.

MANY HONORARY DEGREES

Alfred E. Smith, for years mayor of New York, attended school for only seven years, but had honorary degrees from six universities.

What a Guy! What a Boat! Lombardo Clicks

Miami Beach, Fla., March 25 — (AP) — Orchestra leader Guy Lombardo set a United States record for Gold Cup boats Wednesday, sending his supercharged Tempo VI over a measured mile at a speed of 113.208 miles an hour.

Lombardo, a native of London, Ont., broke the record of 100.987 miles an hour set at Detroit in October, 1940, by Herbert Mendolsohn. Lombardo's time was 31.8 seconds for the run.

Little Benny's Note Book

Us fellows decided to get up a new club called the All Boys Athaletic Club on account of one of the main rules being not to let any gerls in, especially Maggie Jonsin, and we were on our way to Skinny Martin's garage to have another meeting about it, and Maggie Jonsin came running out of her house in her cowboy pants, saying, Where are you guys going?

Nowheres, Puds Simkins said, and Maggie said, Yes you are, too, you're going to form that club. You better let me join it, I warn you, she said.

It's called the All Boys Athaletic Club, —so how can you join it? I said, and she said, I dont give a darn what it's called, you better let me join it.

The result being we locked the garage door to help her mind her own bizzness.

Which she didn't, banging on the door and yelling, You better let me join it.

It's a strickly boys club, go on away, Glasses Magee yelled back.

Which she didn't, banging on the garage door some more and saying, You better let me join it or you'll be sorry. I'll bust up every meeting. I'll force my way in, and you guys wont dast force me out again unless somebody wants a bluddy nose, she said.

Nobody answering her, and Skinny Martin said, She's libel to mean that serious.

You better let me join it, Maggie Jonsin yelled. And she banged some more, saying, I'll challenge every member to a fite, so you'll either have to get licked by a gerl or elts admit you're afraid to fite me, and everybody will call your old club the Cowerds Club, no matter what you call it yourselfs.

Aw heck, lets give up the whole idea for a while, Sid Hunt said.

Which we did, unlocking the garage and choosing up sides for a relay race and letting Maggie Jonsin in it on account of both sides wanting her for a runner on their side.

Training Camp Notes

New York, March 25. (AP)—California weather is proving so disagreeable that Manager Mel Ott is sending some of his New York giants back to Phoenix, Ariz., to complete their training.

With more rain in prospect, Ott put six players and coach Red Kress on a plane last night with the destination Arizona sunshine.

Outfielder Hank Sauer, whose timely hitting has been missed by Cincinnati Reds since he was sidelined three days ago with an ankle injury, has been sent back to the training quarters in Tampa., Fla., for an X-ray.

Manager Johnny Neun said he was disturbed because Sauer's left ankle, badly swollen, was not responding to treatment.

Versatility may land newcomer Ray Boone a position on Cleveland Indians' roster. The 24-year-old rookie can both catch and play shortstop.

Boone prefers shortstop but wouldn't mind hanging around as a utility man, he says. So he may be kept as No. 2 shortstop and No. 3 catcher.

Candidate for oblivion?

It has been estimated that there are probably less than 1,000 Trumpeter Swans in the whole of North America. Every remaining pair of these beautiful birds is vitally important to the continued existence of the species, and the protective legislation which has been enacted on their behalf must be carefully observed in order to save these birds from total extinction. More detailed information concerning this and other elements of our natural resources, and full-color reprints of our wildlife pictures, without advertising, are available free by writing to The Carling Conservation Club, Dept. D., Waterloo, Ontario.

In 1813, Audubon carefully estimated that he saw over a billion Passenger Pigeons in one day. Today there are none. This same fate may overtake the Trumpeter Swan unless great care is taken in conserving the meagre supply which still exists.

Set up Camp to Train Impressed Villagers In Rumania, Report

Athens, March 25 — (AP). — A foreign ministry spokesman said today a camp to train villagers impressed by Greek guerrillas has been set up in Romania.

The spokesman said the camp was located at Tutrakan, on the Danube, in Dobruja. A similar camp is said to have been operating for the last three years in Bulkjes, Yugoslavia.

Guerrillas captured in the big Pierria - Olympus battle said the Greek officers and a soldier were executed by orders of Markos Vafiades, rebel chief, in reprisal for the recent Salonika trials.

The insurgent radio had been reported as saying prisoners would be executed if rebels were sentenced for shelling Salonika Feb. 10. It was disclosed Sunday that a military court sentenced 50 men and two women to death for the incident. Two men and five women were sentenced to life imprisonment.

Larisa dispatches said Greek planes strafed guerrillas fleeing south from Mount Pierria, killing 43.

Rundown Man Surprised With Syntona Results

"Didn't Realize Any Medicine Could Help Me So Much," He Says. Relieved Stomach Disorders, Headaches and Dizzy Spells. "Feel Fine Now."

MR. BRITTENFIELD

"I never realized any medicine could help a person so much in a short time," said Mr. James Brittenfield, 152 Stapleton Avenue, Hamilton, Ontario, in a recent interview.

"For almost two years I felt rundown and was subject to stomach upsets, headaches and dizzy spells. I had to be very careful of what I ate or I would suffer from indigestion, sour acid risings and a gassy, full, heavy feeling in my stomach. My nerves were easily upset and I couldn't seem to get my proper sleep at night, so I would tire easily and generally had no great amount of energy.

"Having seen Syntona advertised for some time, I finally decided to try some and I am surprised the difference this medicine has made in only a very short while. I haven't had any trouble with headaches or dizziness since I've been taking this medicine; my stomach is settled and I can now eat just about anything I like with no distress afterwards. Also, my nerves are calmed down, so I am getting more sound, restful sleep at

If you suffer as Mr. Brittenfield did, why not give Syntona a chance to help you as it has so many other local men and women? It is made from herbs and roots that act on the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels. Acts promptly, effectively; contains no harmful drugs.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN

HANDFUL OF STARS

By Margaret Gorman, Nichols

His face relaxed. "I guess this is what you call turning the tables. I had it coming to me. You never appreciate things when you're too close to them. You've got to get away from them and think about them and—lose them. Maybe I didn't put up a stiff enough fight, Lyle. I didn't want her to feel sorry for me. Funny, now I don't want her to take me back because of a feeling of duty."

She tried to smile. "You might try again, Michael."

He nodded "How is Jeff?"

"He's been ill and he's in Florida now."

"Do you mind if I look at Mike before I go?"

"You don't have to ask me that."

When he came out of the bedroom, he said, meeting her eyes, "I had everything, didn't I? A wife, a home, and a son. And I tossed it overboard. And this is called a man's world. We should be an education to you, Lyle—in what not to do to make a happy marriage."

When he left, she went back to work on the painting for Mrs. Nash's dress shop. Puzzled even a little bewildered, she could not understand Bonnie's attitude that was completely unlike her.

• • •

During the second week Jeff was away, there were only two letters from him. That second week Lyle learned the agony of girls who wait. Each morning she thought, "There will be a letter today," and when there was none before she left for the store, she telephoned Mrs. Ryan. After a few days Mrs. Ryan's, "No. no mail for you, Miss Lyle," embarrassed her, knowing that Mrs. Ryan was beginning to pity her. And, as she had from the beginning, Lyle made excuses for Jeff's failure to write.

When finally his second letter came at the end of the week, her hands shook with relief and joy when she opened it. And though it was a brief little note, it sustained her for days and put color in her face and happiness in her voice until she began to be anxious for his next letter.

Bonnie, a very absorbed Bonnie since Michael's visit, came to Lyle's room one night when Lyle was working.

"Will you be in tonight, dear, to look after Mike? I'm going out." A faint flush washed over her face. "I'm going to a picture with—with Michael."

Lyle stared. "With Michael?"

Bonnie's flush deepened. She nodded. "Yes, he phoned me today." Then she smiled. "Our grandmothers wouldn't understand a wife going to a movie with a husband she refuses to live with, would they?"

"I'm afraid I don't understand either, Bonnie. If you love Michael, then why....And you do love him and you know he'd go down on his knees to you if you'd let him come back. Why don't you?"

Bonnie's face tightened. "I like my freedom," she said lightly. "It's fun having dates again. It makes me feel as if I were back in my teens." When the bell rang, she said, "I guess that's Michael. See you in the morning, darling."

Every night after that Michael either came or telephoned. Sometimes Bonnie said, "Yes, you may come tonight, Michael," but more often she said, "Sorry, but I've an engagement tonight," and Lyle knew when she told him the latter that he sat alone in his hotel room all through the evening, paying in doubts and heartaches what he had done to her. He sent Bonnie flowers and fruits out of season and there was scarcely a day that he did not send a toy to Mike.

Seeing them, seeing Bonnie holding Michael off, seeing the frantic question in his eyes each time he came, helped to relieve Lyle a little of her growing fears for Jeff. During the day she could scarcely work for wondering if there was a letter, and when Mrs. Ryan told her by phone there was none, she could scarcely work for doubts and fears. Doubts were hiding through your mind. Fears eous imps with jeering eyes danc- were cold hands against your heart. Suddenly in the middle of the night she'd awaken and think, "Why can't you write to me, Jeff? It takes such a little time to write. You'd just have to say, 'I love you and I'm thinking of you.'" It would take such a little time to write that." And she would go to sleep, trying to believe there was a letter for her on its way from the South. Tomorrow there would be a letter....Oh, yes, tomorrow ....And the next day when there was none, she'd feel weak and almost ill.

One day Michael phoned and asked her to lunch.

Looking at her over a table in a quiet restaurant, he said, "You told me to try again with Bonnie and I have, Lyle. I've done everything I know. The best theatre seats, the most expensive night clubs, flowers..She's accepted everything and given nothing. It was fun, at first. It was the way it was before we were married. But it isn't fun any more and there's nothing more I can do. If Bonnie wants her freedom, then she shall have it, all of it! I'm stepping out of the picture. I've put up a stiff fight and I've lost. I'm too old-fashioned to court my own wife and then say good night to her outside my own home."

Lyle looked as helpless as he. "I'm sorry, Michael. Every time I've tried to talk to her about it, she tells me, too, that she likes her freedom. You have tried. There isn't any other man — if that's any comfort to you."

He did not call after that and Lyle saw Bonnie's growing restlessness, saw her often glance at the telephone. But she didn't say anything. But, when she went out in the evening and came in late, she asked, "Any phone calls for me?" And when Lyle told her there had been none, her eyes were tormented. And Lyle thought, "You are waiting for a telephone to ring and I am waiting for a letter." There would be a letter tomorrow! There had to be!

The third week Jeff was in Florida he did not write at all. Toward the end of that week she could neither eat nor sleep and it took every atom of her courage and strength to go on with her work. To think of him in the present was to hate him. But to think of him in the past, to remember the heights and rapture of October, was to love him again. Her imagination was maddening. Was he ill? Had he been unable to shake off the grippe? Had he had a relapse? Days and nights she lived through horrible dreams of what might be happening to Jeff alone in Florida....

She did not tell Bonnie. And one day during that agonizing week Lois Pennimann sharply reproached her, Lyle bit into her lip and said nothing but she wanted to cry out, "How can I work? How can I think?" That same afternoon she passed Stephen in the art department. When she saw him coming toward her, her heart seemed to stop. Stephen....Somehow she managed a smile and went by him, afraid to stop, afraid that a moment with his gentleness and understanding and she would sob against his gray tweed shoulder.

He looked after her with a puzzled frown.

Lyle was sewing new white collars and cuffs on an old dress that night when Bonnie came out of Mike's room.

"Lyle, it's been days since Michael phoned! Days! Isn't that phone ever going to ring? I played the game too far. Don't you know it was only a game I was playing? Don't you know that the first time he came, I wanted to put my arms around him and say, 'Darling, come home! Let's be as we used to be! My work? My freedom? They're nothing! Women in love are never free. They don't want to be free!'"

She covered her face with her hands and cried, "You thought I was hard and cruel, too! Don't you see I couldn't let him know I'd take him back so easily?"

For the first time in weeks Lyle's eyes shone. "Bonnie, you mean it! You...."

"Of course I mean it. I wanted us to start all over again....as if we'd just met. I wanted him to see by taking me out that I could be a playmate, not just a wife who talked of nothing but menus and budgets! I wanted to be lovely for him and....and new!"

Lyle let out her breath. "And Michael thinks you are trying to make him suffer more. He didn't see through your game. I didn't. Call him. Tell him...."

Gananoque Takes Close Game From Aurora by 8-6

On the short end of a 4-1 score at the three-minute mark in the second period, the Gananoque juniors suddenly unleashed a scoring offensive which not only closed the margin but netted them an ultimate 8-6 victory over the smart Aurora kids in the first game of their second round O.H.A. Junior "C" playdowns. The second game of the best-of-three series will be played in Oshawa on Friday night.

The game was one of the best junior tilts seen here this season with both teams flashing lots of speed, ability and checking like fiends going both ways. Aurora grabbed a two-goal lead in the first period and flung home two more in the first three minutes of the second session and it looked like curtains for the Gan kids.

They flashed to scoring life after Hopper had put the Aurora team three goals up and Anderson, Hudson and Brown climaxed a series of dazzling offensives to knot the count at four-all.

Six goals hit the rigging in the final period with Gananoque taking a one goal lead from the stick of Atkins at the one-minute mark. Doolittle got that one back four minutes later for the western squad and Jackson and Anderson fired home goals that once more gave the river boys a one goal lead.

Aurora flashed back to the attack and McGhee scored following a ganging sortie on the Gan goal. Brown, however, took Fair's pass to fir ehome the clincher with a little over a minute to go.

Jackson, Gan defence star was one of the best men on the ice especially in the third period. Hudson, Anderson and Brown racked up two goals each for the winners with McGhee, Doolittle and Hooper getting a goal and assist each. The game was clean with Referees Maurice Walsh and Speedy St. Louis handing out but four penalties.

Cambridge Wins Over Oxford Crew In Record Time

Hundreds of Thousands Line Thames in Brilliant Sunshine

London, March 27 (CP)—Cambridge University today defeated Oxford by five lengths in the 94th boat race between the two universities, as the Light Blues rowed the 4 1-4-mile course in a record 17 minutes, 50 seconds.

With hundreds of thousands of spectators lining the river Thames in brilliant sunshine, the Cambridge crew clipped 13 seconds off the record set by the crew of Cambridge in 1934.

The Light Blue crew, definite underdog in all pre-race speculation, moved into a lead during the first mile and extended that lead to five lengths by the time they crossed the finish line. It was the second straight triumph for Cambridge, winners by 10 lengths last year.

The huge crowd in holiday spirit lined the towpath along the Thames from Putney to Mortlake wearing the colors of their favorite crews—Dark Blue for Oxfords and Light Blue for Cambridge.

The winners are a milk-fed crew, having bought their own cow to enable them to have sufficient milk for their training table.

By its triumph, Cambridge will receive top consideration for the right to represent Britain in Olympic competition. In all the time trials during the past 10 days, the Oxford crew showed better form and recorded faster times.

However, it was evident after the race was about half-mile rowed, that the Cambridge crew meant to hold the slim lead it had managed at that point and cheers went up along the banks of the river when it was announced that the winners broke the old record of 18 minutes, three seconds, set 18 years ago.

Mystery Subs Off U.S. Create Note of Alarm

Washington March 27 (CP)—A United States Navy Department statement that strange submarines had been cruising off United States shores today added a fresh note of alarm to a jittery Congress and country.

The statement came soon after President Truman announced a move to bring a truce between Arabs and Jews in Palestine.

Truman told a press conference that he saw no alternative to such a truce except the danger of "open warfare" with all its grave threat to world peace.

Another development was the appearance before a congressional committee of Defence Secretary Forrestal, with a request for power to draft men from 19 through 25, and to greatly increase military establishments.

Forrestal told the committee that Russia had not yet been able to make atomic bombs.

John Sullivan, Secretary of the Navy, testifying before the Senate armed services committee in support of the request for increased establishments, gave the submarine story without drama and without detail.

He calmly informed the committee that "recently submarines not belonging to any nation west of the iron curtain, have been sighted off our shores."

Subs May Be Russian

Sullivan left the obvious implication that the submarines were Russian, and he told the committee how well-equipped the Russian navy was with German-type submarines.

He said also that the United States navy was not fully equipped to cope with the latest type submarines, and reminded the committee how successful the Germans were in the last war with far fewer submarines than the Russians now have.

Sullivan was not pressed for details.

Amusement Tax Bill Passed Thru Committee

Toronto, March 27 (CP)—Opposition groups in the Ontario Legislature continued to chip away at the government's amusement tax bill before the Easter recess Thursday. But without any apparent success.

The bill, under which Ontario will impose a 20-per cent amusement tax when the Dominion vacates that field, rode through committee while the opposition took potshots in the form of suggested changes.

A. A. MacLeod (LPP-Toronto Bellwoods) led off by suggesting that the tax should be 10 per cent instead of 20. The 20 per cent figure was too stiff for the average wage earner, he said.

Farquhar Oliver, Liberal opposition leader, added his concurring voice. He noted that the Dominion was gaining some $16,000,000from the tax at present.

This, he said, means that when Ontario takes it over for the Province it should receive more than twice as much as the $3,200,000 figure the government had set as its objective. The revenue from the bill will go toward hospital improvement and expansion in Ontario.

Refugee Arrested In Rape-Slaying

Petaluma, Calif., March 27—(AP)—Three alert small town policemen arrested a Hungarian war refugee yesterday for the weird rape slaying of a Nevada minister's wife. The man was identified by police as Laszlo Varga, 19. He is charged with raping 22-year-old Mrs. Billee Rahe Morning at Wells, Nev., Monday, then beating her to death with a rolling pin while her teeth-marked body, stripped of clothing, was tied to a bed.

Bill Will Only Straighten Out Taxation Problem

Toronto, March 27 (CP)—Premier Drew said in the legislature before it recessed for Easter on Thursday that the Ontario Crown Lands Bill has "no earthly relation" to the action of the Federal government in cancelling a $40,000,000 housing project scheduled—for the province.

The Premier apparently at first had not intended to refer to the statements made in Ottawa on Thursday by Trade Minister Howe on housing.

The Premier said Ontario's bill is simply to straighten out the complex taxation problem that has arisen in Wartime Housing districts.

The bill would give Ontario power to cut off public services to any wartime area, leaving the full responsibility on the Dominion, if it refuses to make "suitable" agreements on money in lieu of taxes.

New Problems Will be Aired Before Pan-American Congress

Bogota, Colombia, March 27 C (AP)—Bogota is applying final hurried efforts to look beautiful and gracious for the biggest event in its 400-year history — the 9th International Conference of American states which opens next Tuesday.

Better known as the Pan-American Conference, it is the first full - dress meeting of the Western Hemisphere Republics since the Lima gathering in 1938.

At Bogota, the 21 countries which make up the Pan-American Union hope to mold their system of co-ordination and co-operation into a new structure which fits the needs of modern politics.

(While Canada always has been assured of the 22nd seat among the Western Hemisphere powers should she choose, she has not yet become a member of the Pan-American Union.)

Countries outside the hemisphere have a definite stake in the deliberations. To Great Britain and other custodians of colonial territory in the Western Hemisphere the newly raised outcry against colonialism makes the conference of singular importance.

The conference is likely to be an outlet for forceful expression of Latin America's old desire for economic independence.

Generally, Latin American economy is based on its role of supplier of raw materials for the great industrial countries. The feeding of raw material to these nations and the continued delay in individualization have been sore points for many a Latin - American patriot.

The United States' aid - for - Europe project as embodied in the Marshall plan is worrying some Latin American republics which fear that it means further postponement of industrial development. The United States is their only source of machinery and capital goods and htey want assurances that shipments will continue to Latin America despite Marshall plan commitments.

For more than 100 years the American republics have discussed colonialism in the Western Hemisphere but in recent months the issue became front page news. The problem was brought to the fore just in time for an airing at the conference when Britain sent the cruiser Nigeria, to "show the flag" in the Falkland Islands.

Argentina reiterated its old claims to the islands which appear as her territory on Argentine maps. Argentina and Chile both proclaimed their sovereignty over Antarctic regions.

EARLY TORNADOES STRIKE CENTRAL STATES, KILL 20

Buildings in Several Centres Demolished

Chicago, March 27—(AP)—Early spring tornadoes and thunderstorms ripped across parts of the central and southern sections of the United States yesterday, killing more than twenty persons.

The tocadic gales which struck west central Indiana, parts of Missouri and Illinois and Alabama were the third to sweep over the country's mid-section within a week. The death toll from the twisters and storms was about 75. More than 40 died in last week's tornadoes while 13 lost their lives in the gales which hit Oklahoma Thursday.

Yesterday's twisters left their biggest path of destruction in west central Indiana. The known dead was 19. Scores were injured. Buildings in several communities were demolished.

Two persons lost their lives and scores were hurt when a tornado struck twice at Aliceville, Ala., near the Alabama-Mississippi line.

Another twister swept over an area along the Mississippi River near the Missouri-Illinois line at St. Charles, Mo. No deaths were reported in the region, where last week's tornadoes took the liyes of more than a score of persons.

A mother and her two sons were killed near Paris, Ill., near the storm area, in an automobile-truck collision during a driving hail storm.

Stormy weather was general over most sections of the central states yesterday. Strong winds, rain, hail, sleet and snow swept over the area. The rains diminished today after falls from eastern and central Arkansas northward into eastern Iowa and through the Ohio Valley and Lower Lakes region.

Red Cross disaster units were sent into the stricken Indiana communities — Coatesville and Danville — hardest hit by the tornadoes.

Nineteen Known Dead

Danville, Ind., March 27—(AP)—Nineteen persons were known dead in Indiana today as bulldozers growled through the rubble left by a tornado in search of other victims of yesterday's wind.

Coatesville, town of 350 persons in the southwestern Hendricks county, counted 13 dead and three persons missing. Survivors searched in dread through the wreckage of 25 homes and several business houses, expecting to find several more bodies.

The Red Cross named 11 dead at Coatesville, and police said two other unidentified bodies had been removed from wreckage.

Danville, Hendricks county seat of 2,000 population and 20 miles west of Indianapolis, was half flattened by the storm but listed only one death.

Hadley, community between Danville and Coatesville, listed three dead.

Dozens of persons were injured several of them severely. Thirty-seven were listed as admitted to hospitals.

U.S. Charges Russia Operates Concentration Camps in E. Germany

Washington, March 27 (AP)—The United States has charged Russia with smashing political opponents in eastern Germany by throwing them into concentration camps without trial.

In a sharp note to the Russians last night, the State Department said Russia-backed political parties in the former enemy country are "the new bulwark for a totalitarian regime" and added:

"Concentration camps are being used anew for individuals unwilling to accept this totalitarianism." A diplomatic official, meanwhile, identified two of the camps as Buchenwald—where millions perished at Nazi hands during the war—and Oranienburg.

The American note was in answer to a Russian protest that the western powers are splitting Germany—and Europe—in defiance of the Potsdam agreement.

Flatly rejecting that charge—as Britain did yesterday—the United States referred to moves it has taken with Britain and France to achieve the "pacification of Germany and the economic recovery of Europe," and added:

"It is not these steps which have led to the political cleavage of Europe as claimed by the Soviet government, but rather prior actions of the Soviet government and a group of eastern European states under Soviet influence."

Those actions, said the note, "have disrupted the normal framework of the European community and interfered with the progress of recovery from the effects of the war."

The American answer, signed by Assistant State Secretary Norman Armour, was delivered last night to Russian Ambassador Alexander S. Panyushkin and released soon afterwards by the State Department.

Nothing in the Potsdam document, retorted the American note, prevents two or three powers from discussing Germany if four powers cannot do so. And it reminded the Russians that they had been invited to join in the talks but had declined.

PREMIER DECLARES AIR IMMIGRATION SCHEME SCUTTLED

Program Must End in April Due to Cancellation of Air Contract

Toronto, March 27—(CP)—All was quiet on the Ontario legislative front today in the lull of a five-day Easter holiday but it was on far from a quiet note that the House adjourned last Thursday, until next Wednesday.

The sitting was highlighted by charges levelled by Premier Drew that Trade Minister Howe had "scuttled" Ontario's air immigration scheme.

The Premier said the program which had brought 7,000 British immigrants to Canada in its first year, would end as of April 30 due to Dominion government cancellation of the contract between Trans-Canada Air Lines and the Ontario government.

"Under Mr. Howe's orders the contract for air immigration has been cancelled," the Premier said. "Mr. Howe has scuttled the first successful plan for airborne immigration in history."

(In Ottawa Trade Minister Howe denied the charges. "That's what I've learned to expect from Premier Drew whenever this government attempts to help the Ontario government out of a difficulty."

(Mr. Howe reiterated statements he had made in a letter to Ontario Planning Minister Porter concerning the reasons T.C.A. cancelled permission to the province to continue having British immigrants brought to Canada by Transocean Air Lines, an American company.

(The minister stood by his assertions that the use of Transocean is a drain on Canada's supply of American dollars; that Transocean uses inferior planes—"old" DC4s, and that it's operations violate international air regulations.)

Pontiff Receives Easter Visitors

Vatican City, March 27 (AP)—Pope Pius, who wears the red mozzetta (hood) for 51 weeks of the year, donned the white on this holy Saturday to receive his many Easter visitors.

Because of the Easter weekend holidays in the congregations and Vatican offices, the Pope's regular audiences with Cardinals and prelates of the curia—the audiences "di tabella" were cancelled to be resumed Wednesday.

However, he was receiving hundreds of persons in private audiences. A large number of these were British, French, Swiss and American tourists here for Easter week. Some of these he received singly. Others called in groups.

At 11 a.m., the bells of all Rome's 400-odd churches, silent yesterday and this morning, gave tongue together in sign of the end of mourning for Christ on the Cross.

Priests toured the city blessing the homes of Romans.

In the Vatican, Father Nicola Fattorini, priest of the Vatican Parochial Church of Sact'Anna, blessed the apartments and offices. Mons. Camillo De Romanis, Vicar General for the Vatican, blessed Pope Pius' own apartments.

CONGRESS SEEKS EXTRA PADLOCKS ON WAR EXPORTS

Truman Issues Proclamation Tightening Controls on Engines, Radar Equipment

Washington, March 27 (AP)—A Truman administration clampdown on export of war goods to Russia failed today to stifle demands in Congress for extra padlocks.

Representative Karl Mundt (Rep. S. D.) said he intends to go right ahead with an amendment to the $6,205,000,000 House of Representatives foreign aid bill which would give the director of the European recovery program veto power over "war potential" exports.

And Chairman Ross Rizley (Rep. Okla.) said his house expenditures sub-committee is going to dig deeper into the disposal of Second World War surplus supplies to the Russians.

Committee investigators, he told a reporter, are going to New York to check goods being loaded onto Russian-bound ships. He said they also will look into reports that speculators are selling export licences.

President Truman stepped into the export dispute yesterday. He issued a proclamation tightening controls, particularly on exports of plane engines and radar equipment.

Following that move these developments occurred:

1. Commerce Secretary Harriman told a press conference that Russia and her satellites are getting no exports except those the army and navy approve.

2. The War Assets administration said it is delaying for at least 30 days taking Finland's high bid of $1,666,900 for 46 unused steam locomotives. Finland and Russia are talking over a military treaty, but W.A.A. didn't mention that, or any other reason for its action.

Licences Reviewed

Harriman said the new policy on shipments to Russia has been in effect since March 1. He said the idea is to keep Russia and the satellites from getting United States goods that might build up their "war potential."

All export licences for any such goods, he said, now are reviewed by a special advisory board. Represented on it are: the army, navy, air force, atomic energy commission, national security resources board and the Departments of State, Commerce, Agriculture and Interior.

Mundt said in a statement that this is a "gratifying, constructive move." But he added it is "an open admission that their program of export controls to date has been inadequate and inept."

Mundt is a member of the House Foreign Affairs committee, which takes the $6,205,000,000 foreign aid bill to the House floor for amendments Monday. The measure is designed to supply global economic and military aid to backstop efforts of Europe and China to ward off Comunism.

SECRET FILES MOVED

New York, March 27—(AP)—Secret files of the New York office of the Atomic Energy Commission were moved to new quarters last night under armed guard. The entire moving operation from the Empire State building to the new headquarters at 70 Columbus Avenue was completed under cover of darkness. More than 50,000 cubic feet of equip-

ICE-BREAKER NOW ON WAY TO PORT WITH RESCUED MEN

Govt. Ship Caught All Night in Ice Pack

Sydney N. S., March 27 (CP)—The government ice-breaker Saurel, with 38 crew members from two ill fated sealing schooners aboard, was picking her way slowly towards North Sydney, N. S., today.

The Saurel itself was caught all night in an ice pack 40 miles from here. But at day break the thick hulled ice-breaker again started the battle against the ice floes. She was expected to make port about noon.

Meanwhile earlier reports that two more sealing vessels were in trouble were discounted by search and rescue officials.

Rescue of the crews of the sealers Teazer and Monica Walters from lonely St. Paul's Island Cape Breton and Newfoundland, climaxed a rugged saga of the sea. The men had trekked wearily over miles of grinding ice floes, constantly haunted by the fear that they might be crushed between the huge cakes of ice, to reach safety after their ships were sunk.

Overhead five aircraft had droned in a monotonous search all day Thursday as a blinding snowstorm swept in from the Atlantic to make their task of spotting the men almost impossible.

Men Are Spotted

They returned to reserve airport, near Sydney, Thursday night, ready to take off at dawn yesterday to continue the search. But before they were in the air, word had come through from the Island lighthouse radio station that the crew of the Teazer had reached safety.

But the aircraft went out to hunt for the men from the other sealing schooner and a short time later spotted the men as they were within a mile of the island. The aircraft hovered overhead until the last man had crawled to safety, then headed home.

The rescue operation was completed by the Saurel which bucked and bronched its way close to the shore to take the men aboard.

Undaunted by their brush with death a number of the men from the two lost ships were believed ready to accept berths on the Sydney sealing vessel Inverleigh which is almost ready to depart for the sealing grounds.

Injunction Blocks Sweepstake Winner

Toronto, March 27—(CP)—A temporary injunction has been taken out in Ireland to block Alfons Zaborek of Toronto from collecting $100,000 he won on an Irish sweepstake ticket. Fred Snell of Toronto, who claims half the money, arranged for the injunction. Snell contends Zaborek bought the winning ticket from him on a half-share basis. Zaborek says he paid the full $2.50 for the ticket.

REGULATIONS AFFECT OPTOMETRISTS

Toronto, March 27—(CP)—Ontario government regulations covering the optometry trade and defining conduct punishable under the Optometry Act were published this week. The regulations, which go into force in 60 days, prohibit the use by optometrists or opticians of such titles as doctor, eye specialist or oculist.

Czech Govt. to Ignore U.S. Demand For Explanation of Rise to Power

Lake Success, N.Y., March 27—(AP)—The Czechoslovak Communist government will ignore a United States demand for an explanation of its rise to complete power a spokesman said today.

He said the new regime takes the position that the coup last month was an internal affair and the United Nations has no business investigating. The spokesman for delegate Vladimir Houdek added that the American demand that Prague and Moscow lay their cards on the Security Council table does not alter the situation. Houdek has refused to take part in the debate.

Neither were there any indications here that Russian delegate Andrei Gromyko would be prodded into doing any explaining. Instead Gromyko is expected to keep counter charging that the United States is interfering in Italy and Greece.

These developments put the next move up to the Western Powers. Council debate resumes Wednesday.

So far Britain has said the spread of Communism must be stopped even at the risk of war. The United States has demanded Czech and Russian explanations. France has expressed the belief that President Eduard Benes is a prisoner of the Communists.

U. N. observers admitted the council would have difficulty making a decision after hearing only one side of the Czechoslovak case.

The United States may move for a U. N. investigating commission to be sent into Czechoslovakia to get facts and evidence. This would raise the question whether the Communist regime would allow the commission inside Czechoslovakia.

$275,000 Loss When Shawbridge, Que. Hotel Burns

100 Guests Safely Make Way Out of the Building

Montreal, March 27—(CP)—Fire early today destroyed the Maple Leaf Hotel in the Laurentian town of Shawbridge, 45 miles from here, causing damage estimated at $275,000 and bringing total loss in three Quebec province fires during the holiday period to nearly $1,000,000. All guests made their way out of the 50-room hotel safely.

Another fire Thursday night laid waste half the small town of Berthierville on the north shore of the St. Lawrence River 50 miles east of Montreal, causing damage estimated at $600,000.

The third fire wiped out the saw mill and lumber stock pile owned by Claude Forget at St. Jovite in the Laurentians with loss set at $50,000.

The Shawbridge fire broke out about 6 a.m. in the kitchen where the staff was preparing breakfast for 100 guests. It spread quickly through the three-storey structure as the help dashed about the building awakening guests who escaped in their night attire.

Destruction of the Maple Leaf Hotel brought to five the number of Laurentian resorts burned this winter and raised estimated losses there to $2,000,000.

Early in the season the Pine-Hurst Inn at Val Morin was destroyed. This was followed by a $600,000 fire in the Roney Terrace at Ste. Marguerite. Then came the destruction of the Val Morin Lodge and last week the Hotel LaPointe at St. Jerome was destroyed.

Tourist Camps Will be Under Govt. Supervision

Toronto, March 27—(CP)—New regulations which require licensing of all tourist camps in Ontario go into effect next Thursday, Ontario Premier Drew announced last night in a broadcast on the tourist industry.

"For the first time in our history, every tourist camp in the province, large or small, will be under government supervision," he said. "They will be subject to careful inspection.

"Every tourist operator will require a licence and these licences will only be issued by the local authorities if the camp provides accommodation which complies with the basic standards established by the Department of Travel and Publicity.

"There is no thought of imposing severe conditions which will put any camp operator out of business. We are insisting that the general reputation of our camps shall not suffer by unsuitable accommodation and by carelessness and unsatisfactory operations."

The premier said he believed the flow of United States visitors into Ontario this year would exceed last year's influx by more than 14,000,000. He predicted 1948 tourist traffic would bring more than $200,000,000 into the province.

Greek Guerrillas Forces Lose 1,614 In Five Weeks

Athens, March 27—(AP)—Premier Themistokles Sophoulis says guerrilla losses in the Pieria area since Feb. 21 total 1,614, while government casualties were 177.

Rebel dead were 754, he said, 571 were taken prisoner and 289 surrendered. Government casualties were 43 dead, 102 wounded and 32 missing.

Sophoulis said Loyalists routed an insurgent force of some 3,500 men in the Olympus – Pierria mountains and are pursuing the remnants. Pierria is west of Olympus in North Central Greece.

The American freighter Joe E. Mann arrived in Istanbul yesterday with 1,600 tons of military equipment for Turkey. It was the second such shipment to arrive in two days.

The cargo included tanks, jeeps, trucks, transport equipment and electrical supplies.

Sixteen medium bombers flew over Istanbul en route to Ankara yesterday in the second delivery of American planes to Turkey.

Athens press dispatches said operations on Mount Helikon are progressing satisfactorily. Helikon is about 50 miles [illegible] Athens. An army communique said 25 guerrillas have been killed and 13 taken captive there. Loyalist losses were one dead and five wounded, the report said.

Press reports said another guerrilla force in the same area was ambushed by government commandos and was decimated with 23 dead, eight captured and 14 surrendered.

The general staff announced a strong guerrilla force, estimated in press reports at more than 700, attacked a national guard headquarters 17 miles northwest of Sparta. Five guardsmen were killed before the attackers were repelled.

CHILLY WEATHER FOR EASTER PARADE

Chilly temperatures are the main outlook for the weather today and tomorrow. This Easter, the day of the Easter parade of the new spring finery, is forecast by the weatherman as clear and cool.

The new styles for spring may find that they are a little ahead of season, unless old Sol gets on the job and has Front Street comfortably warmed for tomorrow's big fashion parade.

VAGARIES OF WEATHER AFFECT SAP RUN

With the exception of those farmers who have the foresight to have covers for their sap buckets, syrup making in the district received a dampener today as result of the heavy downpour of rain which commenced in earnest at mid-morning.

Cold weather experienced during mid-week put a stop to the run of sap which had been good earlier in the week. Thursday afternoon and Good Friday again saw good runs of sap.

Opinion among farmers is divided as to the prospects for a good sap year, with some prophesying the season will be short.

RESIDENTS CLEAN UP LAWNS AND YARDS

Encouraged by temperature ranging well in the fifities, many local residents took advantage of the Good Friday holiday to get out the garden rake and rid lawns and back yards of leaves and the winter's accumulation of rubbish. Residents in shirt sleeves and armed with rakes and shovels were seen in various parts of the city.

And as result of the spring-like activity firemen were besieged with a series of calls for grass fires which had gotten out of hand. Firemen had one call for a grass fire to the corner of Ponton and Holloway Streets, while firemen were called to Coleman Flats on two occasions where fire had spread to long dry grass in the area.

Police Blotter

Definite signs that spring has again returned were seen over the weekend as police officers checked motorists who had the urge to speed while still within the city limits. Several motorists were checked on East Dundas Street, and also on East Bridge Street for driving faster than is permitted under the city by-law.

Also it appears that several motorists have failed to note the deadline for 1947 markers is now almost a week past. Two motorists were checked over the holiday for driving their cars with last year's markers.

Manager of the Capitol Theatre reported a truck had parked under the theatre canopy and had damaged a part of the neon sign when the truck was moved away. The original complaint was that the truck had been parked in a "no parking" area and was blocking traffic in front of the theatre.

Ratepayers Favor Southern High School District

At the final meeting of central and southern Hastings county centres regarding discussions and opinions on the establishment of high school districts, held in Frankford, Thursday afternoon, a representative gathering of officials and ratepayers of that area voted unanimously in favor of the question.

Mr. Hugh Miller, trustee of the Frankford Board of Education was the chairman and introduced High School Inspector S. R. Rendall, Toronto, who spoke on the matter.

There was some discussion as to whether the village favored the central or southern high school district, and the meeting voted in favor of the latter. It was pointed out that by sending students to Belleville a cheaper rate would be in force due to the fact that it would be a question of purchasing education, and not paying for debentures. Some of the mothers present at the meeting were in favor of sending their children to Trenton.

The Frankford Board of Education will meet the village council on April 5th and place before it the wishes of the ratepayers regarding the matter.

Railway Traffic Exceptionally Heavy Thursday

Easter holiday travel on the railways reached a peak on Thursday and Friday as trains running through the city were crowded to capacity with as high as eight sections being operated on some of the passenger runs. Eight sections of No. 6 were operated on the Toronto-Montreal run Thursday evening.

Several other passenger runs operated four to six sections with railway officials claiming the traffic to be every bit as heavy as during the Christmas holiday season.

Main highways also were crowded with traffic on Friday with No. 2 seeing a constant stream of cars operating in both directions. The traffic started early in the morning and continued throughout the day.

Provincial Police reported no serious accidents as result of the heavy highway traffic.

2,000 Visit Town To Witness Manifestations

Konnersreuth, Germany, March 27 — (AP) — Therese Neumann, 52-year-old peasant, lay in an apparent trance in the bedroom of her home on Good Friday.

As it has every Good Friday since 1923, blood seemed to ooze from her palms, her eyes and her right shoulder.

The woman, clothed in white, lay rigid, her arms upraised. Her eyes were closed and sometimes her face was distorted, as if in pain.

A priest stood nearby. Against one wall of the room was an altar.

Some 2,000 Germans and Americans journeyed to this little town near the Czechoslovak border to witness the spectacle. Some thought they had seen a miracle. Others said they believed science could explain it.

The Roman Catholic Church is non-committal.

A similar manifestation has been recorded in the story of the life of St. Francis of Assisi. Others since then have been subject to what has been called "the Blessed Stigmata."

Miss Neumann first attracted attention in 1923. At first the blood appeared every Friday. Last and this year it was reported only on Good Friday. Blood was visible to visitors within two yards of the woman.

Capt. Charles B. Fabing of Chicago, a Catholic chaplain, was among the visitors. He said the incident was extraordinary.

The subject of Therese Neumann has been a matter of controversy for a quarter century. Her case has been discussed by psychic research congresses and by scientists.

FAVOR EISENHOWER

New York, March 27 — (AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., and his older brother, Elliott, yesterday called on Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to seek the Democratic presidential nomination.

Paul Mercier Opens Beautiful New Jewellery Store in City

Mr. Paul Mercier, popular young business man of this city has moved his jewellery shop to more spacious premises at 325 Front St., next door to the McCarthy Theatre, where he is holding "Open House" today.

The new store, decorated in a soft shade of blue on walls and cases, is artistically arranged for the favorable display of watches, clocks, jewellery and silverware for useful and decorative purposes in the homes of Belleville. Soft fluorescent lighting above and inside the cases highlights the beautiful silver and jewellery. In one front window, among a display of watches of well-known makes, is a beautiful Bulova sealed in a plastic case by the manufacturers, a particularly fine, jewelled product which may be won by the visitor who, when signing the guest book is able to guess the serial number on the case of the watch.

Commensurate with the occasion are large baskets and other containers of beautiful blossoms expressing best wishes for success to Mr. Mercier, adding considerably to the attractive interior of the store. Among others are outstanding bouquets from the Canadian William A. Rogers Co., of Toronto, the Tavannes Watch Co. Ltd., of Montreal and the Bulova Watch Co. of Toronto, carrying congratulatory messages.

Mr. Mercier will welcome all visitors and is hopeful of making this new shop a place where callers will feel "at home."

Maple Syrup Sells At $4.75 Gallon, Offering Limited

A heavy downpour of rain which continued throughout the morning kept attendance at the local farmers' market to a minimum on Saturday morning with the outside market being practically deserted.

Offered for the first time last Saturday maple syrup was available in limited quantity with vendors asking $4.75 per gallon. Only three farmers were seen with syrup.

Another indication that spring is here was seen in the offering of pussywillows, while one florist displayed tulips and other seasonal flowers.

On the inside market eggs held at the usual 45 cents the dozen for first with medium fetching 42 cents. Fowl sold generally at 45 cents the pound for well finished birds. One vendor offered completely dressed turkey at slightly over 60 cents the pound.

Top grade McIntosh apples brought 80 cents the peck, while Talman Sweets sold at $2.60 and good Spys at $3 the hamper. Cooking apples ranged from $1.75 to $2 the hamper. Very few vegetables were offered, a few carrots being quoted at 50 cents the half peck, while potatoes were 55 cents the peck.

One fish vendor offered whitefish at 35 cents the pound.

A few farmers displayed young pigs with $16 being asked for fair sized shoats, while the general price asked was $12 each.

Mountain View Boy Wins VON Poster Contest

The winning entry in the V. O. N. 50th Anniversary poster contest was decided by three judges to be one submitted by Michael Valiquet, 13, of Mountain View, who receives the $10 prize offered by the president of the association.

The poster, based on the initials of the Order in gold lettering with illustrations inset to describe the phases of teaching and administration of the workers and a picture of a uniformed nurse with her black bag in one corner, will be forwarded to Ottawa for entry in the national poster competition to be held next month.

Honorable mention was given to posters submitted by Ernie Poirier, 13, 156 Albert Street, and Gerry Meagher, 9 Octavia Street. The judges experienced considerable difficulty in deciding the winning poster, in view of the very high quality of work done by the young artists. The judges were G. Rattray, J. Walker and Mrs. G. Faulkner, all of whom are associated with art.

The posters were judged on publicity value, originality and artistry. They are part of the publicity campaign of the order now celebrating its 50th anniversary.

He said that he had carried a study of Molly, a two-inch black tropical fish and cousin of the guppy, through 20 generations and never had found a male.

Molly, he said, depends on male fish of other species for fertilization. The results, he added, are more females.

Life Underwriters Hold Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Quinte Life Underwriters Association was held at Chez Henri on Thursday with President F. G. Creeggan in the chair.

P. C. McGuire, C.L.U., chairman of the Public Relations Committee introduced discussion on proposed dinner meeting to be held in the latter part of April at which a representative group of local citizens would be invited to hear an outstanding life insurance speaker. A committee was appointed to arrange details of the project.

Mr. E. L. Fraser of Trenton was the guest speaker and delivered a most instructive talk entitled "Vocational Guidance and Business Ethics." Mr. Fraser stated that if business is to maintain the respect and goodwill of the public, a high standard of ethical service must be rendered.

Each individual is an ambassador to the public and as such he should adopt a broad outlook. He should serve in two ways through the service he renders in his vocation and through an active participation in the affairs of his community.

The speaker was introduced by Harold Dowden and appreciation was expressed by Don Williams.

PATRICK—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, who passed away on March 28, 1939.

Nine years have passed dear father,
Since you were called away.
How well do I remember,
That sad and weary day.
He bid no one a last farewell.
The heavenly gates were open,
A loving voice said come.
God knows how much we miss you,
He counts the tears I shed,
And whispers that he only sleeps,
Your loved one is not dead.
If all the world were mine to give,
I would give it, yes and more,
To see the face of my dear husband
Come smiling through the door.

Ever remembered and sadly missed by loving wife, daughter and sons. M27

LINE—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Bertha Line, who passed away, March 28, 1943.

We do not forget her we love her too dearly,
For her memory to fade from our lives like a dream,
Our lips need not speak when our hearts mourn sincerely,
For grief often dwells where it seldom is seen.

Sadly missed by husband, Charles and daughter Edith. M27

A New System for Low-Cost Hauling with revolutionary method of linking trailer to tractor. With this new Ferguson System of transportation you can haul loads of 3 tons or more out of soft fields, up steep grades, on slippery roads or over rough ground. On countless farms, located at average local market distances, this latest Ferguson invention slashes costs of hauling farm products—a revolutionary new solution to your farm transportation problems.

Only the Ferguson System, invented, perfected and patented by Harry Ferguson, and authorized only for use in the new Ferguson Tractor, gives you all five of these big advantages: 1. Penetration without excessive implement weight. 2. Both finger tip and automatic hydraulic depth control. 3. Traction without excessive built-in weight. 4. Keeps the tractor's front end down. 5. Automatically protects both implement and tractor when the implement strikes an obstruction.

Easter

With joyousness and happiness the Christian world has come to the season of the festival of Easter with its message of hope and inspiration to noble living found in the Life of Him who walked the fields of Palestine more than nineteen centuries ago and brought to man that revelation of God which is the Christian's faith and hope.

Through the long centuries since the days of His life when He walked among men and went about His mission of spreading the Gospel of human brotherhood, and love, this season of the religious year has been marked with special services of adoration and rejoicing, the highest reaches of music and art and the devotion of His followers uniting to make Easter of the deepest religious significance to men and women the world over.

No life has equalled His life in its influence upon the world. His Gospel is transforming life on this globe despite what men may do, so that a great proportion of humanity has been brought to His influence and to feel that He is the Way, the Truth and the Light. His influence has spread to all lands and in His Name missionaries have gone out to all parts of the world to spread the Gospel. His followers feel that the spirit of brotherhood He taught will be the only cure for the ills and trials which beset man's souls and bodies.

Easter is the Feast of the Resurrection. Christians finding in the Easter message the key to the mysteries of life.

The impact of His life and message down the centuries has been of profoundest significance, affecting the state of the world, the Gospel He taught is being spread across the earth and every branch of human interest is profoundly affected by the views He held and by His actions and teachings. His followers feel that only in the light of His message will men find the answer to the questions and problems which baffle mankind.

Men and women have had reason during the past three or four decades to ponder over the questions of human brotherhood. Christ's message and life have deeply influenced human thought and have changed the course of history. That they will go on conquering the hearts of human beings with love and brotherhood is the Christian faith.

Science and Discovery

One of the problems of aviation is refuelling. Now it has been found possible to refuel a plane in flight over the Atlantic.

Realization that something has to be achieved is hardly thought before science and invention come along with the answer.

this age-old enemy of mankind for cancer has recently been shown to have been known to inhabitants of earth many generations ago.

Making the war on cancer is a truly heroic effort.

Research by Submarine

The British submarine H.M.S. "Ambush" has recently set off for the North Atlantic and Arctic on special patrol. She carries new submarine equipment which the Navy calls "Snort," a device enabling her to remain submerged for a long time. "Snort" is equipment in a form perfected after long experiment by the Navy. It was originally devised with the help of data captured from the Germans and James Buchan told listeners to the BBC about it. "'Snort,'" he said, "is still on the Secret List and all that I can tell you about it is that it involves the use of a long tube rather like an extra periscope, only it's on the hull and not on the conning tower. Through this tube the exhaust gases from the engines of the submarine are blown out and fresh air is sucked in." Before this new device was perfected the submarine could not use her main Diesel engines under water and had to rely on battery driven motors, which reduced her speed. And when the batteries ran out she had to come to the surface. With "Snort" it is hoped that many of these difficulties may have been overcome. "She can travel faster," said Buchan, "escape the attentions of enemy eyes in ships and aircraft, and most important —can avoid being picked up by enemy radar. She can keep her batteries charged ready for an emergency and if she has to dive to avoid trouble, she gets off to a flying start. This equipment has already been tested by a long submersion in tropical waters. Now the Admiralty wants to know how a submarine will stand up to submersion in icy waters. Will the formation of ice force the submarine to surface, and how will the extreme cold affect the crew?"

To give the crew of H.M.S. "Ambush" the best chance to face the conditions in the Arctic a special diet has been worked out. Thomas Maltby, who served in these northern waters with the Royal Navy, had something to say about whether the men men would feel the cold or not. "The sea in the Polar regions," he said, "it looks black by the way, instead of blue—freezes at a temperature of around 28 degrees and ships often had ice hacked away from deck machinery. Crews in mine-sweepers based in Murmansk sometimes slept in their hammocks at night covered with sheepskin coats and with electric heaters switched, yet in the morning it was not uncommon to find ice on the bulkheads of the mess decks. Try and imagine yourself living in a steel hull beneath that sea for seven weeks. The hull inside, of course, would be heated, and you would have special clothing and food but even in these conditions and in such temperatures you would have every excuse if you allowed your imagination even a short excursion into the land of fantasy. But there are many other physical factors — some as yet unknown — which any crew on such a Jules Verne voyage will experience, and then discover that they will have an important bearing on future Naval strategy."

Jet-Propelled Toys

Jet-propelled model aircraft, racing cars and ships capable of speeds of 30 m.p.h. and more, are now being made by an English toy firm. Motive power is provided by tiny jet cartridges, closed at one end by a cardboard disc and at the other by a thin metal disc pierced with a central hole, which is the jet. All a child has to do is to clip a cartridge into the motor and light the end of the igniter wick which passes

Arthur L. Booth after seven years of faithful and efficient service on the Belleville police force as a constable, has been promoted to the rank of sergeant to succeed Dan. Boyd, who is now Chief of Police at Galt, Ontario. The appointment of Sergeant Booth is a popular one. He joined the force in 1919.

The tender of $3,450.00 submitted by F. F. Meagher for the market tolls was accepted by the city council.

The Rev. Dr. W. S. MacTavish and Mrs. MacTavish will leave on Wednesday for Winnipeg to visit their son, Mr. W. L. MacTavish, who is the editor of the Winnipeg Tribune.

MARCH 27TH., 1918.

Merchants are busy, following the flood, in clearing ice and rubbish from the basements of their stores and back yards. The task is not easy and far from being pleasant.

The weather man introduced a little of the January brand of weather today. It froze quite hard last night.

Under the direction of Ald. R. P. White, workmen commenced today to make repairs to the footbridge which was damaged in the flood. The residents of West Belleville are inconvenienced considerably by the bridge being out of commission.

Trappers are getting ready for the muskrat season which is rapidly approaching and they expect a good season this spring. It is reported that muskrats are plentiful in the creeks and streams.

40 YEARS AGO

MARCH 27TH., 1908.

The West Hastings Conservative Association convention was held at Marmora yesterday and was well attended by prominent men of the party from all parts of the riding. As was anticipated, Mr. E. Guss Porter, the present member of the Federal House received the nomination. The following officers were elected: Hon. Presidents, Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Mr. H. Corby, ex. M.P.; President, Mr. A. Riddell, Bancroft; First Vice President, Mr. S. T. Vandervoort, Sidney township; Second Vice President, Mr. William H. Nugent, Coe Hill; Secretary, Mr. William Carnew, Belleville; Treasurer, Mr. W. S. Martin, Stirling.

While some inconvenience has been caused by the water in the river being exceptionally high, no particular damage has resulted. Many cellars and yards along the west side of Front Street were flooded up to noon when the water subsided owing to the ice moving towards the harbor. No further trouble is anticipated.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What does "the advice and consent of the Senate" mean?

The Constitution says the President shall have the power to make treaties and appointments "by and with the advice and consent of the Senate."

When the Government was organized, "by and with the advice and consent of the Senate" was interpreted literally and arrangements were made for the President to sit with the Senators as an executive council when treaties were considered.

Under this arrangement President Washington met the Senators in their chamber at 11:30 a.m. on August 22 to advise with them on the terms of a treaty to be negotiated with the southern Indians. He brought Secretary of War Henry Knox with him because he was "well acquainted with the business."

The proceedings were cumbersome and unsatisfactory. The Senators were not familiar with the subject and were unable to understand the technical documents when they were read. Senator William Maclay of Pennsylvania wrote in his diary:

"Our President hurried over the paper. Carriages were driving past, and such a noise, I could tell it was something about Indians, but was not master of one sentence of it. Signs were made to the door-keeper to shut down the sashes." When a motion was made to refer to some of the questions to a committee President Washington, according to Maclay, "started up in a violent fret," and said, "This defeats every purpose of my coming here."

Finally the proceedings were postponed until the next Monday and the President withdrew "with a discontented air." On Monday the Senate and the President resumed consideration of the proposed treaty. "The President," wrote Maclay, "wore a different aspect from what he did on Saturday. He was placid and serene, and manifested a spirit of accommodation. Declared his consent that his questions should be amended." After a long and tedious debate, the business was finished and the President withdrew from the Senate never to return to it in its capacity as a council of state.

Under date of Nov. 10, 1824, Secretary of State John Quincy Adams wrote of Secretary of the Treasurer William H. Crawford at a Cabinet meeting: "Mr. Crawford told . . . the story of President Washington's having at an early period of his administration gone to the Senate with a project of a treaty to be negotiated, and been present at their deliberations upon it. They debated it and proposed alterations, so that when Washington left the Senate-chamber he said he would be damned if he ever went there again. And ever since that time treaties have been negotiated by the executive before submitting them to the consideration of the Senate."

PLENTY OF TROUBLE ON VOYAGE

San Francisco, March 27 — (AP)— The liner General Gordon docked Wednesday, 21 days out of Shanghai, with a log crammed full of trouble. The first day out of Manila a woman leaped overboard with her four-months-old son. A ship's officer was detained by customs at Honolulu for investigation of smuggling. Four appendix operations were performed on crew members in five days. Two babies were delivered. One, prematurely born, died. Five stowaways were discovered.

LOADING BRITISH RAILS ON RUSSIAN SHIP

A Russian ship at the Bristol, Eng., docks is shown loading up with a cargo of British rails, one of the first cargoes of British goods to be exported under the recent Anglo-Soviet trade agreement. Some of the cargo of rails are being loaded on board the Russian ship.

Father of Two Slays Mistress, Takes Own Life

Montreal, March 27 —(CP)— An inquest will be hld today in what polic dscribed as the murder-and-suicide deaths of Mary Ann Copley 22, and Dan Shackett 38, in a Durocher Street rooming house yesterday.

Police said that Shackett shot the gir lfour times then shot himself twice. She died immediately while Shackett died a few hours later in hospital.

Detectives George Allain of the homicide squad said Miss Copley, a native of Glace Bay, N.S., and Shackett, a married man with two children, had lived together for about two weeks.

The girl, partly naked, was found in her bedroom, shot four times. She had two wounds in the chest and two in the abdomen.

Police said that Shackett, after killing the girl, walked out of the room and shot himself twice with the two remaining bullets in his revolver while standing at the head of the stairs. He fell down the stairs and died a few hours later in hospital.

The girl was dead when the first policeman reached the scene.

The sound of gunfire apparently was not heard in the rooming house.

However, when Shackett fell down the stairs, the noise aroused the attention of another roomer, Mary Brown.

Miss Brown investigated and saw the body. She called the landlord and telephoned police.

In a suicide note, dated March 24, Shackett wrote of an accident "framed against us," implying that he had spent three days in confinement and almost went crazy. He explained in the note that he wasn't guilty. "We may as well end it all," he concluded.

Police believed that Shackett had been involved in an accident a short time ago, thus accounting for the reference in his suicide note.

PREMIER DECLARES

Says Reasons False

Premier Drew in the legislature described these reasons as false. "Each of those explanations is utterly untrue and transparently dishonest."

"Mr. Howe is well aware that all the money spent for these flights is collected from the immigrant themselves in England and no Canadian dollars are involved.

"The suggestion that transocean are using inferior or dangerous equipment is a shameless slander upon one of the finest operating air lines to be found anywhere. . . .

"The statement that this operation is in violation of international agreements is wholly untrue. We have a letter from Sir William Hildred stating that no international agreement has been violated in the manner suggested."

Transocean, operated as a temporary sub-contracted company of T.C.A. so that its aircraft could land in Canada, brought 80 per cent of the 7,000 immigrants to Canada last year. T.C.A. transported the other 20 per cent.

Ontario government plans for operations during April were that Transocean would have performed the 18 flights scheduled for the month.

However, T.C.A. advised the government of refusal of the Air Transport Board to renew Transocean's licence.

This was followed by a letter from Dominion authorities to Planning Minister Porter which he described as "apparently intended as one month's notice of termination of the existing contract."

This would mean that after April 30 the air immigration scheme would be ended, unless a new contract is drawn up between T.C.A. and Ontario.

RETREAT FROM HIGH POTENCY

I was much surprised at your retreat from your previous recommendation of high potency vitamin D for arthritis (writes an engineer). I had severe arthritis in shoulders, feet, hands and back and spent a great deal on specialists and treatments, without noticeable improvement. Then three years ago on your suggestion I began taking high potency D, an average of 250,000 units a day, after nearly a decade of hopelessness. I am now and for over a year have been practically free from the pains that had become my lot. Of course this may have been faith cure or a cure effected by your old friend A. J. Coincidence, but I thought you might like to know about it.

(E. H. R.)

Thank you, yes, I am happy to know about it.

I have not retreated from my previous recommendation of the high potency vitamin D treatment (from 200,000 to 500,000 units of vitamin D daily). In the booklet The Ills Called Rheumatism (for copy send twenty cents and stamped self addressed envelope) I say the treatment requires the constant supervision of the physician. I also say that the massive dose treatment, in my opinion, offers little if any advantage over the calcium and vitamin D treatment which any one may take on his own. This can do no harm in any case, usually improves the general health whether it brings any relief in the pain and disability or not.

I did pull in my horns on the high potency D treatment when the authorities restricted the sale of high potency vitamin D to the public. The 50,000 unit capsules or oil solution (50,000 units to the teaspoonful) can now be obtained only on a physician's prescription. So I leave it to the physicians.

I don't know whether your cure or relief is due to the vitamin D you took or to old man Coincidence. Yours is by no means the only instance of the kind readers have reported. But notwithstanding such instances, I must confess I have not been impressed by the results obtained from high potency vitamin D treatment. It takes more than just an occasional apparent cure to establish the efficacy of the treatment.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Save Your Teeth

Dentist said I have a bad case of pyorrhea and I must have at least eight of my back teeth pulled. Another dentist seid they are not so bad. In fact, he didn't even take an X-ray. am worried.

(Mrs. D. R. W.)

Answer — My advice is that you have your physician consult with your dentist and do not sacrifice a tooth without the agreement of them both that the tooth is beyond repair or usefulness. In the booklet "Save Your Teeth", "dead teeth" and "pyorrhea" are discussed in detail. For a copy send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope.

Does an operation for varicocele affect virility or potency or fertility?

Answer — No, and neither does varicocele.

Is there anything to the old adage about losing all five senses sooner or later after you have lost one? Broke my nose as a child and later lost sense of smell. Now a person much older than myself tells me I am certain to lose the remaining senses.

(Mrs. E. P.)

Answer — You are. We all are certain to lose 'em sooner or later — you know when we turn up our toes. Aside from that you are as likely to lose other senses as any one is.

Air Refuelling Brings Argument to Sea Airways

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Refuelling of airplanes while in flight is being tested over the North Atlantic, and is causing a lively argument.

Proponents say it is just what is needed to make long-distance aviation pay; that it enables planes to start with light gasoline load and heavier payload; that particularly right now it would enable Britain to use present-type planes until she develops the craft she is aiming at five or 10 years hence. They say it is safe and reduces some present dangers.

But many crews don't like it — they don't think it is in the interests of peacetime flying to have another aircraft hovering about 100 feet from you high over the ocean; that it adds an unnecessary hazard to a business which is not without hazards already; they term it variously "Operations Hangover" and "Operations Trapeze."

An important point is whether the average passenger will accept it as he has accepted other phases of flying.

Whether or not flight refuelling comes into use in trans-ocean runs now, much research has gone into it which should be of future value. There seems a chance it will find early use on some routes, such as Africa, even if only temporarily. Its long-range place may fluctuate with the direction of airplane design. There is considerable doubt that this is the time to use it on the North Atlantic.

Questions which occur are: Is it an undue strain to put on crews responsible for many lives? Will widespread use add up too many human and mechanical factors which may break down at some point? Is it a performance of skill which calls for greater consistency than can be humanly expected?

Flight refuelling proponents say "No" to these questions and point out that there has not yet been an accident.

Tested For Years

Refuelling in the air as such is not new, but its application to passenger lines, and widespread use, would be.

Sir Alan Cobham, famous for his world flights in the 1920s became interested in 1931, and by 1939 it was used as a method of assisted take-off for heavily-laden flying boats of Imperial Airways operating non-stop between Ireland and Newfoundland. Wartime development was continued in 1946 and 1947 and, last summer, with 11 round-trip tests between London and Bermuda refuelling was done by a receiving plane which came out from the Azores. Now it is receiving tests on the North Atlantic.

The tests are being made by Flight Refuelling Ltd., of which Sir Alan is managing director, under auspices of the British Ministry of Civil Aviation. British Overseas Airways Corporation have lent a four-engined Liberator with crew, which flies between Montreal and London.

Tanker planes—four-engined Lancastrians—are based at Gandar, Nfld., Goose, Labrador, and Shannon, Eire, and come out 200 to 600 miles over the Atlantic to meet the ship to be refuelled.

No passengers are carried on the test trips, but a few newspapermen, including this writer, have observed it. We happened to see one of the few failures when our tanker plane had radar trouble and couldn't find us in an hour's search off Gander.

We were not unduly concerned because we had faith that the crews would have a decent respect for their own necks, but we doubted that passengers would have been at ease while two huge planes hunted for one another in hazy conditions over the Atlantic. However, this was a test trip to iron out "bugs" and in actual passenger operation the search probably wouldn't have gone on when equipment trouble developed. If passenger confidence is to be maintained the operation needs to go off without a hitch, or else be abandoned immediately.

Failure to make contact is not in itself a danger, because the ship to be refuelled carries enough gasoline to take her to one of two or three airports—with reserve to spare.

Successful Jobs

Later we saw three successful refuellings—off Gander at 9,000 feet; and on the return from London, off Shannon at 18,000 feet and off Labrador at 9,000. With two refuellings we came non-stop from London to Montreal in 19½ hours, delayed by winds.

The actual refuellings were beautiful jobs—the tanker coming up below to starboard, intercepting our line with one of theirs, rising above us, paying out hose, feeding gasoline—all the while the two ships with speeds matched seeming almost to stand still though proceeding at 175 miles an hour. It takes about 20 minutes from contact to breakaway.

There seemed no hazard except for the one question of whether the two planes could be depended upon to keep sufficiently apart under various human, mechanical and air factors. Maybe the "miss is as good as a mile" theory applies.

On one refuelling we thought the tanker plane was about 70 feet from us and rather overlapping our ship vertically, though distances are deceiving in those expanses. The feeding hose is 250 feet long and a separation of 150 feet between ships is regarded as desirable. If that distance is kept and there is no vertical overlapping of the planes, it may be a truly safe operation.

At 18,000 feet we thought the tanker somewhat unsteady in the thin air, but that she seemed to keep a good distance.

One objection from a pilot's point of view is that the operation takes the safety of his ship, crew and passengers out of his hands. He just proceeds on course while the tanker formates on him and is responsible for holding proper position.

Precautions against fire include automatic equalization of the electric potential of the two ships the moment their lines first meet — any spark going off out in mid-air. Also, the hose is flushed with nitrogen before and after gasoline is passed. "Week links" allow the ships to break away from one another at any time it becomes necessary.

An Open Mind

We had an informal chat with Lord Nathan, British Minister of Civil Aviation, to thank him for the trip the Ministry had given us. We judged he had an open mind on the matter but felt it would be at least a present aid to British aviation if it proved practicable.

The work-a-day Liberator was far from luxury ship conditions from which passengers would experience the operation, though we were comfortable enough with overcoat and blanket, plugging in our oxygen masks we moved from one part of ship to the other at high altitudes—a bit mournful over the "no smoking" ban.

We were taken care of and kept posted by Captain James Heron and his crew of Captain Arthur Beatty, First Officer; Navigators Harry Thompson and Alfred Blacklaws; Chief Flight Engineer John Spring; Radio Officers Allen Finch and Frank Cox; and Percy Woodus, Flight Refuelling Officer who also "refuelled" his three newspaper passengers with hot coffee, sandwiches and chicken pie.

We think it was Harry Thompson who showed a nice sense of humor and drama by sending back communiques like this:

"Flying an airway we enter Newfoundland by Stephenville estimating our arrival at Gander at 19.23 G.M.T. Ahead of us our tanker is already moving out to take her position heavy with some 700 gallons that we need to complete our journey."

Forced to Return

Later:

"The refuelling operation has been successful. We have set course for Gander (from 400 miles over the ocean). I will inform you if we are to return to Montreal." (We stopped at Gander).

Another day: "Every minute some 100 gallons of precious fuel is entering our tanks. Looking enormous above us in the clear morning air, our tanker quietly, without any contact beyond a thread of hose, is tending to our needs."

Later: "At 11.06 G.M.T. we passed the weather ship, our passing call on radio telephone being one of her contacts with the outside world of money, shortages and Stalin."

Return trip: "Refuelling (600 miles out from Shannon) and again we're alone in the sky. Ahead 950 statute miles awaits another tiny speck of human friendship and fuel to see us into Montreal."

We had 30 hours at Gander, no hardship with B.O.A.C. acting as hosts. A couple of hours in the Gander terminal is worth a trans-Atlantic trip in itself—a fantastic place of world travel cast in the wilderness, with planes and people popping in from London, Paris, New York, Montreal.

Many Dread Diseases, Lack Of Doctors Plague Pakistan

By NOEL BUCKLEY

Karachi (Reuters) — Twenty mothers and about 160 babies die for every 1,000 births throughout the India sub-continent and the expectation of life of those infants who do survive is about 27 years.

There is a doctor for every 6,000 of the population and a hospital bed for every 4,000. Undivided India spent about 6 annas (about 10 cents) per head of the population.

Malaria, still the greatest scourge of the masses, costs India and Pakistan together roughly the equivalent of $44,000,000 in loss of earnings through illness every year, and with other fevers, kill about 3,500,00 people every year.

Cholera, smallpox, plague, dysentery, tuberculosis carry off their hundreds of thousands annually and so far as public interest is concerned those deadly diseases attract little more attention than measles or scarlet fever in Britain.

That is the public health problem which now confronts the new Dominions of India and Pakistan.

And here, in Pakistan, it is further aggravated by the fact that partition has left the Dominion with only one medical college capable of training students to the final year, no facilities for post-graduate training, no research institutes, no pharmaceutical factories nor any institute or laboratory for the preparation of vaccine or sera. In all Pakistan there is only one dental college.

Nursing Not Popular

In addition, Pakistan suffers, in common with India, a grave shortage of doctors and a still more acute shortage of nurses because Indian women, either caste Hindus or Moslems, are not inclined to adopt nursing as a profession. There is also a shortage of all kinds of medical technicians.

Improving the public health of a nation of about 65,000,000 people is obviously a long-term project. Even the considerable problem of providing additional medical colleges appears insignificant beside the tremendous task of increasing eight-fold the number of doctors in Pakistan and increasing a hundred-fold the number of nurses.

In the light of this, Pakistan's modest plans to provide a hospital at the headquarters of each district—a district is the administrative sub-division of a province and usually holds about 1,000,000 people—and a dispensary to serve every 50,000 people, take on a new importance.

The hospitals are to be in charge of fully qualified doctors assisted by medical licentiates—a recognized medical practitioner but with lower qualifications than a medical graduate of a university. The dispensaries to be located in central villages would be attended by a druggist and a medical orderly and be visited once a week by a medical licentiate.

Pakistan is planning to increase its nursing force by recruiting men to be trained as male nurses or medical orderlies for dispensary work, while by raising the status of nurses and providing training abroad for selected nurses it hopes to attract more women to the profession.

WEDDINGS

ELDER — ORR

A quiet but pretty Spring wedding was solemnized on Saturday, March 20th, 1948, at the United Church parsonage, Frankford, Ont., when Helen Gwendolyn, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Orr, Stockdale, became the bride of Gordon William Elder, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Elder, of Foxboro, with Rev. H. H. Lackey officiating.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was winsome in a princess line floor-length gown of ivory brocaded satin with bustle back, insets of lace at neck and points of sleeve. Her head-dress of tiara net, faced with orange blossoms, held her embroidered floor-length veil. She wore silver slippers. Her mother's pearls were her only ornament.

The bride carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses, baby's breath and fern, tied with white satin.

The bridesmaid, Miss Betty Elder, sister of the groom, was charming in a floor-length gown in pastel mauve with matching head-dress of net wearing white satin slippers. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and fern and wore a pearl necklace, a gift of the bride.

The groomsman was Carl Cronin of Belleville.

As the bridal party entered the drawing-room, Mrs. H. H. Lackey sang in a beautiful contralto voice, "The Lord's Prayer" and at the signing of the register "Because."

Immediately after the ceremony, the bridal party left amid showers of confetti for Den-Bar Lodge, Trenton, where a reception was held and dinner served to immediate relatives.

The bride's mother received in a figured navy crepe with matching accessories and wore a corsage of red roses and fern. The groom's mother wore grey figured crepe, matching accessories and corsage of red roses.

For travelling, the bride chose a grey three-piece wool crepe ensemble, wearing red accessories and corsage of trillium roses.

The happy couple entrained at Belleville to spend a honeymoon in the Capital City, Ottawa. Upon their return they will reside in Batawa where the popular young couple are both employed.

The groom's gift to the bride was a chest of silver in Remembrance pattern; the bride's gift to the groom was an engraved tie set and a club bag. To the bridesmaid, pearls, to the best man, leather billfold and to the soloist, a salad plate.

Dental Research Shows Advantage Of Protein Diet

Pretoria, South Africa (CP)—Research work, in which the teeth of successive generations of white rats were examined over a period of three years, has established that dental decay in human beings may be profoundly influenced by the diets of expectant or nursing mothers.

The experiments were carried out at the Pretoria University by Dr. T. Ockerse, department of health dental officer, who is going to the United States soon to continue his investigations on the prevention of teeth decay.

Dr. Ockerse said that dental decay varies considerably in different parts of South Africa. "It is highest in the Cape coastal areas, and decreases inland, being lowest in the northwest Cape..

"The caries rate—dental decay—among children living in large cities is usually very high," he said. "In Pretoria it is 96 per cent, Johannesburg 97 per cent, East London 97 per cent, Capetown 98 per cent and Port Elizabeth 99 per cent.

"The teeth of children in the south coastal areas of the Cape have a chalky appearance, and caries is rampant. Many children lose all their teeth before they are 15 years old.

On the other hand the teeth of children in the northwest Cape are lustrous, of a light cream color and strong," he said.

Difference in Diet

Diet differences in the two regions are marked. Around the George, Knysna and Langkloof districts, the diet consists mainly of carbohydrates, with little protien. Sweet potatoes, often eaten three times a day, rice and bread are the chief articles of diet for most of the children.

In the sheep-raising areas of the northwest Cape, the diet is very high in protien. Mutton and whole-wheat bread are eaten three times a day.

Using this "carbohydrates versus protiens" basis for his experiments with white rats, Dr. Ockerse established that, for good teeth, foodstuffs which contain a high proportion of carbohydrates, especially sweets, cakes and biscuits should be replaced by food containing large amounts of protien, such as meat, eggs and cheese.

Female rats were fed on a low-protein diet during pregnancy and lactation. Offspring of these rats were fed on course mealie meal for 30 days.

"They developed three times as much caries as the rats whose mothers were fed on a high protein diet," Dr. Ockerse said.

Dr. Ockerse came to the conclusion that it is essential for expectant or nursing mothers to consume adequate amounts of proteins. Since calcification of most teeth takes between birth and the age of eight years, Dr. Ockerse stresses the importance of adequate protein diets for young children.

Passion According to St. John Sung at Christ Church Before Large Congregation

In fitting, traditional keeping with the world-wide observance of Good Friday, the Passion according to St. John was sung by the male choir of Christ Church last night.

Unfavorable weather failed to deter the large congregational audience from attending the annual service and musical presentation.

Rev. J. Grant Sparling and Everett Smith were in attendance for the service. The biblical version of the Passion, as written by St. John, was read by Mr. Sparling, following the processional hymn. The musical presentation was introduced as "The St. John's Passion," by George Frederick Handel.

The choir, fifteen soprano boys and thirteen men, was garbed in black cassocks and white surplices and was under the direction of A. W. Simpson. The organ was expertly and effectively played by the organist, Kaye Martin. The solo parts were well done by members of the choir.

The theme

The theme of the Passion is disclosed by the Evangelist, whose part is taken by A. W. Simpson, as narrator. Pontius Pilate was represented by Douglas Wareham. D. Arthur Young vocalized the part of Jesus Christ. Solos throughout the score were sung by Lionel Blaker, alto; Alf Evans, tenor; with a number of the boy choristers combining their efforts for the excellent rendering of some of the choruses.

The music revolves about the trial of Christ before Pilate and the action of the high priests who trumped-up charges against Him. Pilate attempts to question his prisoner, but is unable to get any reply or find any fault with Him. Wishing to release Jesus, Pilate is instructed by the angry mob to have Him crucified. Still unable to find fault with Jesus, but unwilling to oppose the angry mob, Pilate turns Him over to them and He is led away.

At a place called by the Hebrews, Golgotha, Jesus is crucified by the soldiers, who divide up His garments and cast lots for His remaining, single-piece garment.

The music is effectively arranged to dramatize the story to its fullest degree, the tempo and volume arranged in accordance with the frenzied spirit of the mobs and the appealing points of the soul-stirring story.

Wellington on the Lake

SIGNS OF SPRING

A robin is singing this morning
Up in a maple tree,
The sun is spreading a glamor
O'er meadow and moor and lea;
The ice in the lake is breaking
Away from the flooded shore,
And again the waters are singing
That winter's power is o'er.

The sap from the sugar maples
Is playing a rhythmic tune
In the buckets that flash in the golden light
Of the sun in a calm March noon;
And the pulse of the earth is quickened,
And life stirs in grass and tree
And I feel with the world of nature
New life in the heart of me.

—Helen B. Anderson.

March 23, 1948.

Springlike weather prevails in Wellington, and ice and snow have almost completely vanished. Boys and girls are enjoying roller-skating on the streets and robins have returned to their summer haunts. And schools are now closed for the Easter holidays.

Mr. Bob Ferguson has set up a new bakery in Wellington. His display of pies, cakes and tarts are very tempting. Mr. C. Pearsall and son still continue a thriving business and the village residents are well supplied.

It is reported that Mr. Coxall has disposed of his grocery business. His store was attractive for its meat and artistic display.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morton, Melville, who are enjoying a trip to western Canada write of interesting visits to Vancouver, Seattle and Warner, Alberta. In Vancouver they visited Mrs. Morton's brother; in Seattle they were guests of Freda Nease Wood; in Calgary they spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Eaton; and in Warner, they were guests of his brother, Mr. Walter Morton and Mrs. Morton. They will return home about April 1st.

Among those attending the St. Patrick supper sponsored by Burr's W.A. at Allisonville were the following from Wellington: Rev. Mr. Lane, Mr. and Mrs. W. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Osterhout and Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Tice. A delicious supper and fine program were enjoyed.

Miss Marjorie Blakely and Miss S. E. Blakely were Sunday guests of Mrs. W. H. Anderson

The Women's Association of the United Church met at the home of Mrs. E. Mabee for the March meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Platt and Mrs. F. Harris motored to Toronto and spent a few days.

Mr. Arthur Goodmurphy is ill at his home, Maple Ave., with Dr. Sarles attending. He is laid up with heart trouble, but at time of writing seems improving.

The many friends of Mr. W. D. Bedell, formerly of Hillier, now a resident of Picton, were sorry to hear that he had suffered a stroke, but hope he may soon recover. Dr. Thompson, Wellington, has attended him.

Mrs. Norman Foster returned to her home on Sunday after spending some days in Kingston hospital.

Mr. W. A. Davern with Mr. Lance Davern, Mr. Clifford Gamble and Mr. W. Jones, Belleville, attended the Canadian Sportsmen's Show in Toronto.

MISS KATHARINE DONOVAN

On March 9, there passed away at her home, Belleville St., Wellington, a highly respected and life-long resident in the person of Miss Katharine Donovan, after a brief illness following a fractured hip.

The deceased was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Donovan, both natives of Ireland, Mr. Donovan came from Limerick, and Mrs. Donovan (nee Miss Gibson) came to this country in 1824 from Tipperary. Dennis Donovan and Miss Gibson were married in St. Francis Catholic Church, Wellington. From this union were two sons and six daughters, Mrs. Alice Foltz being the sole survivor. Surviving nieces and nephews include Mrs. K. Simpson, Brockville; Misses Nellie, Luretta and Lenna Kirk, Gananoque; Mr. Wm. Kirk of Akron, Ohio; Mr. Bob Kirk, Toronto. The late Dr. Robert Collier was a nephew.

The funeral service was held in St. Francis Church with Father Coyle in charge. Interment was made in Wellington vault, the bearers being Claire Platt, Homer Stewart, Gillis Ingram, Wm. Harvey, Harry Cleminson and Burton Head.

HOLLOWAY YOUNG ADULTS

The Young Adult group of Holloway United Church met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Snider for a supper meeting, with Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Emerson in charge of the program. The theme of the program was "Education". Marie Emerson gave a reading on education about the life of Jesus, and His work. Scripture was read by Earl Snider, and Edna McMullen led in prayer.

After a short business period Marie Emerson conducted a contest, and a social hour was enjoyed.

Grenfell Mission Branch Seeks New Members

In an effort to obtain greater support of the Mission on the desolate shores of Labrador and Newfoundland, increased membership for the Belleville Branch of the Grenfell Mission is being sought.

The work of the Grenfell Labrador Mission was fully explained to the members of the local Women'es Canadian Club at their March 5th meeting when Dr. Kilpatrick gave a vivid account of what is being accomplished there.

Letter Tells of Work

And the following extract from a letter received from Miss Graham, secretary of the Canadian Branch of the International Grenfell Association further explains some of the work done by the Mission on the lonely and wind-swept shores of Labrador and Newfoundland.

"When I can point to little Norah Noseworthy, the eldest of 16 children brought up in a fisherman's home and sent to school and a good training school for nurses, then I have no apology to offer for seeking help—cash, materials or staff," Miss Graham wrote in her letter.

Well-Equipped Hospital

Miss Graham went on to say that Norah Noseworthy was now in charge of the Mission's St. Anthony Hospital, a 120-bed institution with radium clinic and adjoining T.B. sanitarium and which in every way is a well-run modern hospital. Miss Noseworthy organizes and manages her staff of doctors, dentists and nurses who come from England, Canada and the U.S.A., with calmness and efficiency.

"When I can point to Miss Noseworthy then I know we are doing a grand work and are worthy of our name," Miss Graham concluded.

Contact Mrs. Leo Riggs

The words of Miss Graham's letter should be a challenge to Canadians to support the work of the Mission and to help carry the torch borne so gallantly by Sir Wilfred Grenfell who gave his entire life to this medical mission.

Belleville residents interested in the Grenfell Mission are asked to contact Mrs. Leo B. Riggs.

Women's Activities

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

Stirling—Mrs. R. Hermiston was hostess to a well attended March meeting of St. Andrew's W.M.S., when a number of visitors were present. Prayer and a "meditation" opened the meeting. Scripture was read from Psalm 96, and from the 21st chapter of St. Luke's Gospel. An explanation of these passages followed, and prayer from "Glad Tidings."

Correspondence was read and some business discussed. The April meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. T. Spry. The offering was received and dedicated.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Hermiston. Mrs. W. H. V. Walker, Mrs. Hoard, Mrs. Munro and Mrs. Anderson gave the Watch Tower on home and foreign missions. A vocal duet was contributed by Mrs. C. Fargey andd Mrs. R. Eggleton, "A Dream of Calvary," with Mrs. Clayton Tummon as accompanist. Mrs. Hammond presented the subject of "Tithes," the subject matter taken from a book written 43 years ago, and based on passages from the Bible. "Christian liberality is an interesting and popular subject when properly considered and taught. Many hearts are right, but need to be educated in the grace of giving. Part of all we earn belongs to God," the speaker said.

The meeting closed and refreshments were served. Mrs. Ray Eggleton moved a vote of thanks to the hostess and her committee.

The Experts Say . . .

By Kay Rex

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, March 25. (CP)—Eggs, whether chocolate or colored, are a popular part of Easter for the kiddies in the family.

In keeping with this egg-eating custom of Easter, home economists of the consumer section, Dominion department of agriculture, recommend serving eggs often during the festive season.

Easter Eggs: Six hard-cooked eggs; two tablespoons chili sauce; salt and pepper to taste; tea biscuit dough (one recipe using two cups flour).

Cut eggs in half and remove yolks. Mash yolks, add chili sauce and seasoning, and mix well. Refill egg white. Press halves together to form whole eggs. Roll or pat out dough into rectangle about one-quarter to one-third-inch thick. Cut into six squares. Wrap each egg completely in dough, moistening edges of squares and pressing them together to seal in the egg. Place on baking sheet and bake in a hot oven (425 degrees Fahrenheit) for 15 minutes. Serve hot with well-seasoned tomato sauce. If desired cheese or tomato tea biscuit dough may be used. Six servings.

Speaking of eggs, many housewives would be offended if asked whether they knew how to cook this all-round food. But easy as it may seem, do they know how to cook their eggs to bring out the proper flavor, tenderness, and attractiveness.

Boiling water may be used to start eggs cooking in the shell. The water, enough to cover the eggs, should be brought to the boiling point. To prevent cracking of shells, the eggs should be lowered into the water with a tablespoon.

Eggs cooked in the shell should never be boiled, as high temperatures toughen protein.

Broiled Eggs: Heat thin layer of fat moderately hot in a skillet, and then drop the eggs in gently from the cup into which they have been broken. The eggs are cooked about a minute, and then the skillet is placed under the broiler which has been pre-heated to a moderate temperature. Broil from two to four minutes, or until the desired firmness is reached.

Cream may be added before the eggs are placed under the broiler. A small amount of cream, less than a tablespoon for each egg, may be poured around the eggs after the outer edges are cooked and before the eggs are placed in broiler.

Variations of broiled eggs are simple to prepare: Buttered bread crumbs or grated cheese, about one teaspoon of crumbs or cheese for each egg, may be sprinkled over the tops of the eggs before they are placed under the broiler. It is best to use a dish for broiling which also can be used at the table.

EXPECT BIG CROWD

London — (CP) — London expects to cater to some 750,000 spectators at the Olympic Games in July. It is estimated about 200,000 of these will be visitors from overseas.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Keep Your Soul Windows Shining

Blessed with beautiful, expressive eyes, a girl has an element of loveliness of the first grade. Some colors are more attractive than others, having more warmth and depth, but, after all, color doesn't matter. The shape of the eyes can be changed to a certain extent by skillful use of artifice—darkening of the lashes, arching of the eyebrows. You cannot, with safety, put in any magic drops to brighten them or to make them look dewy. If you are a Young Thing, and are letting your mind dwell on that brightening idea, cast out the thought.

Animation and good humor are the best eye illuminators

Animation and good humor are the grandest of all eye illuminators. Ill-health, worry, stale air and loss of sleep will cast a shadow over your eyes, make them appear dull and lifeless. Whatever increases general vitality and well-being will help the eyes, so be a follower of the Goddess Hygeia; keep in the best possible physical condition. Yes, I am giving you the same old song and dance about well-being, without which beauty cannot be.

Eyes have a sympathetic nature. If anything is wrong with the physical mechanism, they become clouded. Late hours will make them look old and smaller because fatigue causes the surrounding tissues to swell slightly or to be shadowed.

In every medicine cabinet there should be an eye lotion, to be used when the eyes are tired or when there are signs of irritation or inflammation. If conditions do not clear up immediately, one should seek the services of a specialist. It is never safe to neglect an infection of any kind, and one should not resort to home remedies.

Soiled washclothes are a danger, not only to the eyes, but also to the complexion. There should be a clean one each way. Many women who are alert to dangers to the health of their loved ones are careless about the linens in the bathroom.

Abuse of the eyes is a common fault; reading or sewing in a dimlight will tax their strength. The mechanism of the eye is extremely delicate. It is surprising how it can stand up under abuse and neglect.

If you have difficulty in reading—the type in the telephone directory is a test—or if your eyes tire easily, you can know that it is high time to put on specs, whether you like the idea or not. If you already wear them, you should have an examination every year or two to see if you need stronger lenses.

And don't forget that violent emotions will impair vision. That old expression "seeing red" isn't just a fancy.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

This Wife Should Take Legal Action

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am thirty and the mother of three children — nine, six and three. I have been married ten years. Four years ago my husband started running around with a woman. After it came out, his friends and his boss talked to him but to no avail. He is now under court order to support this woman's baby, which is his. Every few months there is a different woman. He only spends one or two nights a week at home and he never takes any responsibility for the children. If he doesn't feel like working, he calls up the place where he works and pretends he's sick, and then spends the day running around. He is always buying his women clothes on credit and I have a hard time to get along. Twice he has left me to live with another woman and then came back when things got tough. I was dumb enough to let him.

I can't work as I have no one to take care of the children and if I left him, I have no place to go. He says no one can stop him.

"Unhappy Wife"

Dear "Unhappy Wife":

The only solution that I can see for this very complicated problem of yours is to apply for a legal separation from your husband. Under such an arrangement the court would order him to pay you a certain amount of money each week for your support and that of your children. There is no reason for you to go on living with a man who behaves as your husband does and who quite obviously has no intention of changing his ways.

Let Married Men Alone

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl still in my teens and about a year ago had my first real date with a boy about twenty-four. He was married but his wife had not been true to him, so they got a divorce. I went with him for quite some time but finally we broke up over a silly little thing. It was not until afterward that I realized I was very much in love with him. Meanwhile, he started going out with another girl and in a so-called "must" case got married. He told me he never really loved anyone but me but married because he had to. Now I find no matter who I have a date with; I am not happy.

I'd like to know if I should keep on seeing this man and do wrong by breaking up their marriage, or try to forget him.

"Broken-Hearted"

Dear "Broken-Hearted":

I think you already know the answer to your own question since you admit that you would be doing wrong to keep on seeing this man. It is a very poor idea indeed for any girl to foster a friendship with a married man, as you certainly must realize. Besides this, it is rather hard to understand why you want a man who tells you he never loved anyone but you, but at the same time could go out and get himself so involved with another girl that he was forced to marry her. If you have any sense at all, you will put this man out of your mind at once and for good. He would be a poor enough risk for an older woman than you are, and a teen-ager like yourself should have nothing whatever to do with him.

Fashion Flashes

VERY DRESSY blouses are liked for late afternoon wear with suits or with a separate skirt to form a pretty dress. Sky-blue satin as a foundation for sheer, Chantilly-type black lace is the formula for a pretty blouse made with a small Peter Pan collar and full sleeves.

GAINING STEADILY in popularity is the coat or jacket with cape detail. Black, blue and gray striped worsted make a smart suit, the stripes used horizontally on the jacket, and vertically on the skirt. A soft shoulder capelet, with small, high-placed revers, gives the look of a shoulder yoke.

VERY NEAT little sailors with gay trimming are nice for the tailored or softly-tailored suit. Black shiny straw is used for a small off-face sailor trimmed with a wreath of red cherries that are massed in flat clusters against the crown in centre front. Upstanding soft green wings complete the trimming detail.

THAT EXTRA-SPECIAL little dark dress that seems so right for almost any daytime occasion might well be a model of navy or black silk chiffon. A pretty model acquires a hippy look with bands and bands of shirring. The deep, square necked bodice has a bib drape that extends over the shoulders.

INCREASING in importance is the full-length fitted coat, after so many seasons of the sawed-off boxy model. Wool crepe is used for a good-looking coat which achieves shoulder breadth by means of a small cape over the set-in sleeves. The cape is stitched down to the bodice and the line points up the narrow waist. The skirt is full.

NO MATTER what the current hat favorite may be, the little peaked bonnet goes on and on. Black or navy felt faced with pink is used for a pretty bonnet, the pink felt lining the peaked brim. The bonnet is draped with pink nylon net and a single pink rose juts forward to accent the line.

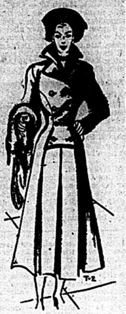
THE REPORT from Palm Beach describes the sun-back dress—with little jacket, bolero or cape for afternoon wear—and the softly handled shirtwaist dress in pure silk prints, as the two favorites.

ON THE MOVE is the word for the people of this broad land. We are doing more travelling than ever, and right through the year, at that. Which accounts, perhaps for the popularity of the handsome town or travel coat in pastel woollens or tweeds with handsome collar and tuxedo stole of lynx or fox.

BACK INTEREST is to the fore in many of the new hats designed to go with clothes that have bustle bows or back drapery. Pink [illegible] straw makes a youthful little bonnet worn far back off the face. It has masses of shaded pink blossoms in back, set off by black velvet streamers that extend from the draped crown band.

IT'S YOUNG, say the designers of the compose jacket suit, that is, the suit with jacket and skirt of a different color. Pink woollen makes the long slim jacket of a handsome suit, which has a slim skirt of black wool with a moderately flared hemline flounce. The jacket buttons high to a small shawl collar.

Attractive Town Coat



Gray Woollen Topper

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

THE LONG fitted skirt, slim of bodice, small of waist, and full in the skirt, emerges as the favored coat for important town wear, say the shops reporting on customer interest. Gray wool is used for this Spring coat that adheres to the favored line. There is a diamond shaped four-button closing below the narrow rolled collar. The bell sleeves are cut in one with the gently rounded shoulders and the patch pockets have buttoned down flaps. Tucks gently shape the waistline. This is truly a distinguished coat.

London Hats Give Milady Wide Choice

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London. (CP)—Hats that ran the limit in frivolity, femininity and color were on display at London's spring hat shows with designers reaching for flowers, fruit, feathers, ribbons and veilings as close to the Paris trimmings as possible.

Most of the new styles are worn straight on the head, requiring a fringe effect. With upswept hair styles they are reminiscent of the French Impressionist school: the deep-crowned, narrow-brimmed boater of Renoir and the wide-brimmed bonnet with upswept back, fluted front and floral decoration of Manet.

Recalling Victorian days were Ninich bonnets with shallow, forward movements, the back cocked up "parson's style," flat little sailors with traditional crowns, often have lace overlays; saucer-brimmed Bretons, Watteau plates as flat as trays; half hats with nothing at the back; shepherdesses with wavy brims. There were also big hats, cartwheel, sailor or coolie style; Watteau bonnets with wavy brims filled with flowers and fruit; poke styles and toques.

Austin O'Connor introduced the "Beefeater" A small reproduction of the real "Beefeater" worn by Tower of London guards, it was created in black fur felt having a black veil coming from the crown, caught at the throat with a choker ribbon, the veiling continuing below and decorated with bands of white lace. This made an attractive jabot, or, when the veiling was swung to the back of the hat, a collar.

Muffin-Shaped Felts

For photographic purposes some of the models were worn by Hazel Court, British film actress. One such was a muffin-shaped pink fur felt with velvet ribbon chin tie. That hat itself was covered in dark veiling and decorated all over with pearl beading stitched in star shapes. Other models of the muffin shape were composed entirely of flowers

A navy felt cartwheel had a coarse yellow straw underbrim, its narrow self ribbon catching with neat little bows on either side of the crown heavy heads of ripe yellow wheat.

A black, fine straw, coolie type with side swept brim, was decorated with two large red roses.

Large Breton sailors with fruit or flowers snuggled in their crowns sometimes sported ruched satin ribbon on the edge of their upswept brims.

The boater sailors were liberally decked with fruit, flowers, ribbons and veiling, the veiling often used as a chin tie.

Two fine, pink, Baku straws showed variations of the boater poke bonnet styles. The boater was small with a fluted brim above its straight one, the space between filled with sweetpeas, and the net, straight edged and small, had a jabot veiling decorated with pearl beading.

Ontario Racing Season Extended By Seventeen Days

(By The Canadian Press) —

The complete schedule for the 1948 Ontario racing season announced yesterday by the Incorporated Canadian Racing Association provides for 141 days of racing, 17 more than last season. There will be no spring meeting at Toronto's Dufferin Park, the dates being switched over to suburban Long Branch track.

The official schedule other than Toronto tracks follows: Hamilton Track, June 25 to July 2; Fort Erie track, July 3 to July 27; Hamilton track, July 31 to Aug. 7; Niagara Falls, Aug. 21 to Sept. 7.

The Illinois Athletic Commission, without formally acting on Governor Dwight Green's recommendation for suspension of professional boxing until April 7, achieved the same result by virtue of "no contest" Promoter Irving Schoenwald removed the only possible challenge of the Governor's "clean up" morgaterium when he cancelled a show scheduled at Marigold Gardens Chicago Monday. The commission tentatively had approved the match.

Previously promoters of a bout booked for March 31 at Chicago between welterweight king Ray Robinson and Georgie Abrams asked for a postponement until April 21 because of an injury to Robinson's hand.

Big Bob Sandberg, sensation of the 1947 Canadian Football final has informed Winnipeg Blue Bombers he will line up with them again for the 1948 Western Interprovincial Rugby Union season. President Art Chipman announced at Winnipeg last night. Chipman said the backfielder reported sought by clubs in eastern and western Canada after spectacular showing in the final against Toronto Argonauts, had informed Bombers in a letter of his intention of returning.

Freddie Mills, Britain's light heavyweight boxing champion may fight Scottish heavyweight titleholder Ken Shaw in a final eliminator for a shot at Bruce Woodcock's British heavyweight crown.

One of the north country's greatest dog team racers, Emile St. Godard, died at The Pas Man. yesterday. A noted racing driver for more than 20 years, he was 42 at the time of his death. As a "boy musher" he won his first major derby in 1925 when he captured the famous Pas race—a 20-mile affair from the Pas to Flin Flon and back. In the next decade he raced to fame in events in Quebec and the New England States.

Long-driving Detroit professional Chick Harbert came up with his second straight six-under-par 66 yesterday to take the halfway lead in the $10,000 Charlotte Open Golf tournament by a stroke edge over Lawson Little, Cleveland veteran.

Lucien Krawczick, little-known French middleweight fighter, went the 10-round limit when Marcel Cerdan last night but lost the decision to the European middleweight champion. Krawczick fought a slow, cautious battle and the crowd yelled repeatedly for the fighters to mix it. Cerdan tired badly in the late rounds.

R.C.A.F. Flyers, Canada's Olympic hockey champions, scored three times within six minutes last night to defeat Dunfermline Vikings of the all-Canada Scottish League 4-1 and remain undeated in their Scottish tour. In four games to date the Olympic champions have won three and tied one.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By VIC MORRIS JR.
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, March 27 (CP)—Some National Hockey League fans have expressed the opinion that the Vezina trophy, awarded annually to the goalie with the least number of goals scored against him, is more of a team trophy than an individual award.

These dissenters ask why, as has happened on a number of occasions this past season, should a net-minder be charged with goals that are scored against him during the course of last-minute power plays when he isn't even on the ice?

Doug (Windsor Star) Vaughan agrees with the dissenters to a point, saying:

"Benching a goalie and sending out six forwards in the hope of scoring a tying goal in the waning seconds o a game is a common practice these days.

"But, as often as not, it is strategy that boomerangs. While it makes no difference as far as the team is concerned whether it loses by one or two goals, it could be rough on a goalie who is in the running for the Vezina trophy to have to sit on the sidelines and watch the enemy shoot at an open net."

The inscription on the coveted mug, awarded to veteran Walter (Turk) Broda of Toronto Maple Leafs this season, reads:

"To be awarded to the goalkeeper who has played in the most games for the team with the fewest number of goals scored against it duing the regular season."

Doug thinks that the rules governing the awarding of the trophy need revision and makes the suggestion that N.H.L. governors give the matter some serious thought.

Good Samaritans

Mike (Kingston Whig-Standard) Rodden says that Frank Selke of Montreal Canadiens acted as "a good samaritan" when he traded Buddy O'Connor to New York Rangers in a deal that promises to be the most talked about swap in hockey history.

He says the trade was "reeking in stupidity" and proof for the same was furnished when O'Connor just missed out winning the league scoring title.

"Canadiens, with O'Connor available, would unquestionably have crossed the finish line well in advance of either Boston or New York and would now be tangling with Toronto Maple Leafs for the Stanley Cup."

As a hockey footnote Mike adds:

"Those spectators that saw Leafs bow to Montreal Royals of the Quebec Senior Hockey League in a Kingston Hall of Fame Exhibition game last fall, must be wondering if the National Hockey League teams are as powerful as they are rated."

TRUCE IS ENDED

Jerusalem, March 27 —(AP)— The undeclared Good Friday truce ended here last night as mortar and machine-gun fire echoed through Jerusalem.

Unoccupied Jewish houses were blown up by Arabs in the Sheikh and Jarrah quarters and sporadic sniping resumed throughout the city. No casualties have been reported so far.

Six Jews and four Arabs were reported killed yesterday in scattered violence throughout the Holy Land.

Auckland —(CP)— The chairman of the Aid to Britain National Council, Mr. Walsh, recently began a tour of wheat growers in Canterbury as part of the national effort to increase wheat acreage.

Predatory Cats

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables)

Last Spring, you may recall, I wrote a story about the damage that is done each year to our supply of wildlife by predatory cats. That little item certainly did dump me into a kettle of hot water. Ladies who live near here picked up the phone and gave me what I have no doubt each referred to as "a piece of her mind." Folks who didn't live within easy phoning range took pen, or pencil, or typewriter in hand and told me off in style. I learned that I was, among other things, a wise guy, smart-alec Easterner, an animal hater, a cruel persecutor, and a sadist.

At the risk of bringing down on my sparse, gray locks the wrath of the cat lovers of the nation, I want to talk some more about predatory cats. The only reason that I bring up the subject again is because I feel, as I did last year, that it is important. I think that it is important enough to warrant my reminding you about it, despite the probable flood of protest that will result.

Unfortunately, there is no way that has been devised as yet to form some reasonably accurate estimate of our annual cat damage. Some biologists place it at ten million song birds per year. Frankly, I think that their estimate is low.

• • •

Hunting cats have left their mark upon the historical record of our wildlife. No doubt you are familiar with the passing of the Heath Hen of Martha's Viniard. That beautiful game bird for many years fought an annual losing battle against predatory cats. A great many folks are notoriously careless or thoughtless about some things. Each year the close of the summer season on Martha's Viniard found a liberal supply of abandoned house cats on the island. Folks simply closed their cottages and went home, leaving the family cat to shift for itself. For centuries the Heath Hen managed to outwit its natural enemies and get along very nicely, but the feral house cats, turned self-supporting through force of circumstance, finished off the Heath Hen in fairly short order. Of course that really is no condemnation of the house cat. After all, those animals had to hunt to live. But it does serve to bring out my point that a cat is an exceedingly clever hunter.

Some years ago, a friend of mine bought a plantation in South Carolina. The supply of quail was pretty well depleted, so he conceived the idea of setting aside certain portions of his land as sanctuaries and then stocking these areas heavily with quail. As soon as the birds had established themselves in one place, then that area would be opened to hunting and another area closed off and stocked. It was a beautiful plan—beautiful but slightly fatuous.

No sooner were his boundaries established and his stocking done than trouble set in. A weekly check showed that his birds were slowly but surely disappearing. Seeking the cause, he hired a crew of men to patrol the area both by day and by night. To his surprise, he learned that his public enemy number one was the house cat. How the news got about nobody knows, but the fact remained that just about every cat in the area—and by "area," I mean a territory taking in parts of three counties or parishes—journeyed nightly to his sanctuary and feasted on quail. Knowing this, his men went to work with shotguns, rifles and traps and inside of a couple of weeks a live cat in that neighborhood was pretty hard to find. They were fair about it and not a cat was killed outside of the boundaries of the sanctuary. The payoff was a cat that wore a fancy collar. On the collar was engraved the name of a plantation that was twelve miles away as the crew flies. That will give you some idea of the range of a cat who takes its hunting seriously.

Now please don't misunderstand me. I'm not advocating wholesale cat extermination. Far from it. A pet cat is just as much a part of a family as a pet dog. I used to have a big silver Persian and I thought the world of him and he of me. But just the same I'd pen him up during the nesting season. I know that a cat around a farmer's barn is a valuable asset and a good ratter or an active mouser is worth his weight in big, round, silver dollars.

There are good cats and bad cats. An active hunter, who ranges far and wide, does little good to anybody, the farmer included. Conversely, the damage such a cat can do during the course of a year is incalculable, and you can depend on it that the cash total of that cat's depredations, figured in terms of the actual replacement value of the wildlife destroyed, adds up to a great deal more than his actual weight in silver dollars. I find no pleasure in killing any animal, be it a cat or a dog or a rabbit or a deer. But I haven't the slightest hesitation in eliminating any feral cat that I find out hunting, a mile or so from any human habitation. That is simple economy—an actual saving in dollars and cents.

As you read this, you know that Spring nesting season is now in progress in some parts of the country and is not many weeks distant in the country as a whole. During the nesting season is when feral cats do most of their damage. We would like to suggest to cat owners that cats who have a tendency to hunt in the open country be penned up during the nesting season.

Like other animals, cats are most active during Solunar Periods, particularly after dark. Part of our regular fishing equipment is a rifle that rides in the back of our car. There is moderation in all things and we try to be entirely fair about it. But we do our best to see to it that wide-ranging hunting cats are kept under at least partial control in our territory. In the best interests of conservation, we pass these suggestions along to you.

Training Camp Notes

(By The Associated Press)

New York, March 27 — (AP)— Eddie Stanky will make his first competitive appearance in a Boston Braves uniform today after a bout with pneumonia. The second sacker, late of Brooklyn Dodgers, will start for the Braves "B" team against Kansas City Blues at Lake Wales, Fla.

Nothes from other camps;

At San Francisco:—

The question of whether Bob Chesnes, colorful rookie pitcher, will play with Pittsburgh this season remained open today. Chesnes, San Francisco star, had an elbow operation last fall and has been having trouble again.

At Hollywood:

Young Charles Comiskey, who one day will head Chicago White Sox, says "some changes are going to be made. If we can't do business with some of the other major league clubs, maybe we can find some triple players who are better than we have. We'll make some changes, and some of them may surprise you."

At Clearwater, Fla.—

Anton Karl, former pitcher with Philadelphia Phils, has been signed by the Phillies as a scout.

At St. Petersburg, Fla.—Marty (Mr. Shortstop) Marion fears an injury jinx that helped present St. Louis Cardinals from repeating as National League champions last year, may end his baseball career. Marion's left knee, which he hurt in a slide last year, is acting up again, and caused him to leave the training field yesterday with the remark that he didn't expect to play ball again unless the trouble is corrected.

STABILIZATION IN CHINA

Nanking, March 27 — (AP) — The state council said today a program for stabilizing China's inflated currency had been worked out which involves using $300,000,000 worth of assets in government-held companies. Members said privately the plan came direct from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek. It will become effective when the council gives its final approval. All sales would be to private individuals.

Detroit Red Wings Heavy Favorites To Enter Finals

Detroit, March 27 — (CP)—Detroit Red Wings today were heavy favorites to enter the Stanley Cup finals after the well - balanced Detroit scoring machine easily polished off New York Rangers 5-2 last night in a game that was a contest only in the first period.

The victory, coming on top of Detroit's 2-1 triumph here Wednesday night, gave the Red Wings a commanding 2-0 lead in games in the best-of-seven series. The Red Wings can clinch a berth in the Cup finals by beating the Rangers in New York where the scene shifts for the third and fourth games Sunday and Tuesday.

Two Detroit rookies, Jimmy McFadden and Marty Pavelich, each scored a pair of goals as the Red Wings coasted in.

McFadden put the Wings ahead 1-0 just four minutes after the game opened when Pete Horeck set him up for a sprint halfway down the ice that took him swinging around the Ranger defence and in alone on Ranger goalie Chuck Rayner who never had a chance.

Ed LaPrade, Ranger centre, tied it up less than 11 minutes later, converting a hard angle shot after a pass from Tony Leswick.

Red Wings on Their Way

But McFadden and Pavelich each scored in the second period and the Red Wings were on their way. McFadden's second goal was a wide-open shot that easily beat a partially - screened Rayner. Pavelich converted his marker at 8:18 of the session while defenceman Bill Juzda of the Rangers was serving a high-sticking penalty.

Half of the final period was over before Detroit clicked again. Defenceman Leo Reise hammered a 60-foot screen shot from the blue line to make it 4-1.

Just 47 seconds later Neil Colville punched a 20-foot shot past Harry Lumley for New York's second counter which was matched by Pavelich's second marker, a 15-footer, which came five minutes from the finish for Detroit's final tally.

The New York defence was hard hit by the absence of Bill Moe, who fractured two vertebrae during a collision in the playoff opener.

Lineups:

New York — goal, Rayner; defence, Colville, Shero; centre, Laprade; wings, Kullman, Leswick; subs, Eddolls, Trudell, O'Connor, Watson, Raleigh, Hextall, Lamirande, Gardner, Juzda, Slowinski.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

BY GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

Stirling's starry crew of courageous young puckists hit the home stretch tonight with the Ontario Midget "C" championship within their grasp. They meet the strong Port Halhousie squad of beardless puckchasers in the second game of the titular series at the St. Catharine's Arena.

• • •

The teams fought to a five-all draw here last Friday night, and this evening's battle should be a classic. The Stirling team is fit and raring to go after a week's layoff and their smart sniping line of Mason, McRrory and Wannamaker have their sights all set and aligned on the Ports goal. The villagers are all wrought up over the chances of their young hockey prides and a large number are making the trip to the Garden City today to cheer the lads to victory.

• • •

The game which starts at 5.30 p.m. will be broadcast direct from the St. Kitts Arena by Radio Station CJBQ. Jack Devine enters the class of flying announcers tonight. He will air the play-by-play description of the Stirling-Port Dalhousie game, then hop into a waiting RCAF aircraft and flit back to Belleville where he again takes the air for the Kingston Vics-Upper Canada College joust.

• • •

The plane was made available through the courtesy and generosity of Royal Canadian Air Force officials at Trenton. the Kingston-UCC game starts in Memorial Arena here at 9 o'clock and will go on the airwaves at 9.30. Jack will munch supper bites bieween games.

• • •

Max Jackson's Kingston Vic's turned the tables on Syl Apps' classy collegians from Upper Canada College on Thursday night, uncorking a sparkling third period offensive that netted them four goals and a 7-4 victory. The teams are all even on their best-of-three series in the semi-final round of the Ontario Junior "B" championship. U.C.C. tacked a 10-4 defeat on the Vics earlier in the week in Oshawa, but the Kingstonians raced back with a win on Thursday to tie matters up.

• • •

The teams are fast, clever and play the wide open style that Belleville fans like. The game in Kingston was a trifle on the boisterous side with Referee Maurice "Mo" Walsh handing out twenty penalties, eleven of the sentences going to the homesters. Tonight's tilt will see the lads go at matters with their hair down, and everything at stake. It should be a tilt for the tome. Game starts at 9 o'clock sharp.

• • •

The Service Darts League weekend tilts see the league-leading Hasty Pees take on the 9th Anti Tank Regiment with the second-place Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans tangling with the fourth-slot Canadian National Railway Veterans. Excitement over the games has reached a high pitch and rivalry though good natured is keen. The Hasty Pees knocked the classy Army, Navy team out of first place last week and the clubmen are rarin' to go to climb back to the top rung of the ladder.

• • •

And one of the best devotees of the game, reputed to be one of the best darts players in this neck of the woods, who has "covered" the games from his bed in Belleville General Hospital is Frank Sedore, well-known sports maestro of Point Anne. Frank has had a close brush with the Grim Reaper, is down from 184 pounds to 110, but is expected to leave for his home at the first of the week.

• • •

He underwent four major operations for an abdominal condition, and at once time his life was despaired of. But the old fighting spirit carried him through, and unless something unforeseen occurs, Frank will be soon back with his comrades of the darts alleys and the sport lanes of this district. He is the captain of the Army, Navy, Air Force team of the Service Darts League, and took a great interest in their activiites even in the darker hours of hospitalization.

More than 20 years ago a man dropped into a billiard parlor in a small town in Massachusetts. He was idly banging away at the pool balls with a cue when a cocky sixteen year-old youngster swaggered over to watch him.

The man looked up. "Don't you like the way I play, son?" he smiled.

The youngster sneered. "I've seen better" he said.

A challenge was forthcoming, after the youth said the man did not look like a billiard player. "But I only play suckers for money," he jibed. "Let's play for ten bucks."

• • •

The man agreed. The youngster agreed, then promptly took his cue and shot the needed fifty points for the game without the man getting a shot. After he had paid the swaggering kid, the man smiled and said "I'll tell you a secret, son. I'm Willie Hoppe, world's champion.

The youngster looked up "I have a secret too, mister. Billiards ain't my racket. Baseball's my game and that ten bucks will pay my fare to Hartford where I'm trying out with the pros. S'long sucker."

• • •

Hoppe went his way and often wondered what became of the cocky youngster who beat him at billiards. Years later, a man stopped him on Broadway. "Remember me, Mr. Hoppe, the Boy Wonder of Billiards?"

"You look familiar" said Hoppe.

"I took you for ten bucks years ago at Springfield, Mass., in a poolroom. Remember, sucker?" the other laughed.

"I remember now." said Hoppe, "you're the kid who wanted to be a ball player. How did you make out?"

"Not bad, not bad, Mr. Hoppe," the other grinned. I worked my way up pretty well. I'm managin' now. Brooklyn Dodgers. I'm Leo Durocher."

Jack Crawford Battles Influenza And Will Not Play

Toronto, March 27 — (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins called the roll today before their second Stanley Cup playoff tilt and found 49 out of 50 potential starters ready for action. But the 50th name may have a lot to do with the outcome.

Trailing in the best-of-seven series after they dropped a heartbreaking 5-4 decision in overtime Wednesday night, the Bruins prepared for tonight's tilt as key defenceman Jack Crawford, battled an influenza attack that may keep him out of action.

That still leaves Pat Egan, Murray Henderson, Fern Flaman and Clare Martin ready for action on the back line, but the beantowners would miss the steadying influence of Crawford, a defence mainstay for Boston teams of the last nine years.

There aren't any manpower problems in the Leaf camp, but Toronto managing director Conn Smythe plans a change or two, with rookie winger Sid Smith slated to return to action. Smythe has a flock of youngsters from Leafs' Pittsburgh farm club to choose from as the Hornets dropped out of the American League playoffs Thursday night.

The ticket lineup at Maple Leaf Gardens started 20 hours before game-time and the usual Saturday-night sell-out house was almost a certainty.

No matter who wins, the two clubs have a couple of dates at the Boston Garden next Tuesday and Thursday nights.

Tigers Outclass Soo Greyhounds To Win by 7-2

(By The Canadian Press)

The Ontario Hockey Association champion Hamilton Tigers could add the all-Ontario title to their laurels this afternoon by handing Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds their second straight defeat in the best-of-three-final series.

The favorite Tigers won the first game Thursday night with a soft 7-2 decision and a victory today at Toronto would give them the Ontario Senior Amateur Hockey Championship and the right to continue in the Allan Cup race.

Farther north, Barrie Flyers invade Timmins for their second game of the best-of-five all-Ontario junior finals against Porcupine Combines. Barrie staged a comeback Thursday to take a 6-3 victory and go into a one game lead in the series.

Tigers completely outclassed the Greyhounds, N.O.H.A. titleholders, with their smooth passing plays and hard checking. They grabbed a 5-0 first period lead and then dropped into a kitty-bar-the-door style of hockey to keep the Greyhoudns from menacing seriously at any time. In the middle session Tigers outscored the visitors 2-1 and then allowed one more Sault goal in the third.

Johnny Conick was top man for Hamilton with two goals while Ab Conick, Bert Peer, Bob Laurent, Tommy Tindal and Clare Shillington each had one. Jim Kucher and Shep Maeyr scored the two Greyhound goals.

Barrie spotted Combines a 2-0 lead in the first period, climbed to a 2-2 tie at the end of the second and then rapped in four straight goals in less than nine minutes of the final frame before Combines could retaliate with one.

Two of the Barrie markers came on screened shots and another was deflected into the nets by a Porcupine defenceman.

Shifty Paul Meger and Gil St. Pierre paced the Flyers with two goals apiece while Jerry Reid and Stan Long connected for the other two. Greg Bourassa, Johnny Kovich and Doug McGinn were the Porcupine snipers.

Hockey is First To Mrs. H. Donati At Port Arthur

Winnipeg, March 27 — (CP) — Mrs. Hilda Donati's bread and butter may lie in the sale of fruit in her little fruit and coffee stand in Port Arthur, Ont., but that isn't where her main interest lies. "Hockey comes first," she says, "and my business runs a poor second."

A native of Virden, Man., Mrs. Donati's name — "Hilda)) — has appeared on the front of sweaters worn by teen-aged hockey players in the lakehead for the past five years.

Then she first took a bunch of youngsters, who were being left at the rinkside to watch hockey, up to an unused rink in Port Arthur's west end. There she established Port Arthur's first Pee Wee hockey team and a year later she opened the lakehead's first pee wee hockey league.

But her interest in young puckchasers doesn't rest all in one basket. She operates teams in bantam- midget and juvenile locps and next winter plans, alone with her pee wee league, to operate a complete bantam league.

The attractive hockey booster, who could win "the most rabid-hockey fan contest" in a walk, also plans to enter a junior "B" team in the Thunder Bay League next season.

In all, she estimates that some 372 aspiring hockeyists gather puck savvy under her sponsorship from appointed coaches who handle the many teams for her.

Why does a woman with two children and a fruit business do this? She answers simply "I love hockey. And when you have lots of teams, made up of boys of all ages, you can watch their hockey lives grow and when you see them as juniors, you get a real thrill comparing them to the little fellows who couldn't skate a few years back."

It can safely be said that Mrs. Hilda Donati was and probably will be, the only woman to ever heave a corset on the ice at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens.

"But," she says with a gleam in her eye, "if you see Port Arthur West End Bruins in the memorial Cup final this year, yuo might see another corset out there."

Barbara Ann Scott Wins Canadian Figure Skating Championship For Clean Sweep

Calgary, March 27 (CP)— A new crown adorned the honey-blonde curls of Ottawa's Barbara Ann Scott today following the ice queen's overwhelming victory in the women's singles event of the annual Canadian figure skating championships.

Radiant in a paddy green dress gaily adorned with sequins, Barbara Ann dazzled a capacity wildly-cheering crowd of 8,000 spectators at Victoria Arena last night with a flawless free-skating performance. The perfection of her routine won her a perfect score of 10 points by one of the five judges. It was believed to be the first 10 ever awarded in the Canadian championships.

Only one judge marked Barbara Ann below nine and coupled with the high score marked up in earlier compulsory school figure events assured her of victory even before the competition was concluded and the results officially announced.

A Clean Sweep

Victory in the Canadian meet gives her a clean sweep of every figure skating singles championship for which she may compete. She already holds the North American, European, World and Olympic titles.

Ontario skaters walked off with the Lion's share of the trophies, capturing all but two of the eight championships held last year by Toronto skating clubs.

Wally Diestelmeyer, 22-year-old Navy veteran and a member of the Toronto Skating Club, captured the men's singles championship from his lone rival, Roger Wickson of Vancouver. Diestelmeyer also combined with pretty Suzanne Morrow of Toronto to take the senior pairs championship and the dancing title.

Niagara Falls Girl Wins

Marlene Elizabeth Smith youthful skater from Niagara Fall, Ont. and a member of the Toronto club took the women's junior singles for the other Ontario victory.

Breaking the stranglehold held by Eastern skaters last year were the new junior men's champion, William E. Lewis of New Westminster, B.C. a member of the Vancouver Skating Club. Also winning from the Vancouver Club were Pearle Jeannette Simmers and David Spalding who combined to take the junior pairs title.

One of the highlights of the meet was provided by a fourth west coast skater, 18-year-old Jeanne Matthews of Vancouver who was runner up in both the junior and senior singles events.

Barbara Ann's spectacular free-skating performance last night climaxed a dazzling exhibition in the compulsory figures that saw her win each of the five judges nod for first place position in all six figures.

Besides the perfect 10 in her free-skating she was awarded four nines for performance and four nines and an 8.8 for content of her routine.

Picton

Driving, Riding Club to Stage Outstanding Meet

Picton — (Special) — Prince Edward Driving and Riding Club, at a meeting Monday night, formulated plans for an outstanding race meet and horse show in Picton, Saturday, June 3.

In addition to the horse races, the 48th Highlanders Band of Toronto will be present to lead a parade through the town, and to give a concert during the afternoon, P. L. Ward, K.C., reported. This 32-piece band is justly famed.

Another big attraction will be the appearance of a group of six Palomino horses, to be shown by Charles Mavety of Circle M. Ranch, Kleinburg. These beautiful, golden-color horses are high schooled and perform many spectacular feats.

Adding interest to the horse races will be the attempt to set a new track record here. It is understood that a large cash prize will be given if the present record is bettered and this is expected to draw some of the leading horses in Canada. Jack Climie of Tilsonburg will be the starter, and the starting gate will be used.

Class for Riders

There will be a class for riding horses as well, and several animals which have recently been purchased by county men will be seen for the first time.

The tentative program calls for a parade at one o'clock, starting at the west end of the town, this to include the 48th Highlanders Band, local driving and riding horses, Palomino horses.

The first race is scheduled for 1:30 with a show by the trick horses following. After the first heat of the second race, the 48th Highlanders Band will perform.

It was decided to have three races, the 2.28, 2.22 classes and free-for-all.

J. K. Welsh gave a report of the Canadian Trotting Association which he attended in Toronto as delegate from the local club.

It was decided to become a member of the Ottawa Valley Racing Circuit.

Sheriff H. J. Colliver reported on the Palomino horses, and Ross Pearsoll and Clifford Wilson were named to carry out necessary arrangements.

A program will be published under the direction of Vincent Pierce and these books will be distributed free of charge.

The advance sale of tickets is to be looked after by Edward Shannon and Ross Pearsoll.

A committee of Ross Wilson, chairman, George Cockburn, Harold Herrington and Eugene Rabbis, was named to meet the Fair Grounds Committee to discuss improving the track.

The Low Cost of Living in S. Africa

By ERWIN D. CANHAM
Editor of The Christian Science Monitor

South Africa states officially that it is today receiving immigrants from the United Kingdom and western European countries as fast as they can be handled and housed. Like nearly everything else in South Africa, this immigration is being very carefully controlled. The gates are not wide open. The process is selective. Immigrants are considered on the basis of their technical skills, their value to the community, their utility. This is not precisely the open-door policy in classic American terms. But it avoids a good many difficulties.

The overlanders are still coming. They are the British folk who make their way across the English Channel, get down to Marseille and across the Mediterranean, and from North Africa slog their heroic and foolhardy way down to South Africa. They drive southward with the blind migratory force of the early settlers crossing the American plains and mountains.

They are an embarrassment to South Africa, sometimes, but still they come. They come in broken-down trucks and jalopies. One man and wife and two babies came on a tandem bicycle. They make you weep; they exasperate you, and they fill you with the deepest awe and admiration.

• • •

Now, I don't want to increase South Africa's difficulties by multiplying would-be immigrants. The following cost-of-living figures are presented as mere reporting. (The plane fare would probably eat up the difference, anyway.)

Let's start with the charming little hotel where I had lunch, overlooking the Valley of the Thousand Hills, behind Durban. There were a swimming pool and tennis courts and bowling greens. The view was superb. The dining-room was large and the lounge cozy. The food was magnificent. For a double room with balcony, this hotel will charge you $4 a day apiece. That rate includes: "Early Morning Tea, Breakfast, Forenoon Tea, Lunch, Afternoon Tea, and Dinner." You can see that the South Africans like tea.

But if this rate seems a bit high, perhaps you would like to take the room by the week. That will cost $24. If you take it by the month, the rate is $90. This may seem too steep. Perhaps you will settle for a room without a balcony. It will cost $3.50 a day apiece for double occupancy, $20 a week, $74 a month.

But you say you don't want to stay in a hotel? And you want to save a little more money? Well, there are farm guest houses, usually in lovely country, which charge about $15 a week, everything included.

Still you're unsatisfied, and want to settle down in a place of your own? Well, houses are expensive. A house that cost $8,000 before the war will now bring at least $16,000. The over-all cost-of-living index in 1947, compared to 1938, is up 33-35 per cent. Compare that with the U. S. A.! Taxes in the Cape Peninsula are 3½ cents on the dollar, assessed valuation, or $35 a thousand. Not bad. Rentals are under rigid control.

• • •

What about domestic servants? Hold on to your hats. A cook will cost you $24 a month; a cook-general $18 a month; a houseboy $13 a month; a housemaid $14 a month. A charwoman costs $1.20 a day plus food, and a gardener $1.60 a day.

Clothing? A man's suit will run from $54 to $88, and other things to scale. Here prices compare to American figures. But a man's haircut costs 40 cents and a shampoo 50 cents! Gasoline costs 35 cents an imperial gallon (equivalent to 1.20094 United States gallons).

Income taxes? For married persons, incomes under $1,400 are exempt. Above that, the tax is at the rate of 25 cents per $4, plus one-thousandth penny for each $4. There is a rebate of $44 for a married person; $40 for each unmarried child or stepchild, and $10 for each dependent. There are other allowable rebates and deductions. On the whole, it sounds pretty good.

Food is low. Butter costs 48 cents a pound; cheese 55 cents; jam 30 cents for a two-pound tin. Eggs vary up to 80 cents a dozen but average about 50 cents. Bacon is 50 cents a pound. Rationing is finished.

Well, there you are. Add to these figures the fact that there are considerable tracts of unsettled land, not far from established communities. A good part of the Union is really available for opening up. It is still a pioneer's country. There seem to be plenty of opportunities in the cities for people who are willing to work hard.

I haven't spoken of climate. It is pretty moderate and pleasant almost everywhere, with subtropical areas and high-altitude areas and heavy-rainfall areas and seasonal-drought areas. But when we were there, at the equivalent of early September in the Northern Hemisphere, it was green in the Transvaal and dry in the Cape, and green again every day, in the "land of sunshine," we could see that this weather was exceptional!

The greatest proof of moderate climate was the fact that every European (white) man I saw was wearing regular woolen clothes—not summer weight, at all, but light woolens. And with a waistcoat. Having brought along my usual summer clothes from eastern U.S.A., I found my things too light in weight. Flannels and tweeds would have been more appropriate.

• • •

Some South Africans believe that their immigration policy is too selective. The Johannesburg Star, for example, says in a special article that more immigrants should be admitted, and that present policies are not immigration but merely a selection of employees to fill vacancies in industry and commerce. The problem of greatly increasing the Union's white population, says this article, stands neglected and suspected.

Well, it's up to South Africa. All it has to do is let up the bars. There are plenty of Europeans who would like to come out. Many of them, especially in the higher brackets, are doing so. Retired army officers, eager for a career in business, are coming increasingly. Many a famous name has migrated. Civil servants returning from India, and shunning the cold and hunger of servantless Britain, look longingly at the sunny Cape.

Again the issue is controls with their selective advantages versus an all-out system. Great nations have usually been built up on the all-out basis.

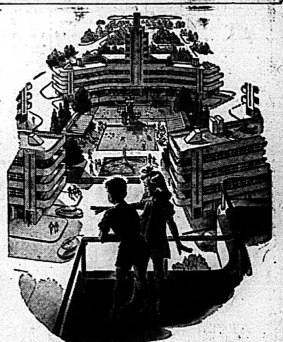
What kind of world will your children inherit ?



Probably it will be a better world in every way.
Certainly it will be a healthier world. For science is working ceaselessly to devise more effective ways of treating and preventing disease.
But the task is enormous—and costly. That is why the life insurance companies in Canada have contributed large sums of money for many years toward the work of medical science—particularly in the field of preventive research.
As a result, more men and women are enabled to work in well-equipped laboratories waging war against cancer, tuberculosis and polio. More facts are being discovered in order to promote better nutrition, prenatal care and dental hygiene. And, the skill and devotion which these scientists bring to their work promises new freedom from sickness in years to come.
By supporting their efforts, the life insurance companies help to raise the health standard of the nation.
By owning life insurance, you help to create a healthier world for your children.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Let me tell you a good way to win at bridge. Get yourself a lucky partner who holds all the best cards. Make the most of what he gets. When you have a slam, reach it.

Here is our deal:

North starts with an opening of two no-trump. South responds with three diamonds. North now sees enough to itch for a slam. He should scratch out information that may tell if slam is there.

One of his worries is whether opponents have the ace of clubs. Another worry is how many kings are held by opponents. They could have enough such things to defeat a slam.

So he bids four no-trump. This is the convention signal for asking partner how many aces and kings he has. If south has no ace, the answer is five clubs. In such case, north can stop at five diamonds.

But south responds with five hearts. This is Kibitzer convention signal for showing one ace and only one king. This advises north that their pair has all the aces and three of the kings.

North now has very little fear from a contract of six diamonds. There may even be enough for a grand slam. Or there may be a small or grand slam in no-trump.

It is easier and safer to play a slam at a suit contract than it is at no-trump. At least, so it is in the greatest majority of cases.

So, north will prefer to end at a diamond contract of six or seven. For the average player, the best advice is to stop at the contract that is safe. Experts are prone to stretch.

Study the south and north hands. You will see that a small slam in diamonds is easy to make. Now that you are sure of the small slam, how about making a grand slam? West leads a club.

Take all 13 tricks against any defence.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 27 —(AP)— The movie makers speak: Bryan Foy, Eagle-Lion boss, knows a film trend when he sees one. The man who played the gangster cycle to the hilt years ago now is hopping on the semi-documentary. Now filming the Canon City, Colo., prison break, he is also planning "29 Clews," about a real-life murder mystery, and "Wetbacks," story of the United States border patrol. Says he: "This film cycle is good for 10 years."

Producer Harry Kurnitz was telling his troubles in getting a script for "Banjo Eyes," Eddie Cantor's biography: "The life of a man like Cantor, who rose from orphan to millionaire, is dull screen fare because it is nothing but a chronicle of success." His problem is to inject conflict, but how can he, when millions of radio listeners believe Eddie and Ida have a perfect married life. "Tampering with that would be like changing the ending of the Passion Play," the producer added.

It's a Long Road

Danny Dare, who produced the last "Road" film, says Bing, Bob and Dotty will probably make another, although there are no present plans. "The problem is to find another uncivilized place for them to go," he said. "They aren't as funny when they get too close to civilization."

Madeleine Carroll and Buddy Rogers were a nervous pair at the start of "Innocent Affair." She hadn't made a Hollywood film in five years, he in eight. Bob Hope goes to Phoenix, Ariz., next month to watch his Cleveland Indians train and broadcast with the team . . . Greer Garson is fortified for her rain and mud scenes in "Julia Misbehaves" by a protective oil, plus plastic underwear . . .

Sights and Sounds

Lana Turner being welcomed back to "The Three Musketeers" set with an antique wheelchair . . . Don Defore writing a play on a noiseless typewriter in a corner of the "One Sunday Afternoon" set . . . Ruth Hussey acting as crossing guard once a week for her children's school . . .

Peter Lawford lunching with bobby-socked fans at the Brown Derby . . . Winnipeg's Deanna Durbin singing "Moonlight Bay" with a quartet of Supreme Court Justices in "Washington Girl." . . . Dana Andrews telling about a 75-mile wind (he says) on his Mexican boat jaunt.

In Manhattan

By PAT USSHER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, March 27 — (CP) — Entertainment with a Gallic flavor is headed for Eastern Canadian cities.

Maurice Chevalier is going to Montreal next month to begin a tour of his one - man show of songs and impressions. He is scheduled to open a 10-day stand in Montreal April 14. The balance of his three weeks' visit will be divided amongst appearances in Sorel, Que., Three Rivers, Que., Sherbrooke, Que., Ottawa and Toronto.

A Dominion visit in the fall also is on the schedule of the orchestra national, France's principal radio orchestra, it is announced here. The orchestra, 96 strong, is due to arrive in New York Oct. 13. It is booked for appearances in Quebec, Montreal and Toronto, as well as in New York and 23 other United States cities.

Hollywood Needled

Author Allan Scott delivers some gentle jabs at Hollywood in "Joy to the World," the new play at the Plymouth Theatre.

The play follows routine formula. A film company vice-president unwittingly attacks film censorship and then has his newly - arrived - at decision to maintain this stand backed by a comely research assistant. It all ends happily with the picture - maker assured of the backing of movie magnate.

"Joy to the World" got a sharply - divided reception from the critics. Howard Barnes of the Herald Tribune hailed it as "the gayest and most substantial commentary on Hollywood doings that the stage has yet expected." But Louis Kronenberger of PM, while acknowledging lively touches and liberal sentiments, dismissed it as "merely trashy." Robert Garland of the Journal - American called it "slock, showy, obviously insincere" but Ward Morehouse of the Sun said "Hollywood examined entertainingly."

Alfred Drake and Marsha Hunt do well in the principal roles.

Names in Bright Lights

Ray Bolger has been signed to star next season in a musical comedy version of "Charley's Aunt." Frank Loesser has been engaged to do the songs . . . Guthrie McClintic is to direct "Life with Mother," the sequel to long-running "Life with Father." June Lockhart is leaving the comedy "For Love or Money" May 29.

AT THE BELLE — Alan Ladd has the toughest role and the most exciting one of his career, and Dorothy Lamour plays her first straight dramatic role in Paramount's "Wild Harvest," a thrill-film set in the great wheat belt. Supporting players include Robert Preston and Lloyd Nolan.

AT THE CAPITOL — Sure shot Texas Sheriff — Randolph Scott as an easy-on-the-eye, quick-on-the-draw upholder of the law is forced to join a brotherhood of outlaws in RKO Radio's romantic western drama, "Badman's Territory," as co-star with Ann Richards and George "Gabby" Hayes, opening Monday at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program Joe Palooka's latest hit, "Fighting Mad," starring Leon Errol, Joe Kirkwood, Jr., and Elyse Knox. Matinee daily all next week at 2.15.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BY WINIFRED E. WILSON

Birds' Eyes

You may imagine that all birds are brown-eyed because you remember distinctly the brown eyes of Robins which nested nearby last summer. But think a minute. Surely Mrs. Smith's Parrot has golden eyes. On due consideration, we realize that, although many land birds have a brown iris and most water birds a yellow, this circle surrounding the pupil varies in color.

Even the shades of brown differ greatly. The Nighthawk's are blackish brown, the Peewee's deep brown, both Hairy and Downy Woodpeckers' a reddish brown, and the Arctic Three-toed Woodpeckers' a real chestnut. The Pileated Woodpecker has creamy yellow eyes, similar in hue to the yellowish white of the Bald Eagle's. As its name indicates, the White-eyed Vireo has a pronounced white iris, but its cousin, the Solitary Vireo, has eyes that are practically black. These two have an added interest: the former showing a distinct yellow spot between the eye and the bill, known as the lores, and a yellow eye-ring; the other a very white eye-ring. Not to be outdone, the Red-eyed Vireo has a dark eyebrow line, or superciliary stripe, as it is called.

Some other birds have special marks that draw our attention to their eyes. The Falcon has projecting bony eye-shields guarding its brown eyes. More spectacular are the naked, bright red eyelids on the deep brown eyes of the Black-billed Cuckoo, and the yellow or purplish pink eyelids of the adult Herring Gull. But perhaps stranger are the eyelids blue in summertime, to be found on the green eyes of the Double-crested Cormorant.

Of course Owls' eyes are particularly noticeable on account of the forward pointing position and the circular disk feathers surrounding them. Those of the Great Grey are small and yellow; those of the Barn are small and brown. Otherwise, most members of this family have ordinary sized, yellow eyes, as has the American Bittern. The Grackle's are straw-colored. Although albinos proper have red eyes, occasionally these white birds have blue ones.

A report has recently been made by the American ornithologist Jollie that eye color among Hawks "seems quite variable." One female Cooper's Hawk had bright ruby red eyes, others of the same species "had eyes ranging from bright reddish-orange to yellow." He has seen Golden Eagles with bright hazel to yellowish eyes, others with brown. Birds' eyes have a larger range of color than ours.

Little Benny's Note Book

Now William, it just happened to lite by brute luck, ma said. The plug will have to be changed sooner or later, she said, and pop said, Okay, I'll take it later. After I reed by paper, he said.

The result being ma changed it herself this afternoon, talking mad to herself.

Pop started to sit down in his private chair after supper, and ma said, Now William there's no use exconsing yourself in your chair just yet.

I'm already ekconsed, pop said, and ma said, Then there's no use trying to lite your reading lamp, because the expected has happened and it wont lite. It's been waering for days, and now it's out so you wont be able to reed your paper in your usual ease and comfort till you've put another plug on that cord, she said.

I've been meening to attend to that, pop said, and ma said, Oh yes, what a sense of humor.

Meening it's hard to get pop to fix things, and pop said, My dear, we're slaves to modern science. We're soft and helpless victims to our own so-called progress. It's pitifill the way we depend on the push of a button for our comfort. My great grandparents were hardy enough to be happy without electricity, and by gollies the old Potts spirit hasn't died out yet. I can sit here and reed my paper by the wall lite and be just as comfortable as they were with their candle lite, he said.

William, if you force me to change that plug myself, I wont speek to you for hours, ma said, and pop said, You win, my dear, I'll fix it.

And he reetched up and pushed the lamp button and what did it do but lite, pop saying, Well, happy days and luminous nites.

HANDFUL OF STARS

By Margaret Gorman Nichols

"I can't! I'd feel like such a fool...."

Lyle put the dress aside, went to the phone, and dialed Michael's hotel.

"Little Mike is sick," she told him. "Michael, you must.." Then she turned to Bonnie whose eyes were dark and bright. "He didn't say anything. He's probably on his way...."

"You shouldn't have told him Mike was sick. He'll...."

Lyle went to her room, leaving Bonnie to meet him. After a few minutes she heard the bell ring. But she did not hear what they said to each other. No doubt Bonnie told him at once that Mike wasn't ill, and then said, "Come home, Michael. Come home."

Lyle stayed in her room, watching the confused traffic in the street below until Michael open- the door and said, grinning, "Come on out! We have things to tell you!" And when she passed him, he put his arms around her and kissed her and laughed.

Lyle looked up and smiled. "Now you've got two brands of lipstick on your cheek, Michael!"

Bonnie was curled up on the green divan, her brown hair disheveled, her eyes shining with happy tears.

Michael asked, grinning broadly. "Do you mind if I kiss my wife again, Lyle?"

My wife! How he said it — with so much tenderness and pride!

Bonnie said, "We're going on a honeymoon to Bermuda! I'll get my mother to come up and look after Mike. And I'm going to quit my job!"

"That's Bonnie, my Bonnie talking now," Michael said.

Lyle had not said anything. Her throat ached. Finally she said, "I'm glad. I'm so glad," and turned and left them.

And the next morning before she went to the store, there was a letter she had mailed to Jeff at Miami. Written across it were the words "Address Unknown."

Lyle looked at the words again—"Address Unknown." Her heart had seemed to stop; now it began to race. Where was Jeff? She stood, looking white and stupid, she knew, and stared at her own handwriting. She felt she must do something to find him. But how ....Then the comforting thought, "Perhaps he's on his way home." She began to breathe more easily and to stop shaking. But on the street as she walked to the store in the biting wind, tears stung her eyes. How could he treat her like this?

That day and two more days of waiting and hearing nothing! Three days of waiting....

Mrs. Lasky, Bonnie's mother, came from Baltimore to stay with Mike while Michael and Bonnie were in Bermuda. The indispensable Mrs. Ryan was to stay on also.

At home Lyle guarded her feelings. And it was "home" again with Michael rushing in at night and Bonnie waiting for him and their excited talk about Bermuda all through dinner. A happy, noisy home again with laughter and love in it.

Lyle and Mrs. Lasky saw Bonnie and Michael off to Bermuda. They stood on the dock and looked up at the ship as it moved slowly from the pier, finding Bonnie and Michael standing close together at the rail, his arms around her. Bonnie, her small face framed in grey fur, threw a kiss. Michael, grinning, waved frantically.

And Lyle thought, "I've got to go to Florida and find Jeff! I'll go crazy not knowing what's happened to him! I can't stand the silence and suspense any longer." Money? She had her salary for three weeks and Mrs. Nash had paid her for another dress shop drawing two days ago....

Through the night her determination to go did not waver. The next morning she was in Lois Penniman's office when the latter came in. Lois sat down and Lyle stood beside her desk and told her in words that ran nervously together.

Finally Lois said, "I know Jeff." Then, "But I'm sure he's all right, my dear. If he were ill, you'd be the first person he'd get in touch with. 'No news is good news' is a very true saying." But all the while she knew that nothing she could say to Lyle would dissuade her. "O course you may go," she said. "So this is why you've been looking so tired lately. "So young, so frantic, so terribly in love.....

"It's why I haven't been working very well," Lyle said. "Thank you for letting me go. I'll be back as soon as I can."

She went directly to Stephen's office and had to wait to see him.

He knew the moment he saw her that she was more deeply touched than he had ever seen her. And it was about Jeff, of course. Always it had been about Jeff. Thank Jeff for that, he thought, as she came forward. Thank Jeff that his escapades had at least the saving grace of bringing Lyle to him, for giving him moments with her he would not otherwise have.

He said, towering above her auburn head when she was beside him, "Hello. Did you have to wait? I'm sorry."

When she sat down, he saw her hands grasp the arms of the chair. Speaking quietly, she told him about Jeff's failure to write, about her letter to him having been returned, and that she was going to Miami this afternoon.

She did not tell him of the days and nights of waiting and hoping. But he knew. And he thought, "She looks completely worn out and past caring what I or Lois or anybody thinks of her going to Florida.

He said, "But you won't know where to begin to look for him, Lyle."

"I'll go to the hotel where he has been staying. Perhaps the people there can tell me something. Stephen, I can't...." Almost a cry..

"I know you can't." Gently. "It's been more than a week since you've heard?" A week wasn't a very long time. But to her, waiting, it had been like forever, he knew. He had no fears for Jeff. No doubt he'd met a lot of people and had gone off on a yacht and it would never occur to him that Lyle would work herself up into a state of despair because she did not hear from him. Stephen's collar felt hot.

"Yes, more than a week," Lyle said. "You don't think I should go?"

"I certainly won't try to make you stay," He smiled at her across the little space that separated them. "Make it a holiday. You'll probably find Jeff in great form."

Perhaps Jeff had come back to the hotel. And in her mind she saw him opening the door of his hotel room that faced the ocean, saw him looking strong and brown, saw his dark eyes gay and happy to see her. He'd think her so silly for coming, for worrying!

Before a new hotel, gleaming white and modern, the taxi stopped.

"I'm not stopping here," she told the driver. "Wait. I just want to inquire."

As she walked to the entrance she said a prayer....

At the desk, she asked, "Is Mr. Conway here?" and waited, waited again....

The clerk, young and thin and brown, said, "No. Mr. Conway checked out two weeks ago."

Two weeks ago!

"Didn't he leave any address where his mail could be forwarded? The last time Jeff had written her he had already left the hotel but he had not told her! "I'm Mr. Conway's fiancee. He was ill when he left New York. Was he—quite well when he left?"

The clerk's pale eyes searched her face. "I really couldn't say I'm sorry. But I do not remember Mr. Conway."

Lyle thought, "You are being discreet. You won't tell me what you know." Several people had gathered at the desk. "Thank you," she said and turned away and walked out into the hot sun again to the taxi and gave the driver her mother's address.

Jeff was here somewhere and she had to find him! She was angry. "You say you love me but you'd put me through this!" And she was frightened. "Perhaps he's been hurt and no one knows who he is!" There had to be some way to find him....

Her aunt Leila's house, a small Spanish bungalow, looked cool and quiet beneath tall palm trees. And the bright flowers around the house were her mother's she knew.

As the taxi stopped before the house, she saw a woman in a black and white printed dress leave the shady patio. Her mother!

Lyle fumbled with the door, opened it, and stepped out. Her mother, her face aglow, hurried down the path. Lyle almost tumbled into her arms.

Esther Marsh, small and slim, brown-haired and brown-eyed, and young looking for her years despite ill health, kept her arm tightly around Lyle as they walked up the path to the house. Inside it was cool and immaculate. There were grass scatter rugs on the polished floor and new chintz curtains at the windows and chintz covers over the furniture. Esther's Persian cat Peter was curled up asleep near the window, his silky coat stirring in the breeze.

Leila, her widowed sister, tall and thin and gray-haired, hurried out of the dining room and embraced Lyle.

And as Lyle pulled a dark felt hat from her warm, aching head her mother said, "I didn't know whether or not to meet you, dear. I'm so glad to see you! I want to hear all about your work and Bonnie and Michael and the baby. Imagine Bonnie with a baby!" But behind the excitement in her eyes at seeing Lyle there was concern because Lyle looked older than she expected her to look, and very tired and worried. Would she tell her what had brought her? It was Jeff Conway, Esther guessed. And she thought, "She was so young to go to New York alone and she'd been so sheltered. I was afraid she'd fall in love with the first charming, good-looking young man who came along."

Aunt Leila said, "I have your room all ready for you, dear, and I'll get you something to eat. Isn't she pale, Esther? I guess we think all northerners are pale because everybody down here is so sunburned."

Lyle wanted to cry in gratitude at the warm, loving welcome. So long she had faced her problems alone—those years in Baltimore, studying, and the past year in New York.... And always she had shielded her mother from every hurt and worry and problem.

She ate a little and unpacked and she was coming from the bathroom from a shower, tying the belt of a negligee around her hips, feeling cool and refreshed when her mother came in.

Esther asked gently, "What did bring you down, Lyle? It wasn't just to see me, was it? I didn't expect you until the summer when you had your vacation. Jeff Conway hasn't been to see me." She smiled. "I've had my hair waved several times expecting him to come. He brought you, didn't he? You're in love with him."

United States production of ceramic tile is at an all-time high — 104,500,000 square feet in the last 12 months.

Case Still Under Consideration By Supreme Court

Ottawa, March 27 — (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada still has under consideration the case of Count Alfred De Marigny, who left the country March 22 en route to Haiti.

De Marigny appealed against a Quebec court's decision which threw out a writ of Habeas Corpus the former husband of Nancy Oakes took out against an immigration official in Montreal. De Marigny, native of the Island of Maritius, entered Canada on a 30-day permit three years ago and had remained ever since.

Wednesday The Canadian Press erroneously stated the Supreme Court had dismissed the appeal.

At Montreal Marcel Gaboury, counsel for De Marigny who was acquitted in 1943 of the murder of his father-in-law, Sir Harry Oakes, in Bermuda said his client has not been deported and will return from Haiti to continue his fight to remain in Canada.

Gaboury said De Marigny would return as soon from Haiti as he has finished his business there because, under instructions from Ottawa, De Marigny is compelled to be in Canada when the Supreme Court returns its judgment.

"ITALIAN DE GAULLE"

The election campaign in Italy is getting hotter as election day (April 18) approaches. All factions are stumping vigorously, but so far there has been no serious disorder. Shown is Marshal Giovanni Messe, regarded in some quarters as the "Italian De Gaulle." He calls upon the voters to make their choice between the true interests of the people and "men and doctrines alien to the traditions of Italian past and western civilization."

Ancient Prayer, Pageantry, Song To Mark Easter

New York March 27 (AP)— Centuries old prayer pageantry and song will somnize the Easter festival tomorrow as millions of Christian worshippers gather in hamlets, towns and cities in the United States to extol the story of the risen Christ.

As the firs rays of the morning sun reach across the land, the throngs will come together in churches, stadia and picturesque settings where they will hear anew the message of the cross of Calvary and the resurrection.

The third Easter since the ending of the Second World War, it will be marked traditionally in the country with sunrise services at the amphithatre in the National cemetery at Arlington.

In Arizona, the 14th annual Grand Canyon services will be held at the Shrine of Ages on the canyon's south rim.

Southern New Mexico residents will gather at the White Sands National monument to commemorate the crucifixion and the resurrection of the Prince of Peace. The monument is within 50 miles of the Army's rocket testing site. One hundred miles away in the desert, the first atom bomb was tested.

Some 65,000 are expeced at sunrise services in Chicago's Soldier Field where a 110-foot white cross spanned by the words, "Christ is Risen," has been erected.

In Southern California, a throng of 5,00 was expected at Forest Lawn Memorial Park in Glendale and another 20,000 at the Hollywood Bowl.

The Orange Bowl's first service is expected to attract between 40,000 and 50,000 at Miami Fla.

Numerous sunrise services are scheduled for New York City.

The townspeople of Valley Stream N.Y., a community of 20,000 Long Islanders will gather Easter Sunday night to hear United Nations speakers and pray en masse for peace.

Lewis Forces 72-Hour Delay In Ending Strike

Washington, March 27 (AP) — John L. Lewis forced a 72-hour delay today in government efforts to bring the soft coal strike to a speedy end.

He brought President Truman's special inquiry board to a standstill by failing to appear at its first hearings yesterday.

The three fact finders finished hearing the coal operators' side of the miner pension dispute in less than two hours.

When the United Mine Workers' chief didn't show up, the Board recessed until Monday. The bushy-browed Lewis was given until then to decide if he will appear volnntarily. Otherwise the Board would force him to appear by getting a court order.

Lewis stayed away, he informed the Board, to study "legal questions involved." But his absence threw a monkey-wrench into Board plans to work steadily through the Easter weekend to speed a report to President Truman.

That report must be in Truman's hands before he can seek a court order to halt the walkout under terms of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Meanwhile the strike, nearing the end of its second week, was paralyzing industry. Interior Secretary Krug appealed to the few coal mines still operating to dole their production only to essential consumers. And Krug asked every one to help save coal.

He estimated that three more days of the strike will affect 18 per cent of the electric power utilities, 25 per cent of the steel and rolling mills, 27 per cent of the major railroads and 72 per cent of the retail coal yards.

One leading coal operator, Charles O'Neill, said the United States coal stocks are down to a 15-day supply.

The dispute is over how to pay miner pensions out of a $32,000,000 welfare fund. The fund is financed by a 10-cent-a-ton coal royalty.

Police Commission Considers Charge

Toronto, March 27 — (CP)—A special Police Commission meeting March 31 will consider a charge by Jean Poitras, formerly of Ottawa, that Toronto policemen who arrested him on an intoxication charge March 13 beat him up and kicked out three of his teeth.

Chief Constable John Chisholm, announcing the special meeting, said Wednesday night all the police officers concerned will attend.

Poitras, 26-year-old laborer who came here from Ottawa last January, said he was prepared to put his claims of police brutality before the meeting. Also expected to testify at the hearing are John MacLeod, post-graduate student at the University of Toronto, and three friends who claim they saw a group of policemen beating a prisoner and kicking him in the face the night Poitras was arrested.

Izvestia Charges Norway Rightists Sell Out to U.S.

Moscow, March 27 (AP)—Izvestia, Russian government newspaper, today accused what it called Norwegian government Rightists of "selling out Norway to the United States."

Meanwhile, Finnish - Soviet talks were scheduled to continue today on a friendship and mutual aid pact proposed by Prime Minister Stalin.

Both the Finnish Legation and the Finnish delegation are maintaining a policy of silence on the substance of the negotiations.

(The Finnish cabinet met last night at Helsinki but nothing is known about the meeting or the reason for it. The atmosphere in well-informed political circles there is serious. It generally is presumed that the question of the proposed pact now has entered a decisive stage.)

Izvestia said Norwegian military collaboration with the United States had progressed to the extent that it envisaged use by the United States War Department of Norway's Jan Mayen and Svalbard islands.

(Jan Mayen island is about 700 miles southwest of Norway's Spitsbergen, where the Russians have coal mining concessions.)

According to latest information in Oslo," Izvestia said, "the War Department of Norway, the United States and Britain, in obvious preparation for a western union, have agreed on far reaching measures such as the standardization of Norwegian armaments accord-cording to the American pattern and the leasing of Norwegian territory for American and British bases."

Reid Robinson Denies Statement He is Communist

Toronto, March 27 — (CP) — Reid Robinson, eastern vice-president of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (CCL - CIO), questioned Thursday by immigration authorities who suspect he may be an undesirable alien, said he was not a communist, had never been one, and believed the system of government in Canada and the United States was the finest in the world.

His counsel quoted him as saying this after adjournment was called by the investigating board until next Thursday.

C. L. Dubin, counsel for the United States Labor leader who went to Northern Ontario last fall after passage of the Taft - Hartley law, said Robinson would present this conviction as a defence when his case is resumed. He has been free on $500 bail.

It was learned that a witness at the in-camera hearing was Inspector John Leopold of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

The inspector was a key Crown witness 17 years ago in the sensational trial of nine men charged with belonging to an unlawful organization and being parties to a seditious conspiracy. At that time he revealed that for 13 years he had been an undercover R. C. M. P. agent in the Communist party.

But when Hess was released to attend a funeral, he and his ex-wife decided to again try to make their marriage work.

"Things seemed different," they both agreed.

So they remarried and Tuesday they will seek Hess' release from jail.

But little Jimmy won't be around. It was his funeral they attended. He fell into the Rouge River and drowned.

The grant will be made to Mrs. W. F. Bowie who, in addition, will receive an annual pension equivalent to that received by the widow of a major in the army.

Her husband was killed by an irate veteran, Henry Page, who then shot himself. He was disgruntled over his grading for pension purposes.

Navy Wanted Anchor But Museum Got It

Louisburg, N. S., March 27 — (CP) — When the transport department ice-breaker Saurel dragged up an old French anchor off this former French fortress it precipitated a tussle between the Royal Canadian Navy and the National Museum here

The navy claimed the anchor to commemorate the battle between the French and British fleets in 1758 while the National Museum thought it should be preserved in Louisburg.

The transport department ordered the Saurel to deliver the anchor to the museum.

CAIRO-HAIFA TRAIN BLOWN UP, 40 KILLED

Britain, U.S. Oppose Russian Plan For Traffic Control

Moscow Seeks Inspection Of Trains in Red Zone

Berlin, March 31 — (AP)—British and American opposition arose today to a Russian plan for stringent new controls on traffic between the Soviet and western zones of Germany.

The Russians informed the British, French and American headquarters of their plan.

British authorities rejected a Soviet demand for a Russian inspection of British military trains travelling through the Russian zone and ordered British train commanders not to permit Russian soldiers aboard.

Lt.-Gen. G. S. Lukyanchenko, Russian Chief of Staff, said yesterday that demands on traffic arteries through the Russian occupation zone made necessary a reconsideration of their use.

The general, in an interview with a Soviet-licensed newspaper, said the one-track rail line and the super-highway to Berlin through Russian-held territory from Western Germany would have to be put under a new control. These are the only ground connections from the west into the capital.

The move was the latest in a series apparently aimed at disrupting four - power rule in Germ yna.The many. The Russians previously had boycotted meetings of the four-power control council, and the western powers responded with a counter - boycott, led by the United States.

The rail line and highway are used by the three western powers to supply their troops in Berlin and to move food and supplies from western Germany for the Germans in their zones of the capital.

APPEAL AGAINST FREIGHT RATE RISE MAY BE LAUNCHED

Would Delay Implementation of Board's Verdict Announced Tuesday

Ottawa, March 31. (CP)—Appeal against decision of the Board of Transport Commissioners to grant a 21-per-cent freight-rate increase to Canadian Railways today appeared likely.

Out of a maze of conflicting views came the statement of Premier Garson of Manitoba that opposing provinces—excluding Ontario and Quebec—would open discussions toward launching an appeal.

Although there was no immediate comment on Mr. Garson's statement, Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan said the Prairies and Maritimes would do well to ask for a Royal Commission to review the decision.

An appeal would delay implementation of the Board's verdict —announced yesterday. It could come on one or both of two grounds—law or fact. On law the appeal would be heard by the Supreme Court of Canada; on fact—as seems likely—by the Cabinet. There would be no reference to parliament.

The Transport Commissioners' decision, which ended 18 months of hearings, means an added revenues of some $70,000,000 to the railways.

Board Dismisses Claims

The Board dismissed all claims for special regional consideration.

Most criticism immediately came from the west and the Maritimes Provinces, the most affected. It was conceded that an increase in freight rates means an increase in the cost of the things people buy.

Cross-Country reaction was summed by Premier Jones of Prince Edward Island, one of the first government heads to speak: "It's pretty awful."

Some sympathy to the railways' position was given by Labor officials. A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor, said: "They should have got more than even the 30 per cent they asked for."

Hope for Pay Boost

J. W. Buckley, secretary-treasurer of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada ,said he hoped the increase would mean a boost in railway workers' pay. That had been the experience of some other industries such as steel.

In railway work shops, yards and on the road were some 125,000 railway employees anxious for a 35-cents-an-hour wage boost and other demands under consideration by a Conciliation Board in Montreal.

In other quarters the freight boost was seen as sending up the grocery bill and the fuel bill and the clothing bill and the cost of running the family car.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, March 31 (CP) — Synopsis and official forecasts valid from 10 a.m. Wednesday until midnight Thursday issued by the Dominion Public Weather Office at Toronto.

Upper cloud over Southern Ontario this morning indicates the approach of a storm now situated over Missouri. Says Quiet Communists Make Estimate Difficult

Winnipeg, March 31 — (CP) — Justice Minister J. L. Ilsley said yesterday that it is impossible to estimate the danger of communism in Canada. "You cannot weigh or estimate these things, particularly when you don't know how many communists are in the Dominion," he said in an interview. "Some of them don't make enough noise and we don't know who they are."

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

Kingston, March 31 — (CP) — Gilbert Robinson, 23, Barriefield, was committed to stand trial before a Supreme Court Jury sitting probably next October, on a charge of raping a 13-year-old girl when he appeared in Magistrate's Court yesterday.

Police Stand Shoulder to Shoulder To Prevent Recurrence of Violence

New York, March 31 (AP) — Police stood shoulder to shoulder at the entrance to New York Stock Exchange today to prevent any recurrence of yesterday's violence in the financial workers' strike.

Members of the striking Financial Employees Union (A.F.L.) and of the A.F.L. Seaman's Unions who joined them on the picket line, were on hand long before the 10 a.m. EST hour of opening.

The same three pickets who stood before the exchange's main entrance at 11 Wall Street when the battling began yesterday walked in a tight circle in front of the doorway today.

Six police officers stood a few feet away.

The 1,000 to 1,500 pickets were noisy but orderly as they marched back and forth in adjacent areas.

As workers began to arrive, boos from the picket line grew lounder. In several instances men going into the stock exchange stopped to argue but were quickly motioned inside by policemen. When one man showed signs of prolonging an argument, he was quickly surrounded by five uniformed officers, who escorted him inside quietly.

Both the stock and curb exchanges were struck, but picket activity outside the curb was quiet. Brokers' offices were not affected by the strike.

The pickets concentrated their attention on the 11 Wall Street entrance to the stock exchange today and lines in other areas were small.

There were about 200 police on duty in the area. The officers stood about a foot apart at the apex of Wall and New Streets. Along the remainder of the block there was a policeman about every 10 feet.

Pickets, some bruised from yesterday's clash with police, were called on duty starting at 6.30 a.m. EST.

Strategy of the strikers was not disclosed. Picket line captains indicated, however, they were planning another surprise to match yesterday's manoeuvre, when pickets suddenly flung themselves to the ground and blocked the stock exchange entrance with their bodies.

Police, armed with night sticks, drove the pickets away from the entrance after a sharp skirmish and arrested 45.

Routine picketing later was permitted to continue.

FRANCO REPORTED READY TO INSTALL SPANISH PREMIER

Move Depends on Spain Being Included in Plan

Madrid, March 31 (AP)—Generalissmo Franco may reshuffle his cabinet and install a premier if Spain is included in the United States European Recovery Program, informed sources said today.

The United States House Representatives voted 149 to 52 yesterday to designate Spain as a participant under the Marshall Plan in the $6,205,000,000 Foreign Aid Program. The House amendment still needs Senate approval.

Rumors claim that Franco plans to create a premier, who would head the cabinet, leaving the Generalissimo as Chief of State.

Although all political parties were abolished by Franco decree and merged into the government party (Falange Espanola) there are several factions within Falangist ranks. These include the Fascist Falangists, the Requetes (Carlists) and the Monarchists. Carlists support the Bourbon pretender to the Spanish throne.

Most prominently mentioned for the position of premier if it should be created are Esteban Bilbao Equia, president of the Spanish parliament, and Alberto Martin Artajo, Minister of Foreign affairs.

First news of the Congressional action reached Spain last night in regular nightly newscasts of the National Radio. The report was followed by a commentary from Pedro Gomez Aparicio, general manager of the Spanish News Agency Efe, who told his listeners:

Can Offer More

"Spain has shown by her acts and her position that she can offer more than she could receive. The accord of the North American House is correction of an injustice. As such, we receive it with tranquility, confident as we have been that it would occur sooner or later."

Government press control offices took a similar tack. They ordered that the news be displayed "moderately" in the morning's papers.

There was no comment from the government. The presence of Col. Joseph A. Miller, United States air attache to Madrid, in Washington brought a rumor the United States might aid in completing trans-Atlantic airports at Sevilla and Barcelona. According to unconfirmed reports, heavy machinery to speed construction of runways for multi-engined airplanes will come from the United States.

Ready to Increase Army

It was reported yesterday Franco is ready to increase his army by about 300,000 men. This move, the report said, was to be taken because of the Communist threat in Europe, especially in Italy. There was no official confirmation.

No Further Engagements For Princess Elizabeth After June, Press Told

London, March 31 (Reuters)—A Buckingham Palace official told Reuters News Agency today that Princess Elizabeth had made no further engagements after June but refused to comment on persistent rumors that she and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, were expecting a baby in October.

The usual procedure for announcing an expected birth in the Royal Family is an official notice from a Royal residence that the member of the family "will not, for the next few months, be undertaking any further engagements."

These announcements in the cases of the Duchess of Kent and the Duchess of Gloucester came four full months before the births of their children.

The last announcement of this kind was the cancelling of engagements for the Duchess of Gloucester April 11, 1944. Her second son, Prince Richard, was born on Aug. 26.

No such public announcement was made for the expected birth of Princess Elizabeth herself but when the Queen, then the Duchess of York, was expecting her second child, Princess Margaret, an announcement with similar wording appeared in the press April 15, 1930. On Aug. 21, Princess Margaret was born at Glamis Castle, Scotland.

It has also been reported that ingham Palace that a nursery floor is being built into Clarence House, London, which will not be ready for Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip until early next year.

It has also bee nreported that Princess Elizabeth has given up horseback riding.

An official at Norman Hartnell's, the Queen's dressmaker who made Princess Elizabeth's wedding dress for her marriage last Nov. 20, said that the Princess had ordered no new clothes for the summer.

"Three weeks ago we altered the dresses of her American trousseau sent to her as a wedding gift by the Guild of New York Designers, and her measurements were the same as on the day of her wedding," he said.

Battle of Words Follows Fracas In Boston When Fans Assault Leafs

Boston, March 31 (AP) — Boston's hockey followers are hoping today that on Thursday night Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins can clash all by themselves.

The fans got into it Tuesday night.

Today there are bruises and verbal passes going on between heads of the two teams and Boston fans are reading sportswriters' lectures calling them "thugs" and "rowdies."

The National Hockey League Champion Leafs stopped the Bruins 5-1 in their third straight Stanley Cup playoff game but the complaint is that nobody stopped the fans, not even the police.

Leaf President Conn Smythe called the mixup "a positive disgrace . . . could never happen in Toronto. The police did nothing." Then Smythe lined up on Bruins owner, Weston Adams.

"Why doesn't Adams stop being a fan and a cry baby," Smythe demanded, "and conduct his games in Major League fashion.

"When the fans jump us and we don't get any protection we'll protect ourselves with our sticks and fists."

Adams answered:

"It seems to be Smythe is doing all the crying and the Bruins have all the injuries."

In a separate fight earlier the Bruins Moe Henderson and the Leafs' Harry Watson tangled and Adams said today that Henderson suffered "a badly broken nose."

Adams said Toronto will get "ample protection" at Thursday's game and added:

"I don't anticipate any trouble or any bad feeling."

Smythe, a former major in the Canadian army, suggested:

"Maybe after this we'll have to use military formations to leave the ice. Put holding parties out on the flanks and move the main forces down the middle."

Provinces May Appeal Against Freight Rate Rise

(By The Canadian Press)

A suggestion that Manitoba and other provinces which opposed an application for a freight rates increase unite to appeal against the 21-per-cent increase granted the railways was made yesterday in the legislature at Winnipeg by Premier Stuart Garson.

Mr. Garson said the increase was "unfavorable for Manitoba because it adds substantially to our freight rate bill." Other prairie provinces opposed the application.

At Halifax, opposition leader Russell Cunningham (CCF Cape Breton East) urged increased coal royalties as the Nova Scotia legislature resumed sittings after a 5-day Easter recess. He said revised royalties would bring an extra $100,000 into provincial coffers.

Lands Minister R. J. Gill petitioned the New Brunswick legislature for introduction of a motion asking incorporation of a proposed $65,000,000 paper mill. The bill went to the standing rules committee and will return for first reading.

Quebec Premier Maurice Duplessis and Liberal leader Adelard Godbout engaged in a debate on communism as the legislature assembly studied the Labor Department budget. The Assembly continued study of departmental budgets and approved credits for the Trade and Commerce Department totalling $1,256,000 and $882,600 for control of game.

The Ontario Legislature resumes today after its five-day Easter recess. The budget is expected Thursday or Friday.

Works Minister E. C. Carson told the British Columbia Legislature his province should haxe federal aid is carrying out highway programs. He said Dominion assistance should apply "not only on what is now known as the Trans-Canada Highway but also on other main east - west and north and south routes."

Attractive Bride Of Four Months Stabbed to Death

New York, March 31 —(AP)— An attractive brunette bride of four months was found stabbed and garroted to death in her midtown Manhattan apartment yesterday in what police said apparently was a "crime of vengeance."

The victim was Mrs. Vera Lotito, 36, a partner in a travel bureau a few doors from her apartment home.

She had been stabbed in the chest at least six times and was bound hand and foot with neckties. A third necktie ,was looped tightly around her throat.

The woman's wedding and engagement rings were missing. The body was found by her husband, Robert, an insurance company executive. Her hands were tied behind her with one necktie. Another held her ankles. Her pearl necklace still encircled her throat, and a third ring, mounted with semi-precious stones, was found on the couch. Beside the body was Mrs. Lotito's pocketbook, its contents strewn over the floor.

Officers said the apartment lock had been broken.

$430,300 Estate Awaits 3 Heirs

London, Ont., March 31—(CP) A search for three missing heirs to proceeds of a $430,000 estate was ordered yesterday. The estate is that of Mrs. Elizabeth Lloyd, who died in 1890. Her will provided for sale of six blocks of property here when the last of her children died and for distribution of the proceeds among her grandchildren. Mrs. Grace Lloyd Taylor, the last surviving child, died in Toronto last June. But three grandchildren cannot be found.

H.E.P.C. ENDS BAN ON ELECTRIC SIGNS, DISPLAY

Emphasizes Economy In Use of Power Needed

Toronto, March 31 (CP)—Display windows, theatre marquees and outdoor advertising signs again can blaze with electric light throughout Ontario. Lighing restrictions which went into effect last November have been lifted.

But hydro officials emphasize that economy in the use of power still is needed.

"Generating resources are not unlimited," said R. H. Saunders, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, as he announced yesterday that improved water conditions had led to a substantial increase in the amount of power available to the southern Ontario system.

"Should the suspension of these regulations result in an abnormal increase in the use of electrical energy or should the power resources be substantially reduced from any cause whatsoever, it may be necessary either to reimpose the restrictions or allocate power on a quota basis."

That action might become necessary on short notice. Municipalities should "make plans accordingly."

The commission hoped all consumers would use electricity efficiently, not wastefully, so that power might be kept available to meet the needs of agriculture and industry and avoid reimposition of restrictions.

"With this thought in mind, it is proposed to call a conference within the next few weeks of representatives from the municipalities and other interested groups to formulate plans for the control of the future use of available power."

Between 50 and 70 Japanese Reported Killed in Wreck

Tokyo, March 31. (AP)—Between 50 and 70 Japanese were reported killed today in a train wreck near Osaka.

Kyodo News agency said 50 Japanese had been killed. The United States Army later boosted the figure to 70 and said the wreckage still was being probed for bodies.

Details were confused also.

Kyodo said the wreck occurred between Wakaeiwata and Hanazono on the Nara-Osaka line. It added that an electric connection broke and the train crashed when the brakes failed.

The army reported that the electric train was stopped at a station near Osaka and was hit by a speeding express.

BANKHEAD TO CONSULT STATE DEPARTMENT

Washington, March 31 — (AP) — The State Department said yesterday it has requested John Bankhead, United States Consul at Windsor, to come here for consultation about attempts that have been made to kill him.

Five Members of Buffalo Bisons Charged With Breach of Peace

New Haven, March 31 (AP) — Five members of the Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League were arrested early today on a charge of breach of the peace following an altercation in a New Haven restaurant.

During the altercation, police said, Wallace Holland, 23, of New Haven, a counterman, was injured so severely he was taken to hospital where his condition was reported as "fair."

Those under arrest are: Joe Bell, 24, of Portage La Prairie, Man.; Tommy Cooper, 30, of Winnipeg; Mike McMahon, 32, of Brockville, Ont.; Les Douglas, 22, of Perth, Ont.; and Leslie Hickey, 27, of Winnipeg.

They originally were ordered held in bonds of $500 each but the bond was increased to $2,500 each when Holland's lawyer told the court his client apparently was injured severely.

At hospital a spokesman said Holland had a critical injury to his left eye with a haemorrhage just behind it. X-rays were to be taken to determine if the counterman had a fractured skull.

The Buffalo team last night defeated New Haven Ramblers, 6-2, to qualify for the finals of the league's Calder Cup playoffs.

Police said the five players entered the restaurant shortly before 4 a.m. and ordered food from counterman George Wilson. Holland, off duty, was eating nearby.

The trouble started, police said, when two of the players became abusive to Wilson and a "little cereal was thrown around." Wilson threatened to call the police and Holland was quoted as saying that was the thing to do. The players then pounced upon Holland, police said.

Police said the players were arrested as they started to walk away from the restaurant. Holland, bleeding profusely, was found inside the building and taken to the hospital in a police car.

Bond was posted for the players and the case was continued until April 21.

Engine and Four Coaches of Train Are Derailed

Four Arabs and Three Jews Killed in Gunplay Elsewhere

Jerusalem, March 31 (AP)— A train from Cairo to Haifa was blown up today on the coastal plain, killing 40 persons and injuring 60, the government announced. Most of the victims were Arabs.

The blast occurred at Binyamina, 20 miles south of Haifa. The engine and four coaches of the train, enroute to Haifa, were derailed.

A government spokesman said he believed there were few if any British among the casualties.

Four Arabs and three Jews were killed in sporadic gunplay elsewhere.

A dozen Jews raided an army camp near Haifa, police said, and stole a three-ton truck, a 12-ton steam roller and tools.

The Palestine government said three former British policemen, a British civilian and a German internee escaped Acre prison yesterday.

Meanwhile the food shortage in Jerusalem's Jewish sector came in for attention, a government spokesman saying it could be eased if the Jewish agency cooperated with the government and the army.

The spokesman said the agency had not asked for government help in escorting Jewish food convoys into Jerusalem.

Food Supplies Low

Jews said their food supplies were "dangerously low." Items already rationed by the Jews themselves are bread, at about three slices a day, one egg a week —two for children—butter and sugar. Meat so far is unrationed, but extremely scarce, save for sausages and dried meat products.

The rationing apparently was necessitated by continued Arab attacks on Jewish convoys and other interference in the moving of food and supplies to the city's 100,000 Jews.

Jewish spokesmen voiced pessimism for the future unless the convoys can get through. At present, Arabs control all the roads leading to Jerusalem. Bakers said a further bread cut would be necessary unless convoys arrive. Attacks on convoys have cut them off from virtually all outside food supplies.

War Costly to Arabs

The communal war that has raged since the United Nations decision Nov. 29 to partition Palestine has cost the Arabs an estimated $500,000 in trade. Since there is no Jewish market for Arab produce, Arab stores are glutted with wares and prices are dropping.

Guns chattered in Jerusalem's Arab-Jewish no man's land again today. One Jewish woman was wounded.

Previously unreported deaths made known today raised the unofficial death toll since the partition decision to 2,225.

MEN LAID LOW BY POLICE BULLETS BATTLE FOR LIFE

Alleged Lookout and Wife Arrested Two Hours After Shooting

Toronto, March 31 (CP)—Laid low by police bullets in an ambush in a darkened warehouse, Norman Bailey, 25, and Albert Smith, 26, battled for life today in a hospital ward. A companion, William Poole, 27, was shot to death during what police described as an attempt to rob the Toronto Florists' Co-operative Company.

A fourth man, alleged to have acted as lookout and as driver of a getaway car, was arrested two hours after the shooting early yesterday. He gave his name as Edward Blair, 24.

Blair and his 21-year-old wife, Frances, appeared in court yesterday. The former was remanded in custody until April 6. His wife was freed on $1,000 bail and will face trial on the same date. At the time of the robbery Blair was on $10,000 bail for attempted robbery at Fort Erie.

Bailey, Smith and Blair were charged with shopbreaking and having burglars' tools. They were remanded to April 6.

Police said they believed the raid on the florist firm was planned last Thursday night when Manager Russell Walters became alarmed by two strangers acting suspiciously and asked for police protection.

Had Nightly Vigil

Law officers started a nightly vigil in the midtown warehouse. Plainclothesmen William Godber and John Herron spotted three men moving a safe in the flower shop and opened fire with a pump gun and a revolver on the unarmed trio.

Poole's head was riddled with eight bullets from Godber's pump gun. Smith was shot in the chest and his left arm was almost cut off by the hail of lead. Bailey was shot through the legs.

Two telephoned threats were made last night against the lives of the two officers. Police said they had a good idea of the source of the calls but would give the plainclothesmen no special protection.

"They can look after themselves," an official said.

A maroon coupe said to have been seen near the warehouse Thursday was seized by police after the shooting. Police officials said it was owned by an underworld character and that they had asked that the owner's licence be cancelled.

GLENORA FERRY AGAIN OPERATING

Almost two weeks earlier than last year, the Glenora ferry commenced operations last Saturday after being inoperative because of ice conditions for 72 days. In 1947 the ferry commenced operating on April 8th.

Due to the fact that ice is still floating down the bay the ferry will not be operated when it is dark. A channel through the ice had to be opened before the ferry could commence.

Year-round ferry service is to be sought by the Picton Chamber of Commerce with the county provincial member Hon. James deC Hepburn to be interviewed and asked to investigate the possibility of year-round operation of the ferry.

CATCHES TWO RATS IN ONE TRAP

"Caught like rats in a trap" smiled Joe Samaine, staffman of the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans Branch clubrooms here, looking down at a pair of nocturnal intruders which had been roaming the premises for the past two or three nights.

Joe was right. At his feet lay a large rat trap. He had set it the night previous in the hope of catching the midnight marauder, and his success was more than he anticipated.

Instead of one large rodent of the rat variety, Joe had bagged two. They were neatly imprisoned in the trap's jaws by their necks, which had been promptly broken when the mechanism sprung.

Speaker Explains Various Types Of Insurance

The various types of insurance and the need for business men, motorists and others to have protection for public liability, was the topic under discussion at the Kinsmen dinner meeting Tuesday evening at the Kiwanis Centre when club members were addressed by Larry Stevens, Toronto insurance investigator.

The speaker declared that generally speaking there was insufficient information given to policy holders in regard to what their insurance actually gave them in the way of protection. He stated more explanation on the legal liability to the public for public safety should be given to the man who pays the insurance premium.

Not Claims Conscious

Canadians as a general rule were stated not to be "claims conscious", but in the United States persons suffering injury from falls at places of business or when sustaining other injury seemed only too ready to sue for damages, which in many instances are collected if negligence of any degree is proven.

Mr. Stevens exploded any myth entertained that certain insurance companies may not be sound. He assured that all insurance companies operating in Canada were sound, whether the type of insurance was fire, casualty, or life. That claims would be paid was assured by the company's deposit with the government.

"There is no difference in insurance companies insofar as soundness is concerned," Mr. Stevens concluded. "The only difference is in the service which you get from your agent. Just make sure that your agent is honest and knows his business enough to write the proper type of policy to suit your needs."

B.C.I. Students To Stage Musical Mystery Play

Suspense set to music themes the musical mystery play being footlighted by the staff and students of Belleville Collegiate Institute in the school auditorium on April 15 and 16th.

"Purple Towers" the name of the production, is something definitely new in stage entertainment, and its presentation should please the most fastidious footlights critic.

The production embraces a cast of ten players, with the musical embellishments calling for a chorus of 35 songsters and principals.

"Purple Towers" is different to the usual run of musical comedies, for its sprightly, melodious tunes offset the mysterious goings-on that are guaranteed to keep the audience in a state of suspense. Eerie situations are relieved by sparkling melodies, and the whole forms one of the most entertaining amateur stage shows presented here in some time.

Against a background of colorful stage settings, the show moves smoothly forward in its various sequences. It is carried along with fast witty dialogue, and the tense moments are timely interspersed with lilting rhythms, a melodic relief against the more sombre situations.

The theme of the show is the lease of a haunted house by three different people, and the spooky developments that ensue when the owner is branded a crook and a thief, provide many amusing situations.

The cast is in hard rehearsal under the efficient supervision of competent directors. Barbara Joan Houston and Percy Marcus are the singing principals with Gwen Shore and Don Freeman in the leading dramatic roles.

Kiwanis Club Seeking 100 P.C. April Attendance

There being no principal speaker at the Kiwanis luncheon held at the Kiwanis Centre on Tuesday under the chairmanship of vice president Norman Edwards; the meeting was turned over for the giving of reports and announcements of meetings of the various committees of the club.

The luncheon being near April Fool's Day, a number of the Kiwanians were the butt of the jokes instituted by Vic White, the chairman of the attendance committee. Vic is particularly anxious to secure a 100 per cent attendance during the month of April and to this end three Kiwanians, Bill Brown, Don Stanton and Ralph Clapp were presented with excellent attendance prizes but unfortunately these prizes were secured from their good wives and the only joy the members got out of the joke was the job of carting their own possessions home again.

Ronnie Moorman, who is holidaying at home from Queen's University supplied two cornet solos in masterful style. He played the "Holy City" and "I'll take you home again Kathleen" as an encore and the thanks of the club was ably expressed by Reg Hinchey. Phil Huddleston accompanied on the piano. A report of the trip to Peterborough was given by Claude Tice, who asked the club, in becoming interested in providing a curling rink in this city, to round out the community recreation project that has been started with the purchase of the Memorial Arena.

IN MEMORIAM

BARBER, SAMUEL—

One year has passed,
Since one we loved so well
Was taken from our home on earth
With Jesus Christ to dwell.
The flowers we placed upon his grave
May wither and decay,
But the love for him who sleeps beneath,
Shall never fade away.

Ever remembered by his wife, Louise E. Barber, son Lorne, daughter-in-law May and granddaughter Shirley. M31

SHOENER—In loving memory of our dear and only son and brother, W./O. 2 Kenneth Frank Shoener, who sacrificed his life over Germany, March 31st. 1944.

Did you need to take him, our darling son,
Just when his life had just begun,
When the young strength beat in his waking heart,
Untried, all eager to take his part,
With the good and noble, the great and true,
Is this your work for our boy to do?
He was your gift to us years ago,
Big son of ours we cherished so,
See, we have had him for 23 years,
Shame that we cling to him now with tears,
Ourselves cowards and he so strong,
God bear with us yet for a little while,
Tears are easy, 'tis so hard to smile,
God give us strength to be brave and true
Help us give our boy back to you.

Sadly missed and always remembered, affectionately, mom, dad, sister Frances, brother-in-law Fred and children Nancy and Kenny. M31

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, March 31 — (CP) — Industrials and base metals paced the upward trend for the second successive day on the Toronto Stock Exchange on good gains for key issues in each group.

Golds showed moderate improvement while western oils continued steady on narrow advances. Actions subsided appreciably and trading was concentrated on selected issues.

The exchange's noon index showed industrials up 1.19 at 162.41, golds .64 at 94.06, base metals .82 at 86.35, western oils .38 at 32.81. Volume for the first three hours was 432,000 shares, about 224,000 less than yesterday's similar period.

C. P. R. was an active stock but the trade was around yesterday's close of 14 1-2. Newsprints and utilities showed good form with only the banks easier. Better stocks were Abitibi, Aluminum New, Bell, Burlington Steel, Brazilian, Canada Wire B, Distillers, Dominion Textiles, Fanny Farmer, Walkers, Massey - Harris, Moore, Weston, United Steel and International Paper. Western Oils moved narrowly with better gainers Anglo - Canadian, Home Oil and Dalhousie.

Vicar is Found Drowned in Well

Burton Dasset, Warwickshire, England, March 31 — (CP)—Rev. Thomas Lumb, 65, vicar of this village near Stratford-on-Avon, who last year married an 18-year-old choir girl, was found drowned yesterday in the Vicarage well. Police said he had been missing since Monday.

Mr. Lumb's marriage was given wide publicity last year but since then the couple had dropped from the public view. The vicar's first wife died in 1946 at the age of 91 — the same year that Joan Hitchman was named Queen of the May at Tredington, a village 10 miles distance where Mr. Lumb was then vicar.

Joan, daughter of a local cowman, once sang in Mr. Lumb's Tredington choir. Last June they were married.

Pair Charged With Stealing Car

Toronto, March 31—(CP)—One youth is in hospital and a second is held by police on a charge of stealing an automobile following a collision in East Toronto early today.

Hospital officials said the youth's condition is critical following an operation to alleviate internal injuries. Also in hospital is Justin H. Dyer, injured when the allegedly stolen car plowed into the side of the automobile which he was driving.

Police said the youth they are holding is already on bail on a charge of automobile theft in Huntsville. They said the automobile was stolen from a downtown parking lot.

Steel Industry Said Crippled By Coal Strike

New York, March 31 (AP)—The coal strike in the United States has seriously crippled the steel industry, the Iron Age said today.

The Metalworking Trade weekly commented:

"There is a chance that the industry will not better last year's steel production of 85,000,000 tons. It had been hoped that close to 90,000,000 tons would be produced this year."

Even worse than the further shortage of steel and pig iron, "the steel industry today faces rigid government allocation of steel similar to wartime controls.

This seemed almost certain by loss of steel already encountered —this week's operations were placed at 89 per cent of capacity against 94.5 per cent last week— and additional losses to accure "before the coal fiasco is ended."

Lower Hog Production Expected in Ontario

Toronto, March 31 (CP)— The poor 1947 grain crop in Ontario will "greatly curtail" the number of swine produced in the province during 1948, the monthly crop report issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture said today.

Although the Ontario Hog population at Dec. 1, 1947 was estimated at 2,189,400 as against 2,063,600 at Dec. 1, 1946, the number of sows bred to farrow from December to May, 1947-48 has decreased by 35 per cent.

The number of cattle in Ontario has increased while the number of sheep, lambs and horses continues to decline.

Spring Offensive Of Greek Army Starts Unfolding

Athens, March 31 (AP)—The Greek army's spring offensive seemed to be unfolding today as troops drove against Communist guerrillas in the snow-crusted mountains of northern Greece.

Fighting was reported on two mountainous fronts, along the southern Albanian border, and near the Yugoslav border north of Salonika.

The Greek general staff issued only a terse communique saying "clashes continued" in the Philiates and Crucia mountains areas. Philiates is near the west coast of Greece, northwest of Konitsa, and the Crucia mountains are northwest of Salonika.

Newspaper accounts in Athens said the army is gaining in a series of fights.

Artillery and rocket-firing Spitfire airplanes are being used to smash against an estimated 600 guerrillas in the Crucia mountains, only 10 to 15 miles from the Yugoslav frontier, press reports said.

A correspondent for the newspaper Embros said Spitfires attacked the village of Pontokerassia, believed to be a guerrilla headquarters, 23 miles north of Kilkis. Pilots reported the village seemed to be deserted.

A high military official at Salonika said the Crucia action is "of local importance against guerrilla forces composed of 500 to 600 rebels."

Heavy attacks by the army were reported 28 miles north of Mount Murgana in the Poginiani area. Mount Murgana is about a 4,500 feet peak and is surrounded on three sides by Albanian territory.

Refugees were reported steaming out of the battle area and into Ioannina, 20 miles from the Albanian frontier.

Heavy action was believed to be developing in a 28-mile stretch between Mount Murgana and Pogoniani. It was reported U. S. military advisers and observers of the United Nations special commission on the Balkans are watching the fighting in the Mount Murgana area.

Suggests Delay in Opening Cheese Factories to Raise Butter Stocks

Delay in opening cheese factories until possibly May 1st to permit butter stocks to be replenished would be a big factor in keeping oleomargarine from being imported into Canada, according to a local creamery proprietor.

Speaking at the annual spring conference of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association held this week at the Hotel Quinte, Mr. Mackenzie Robertson proprietor of Belleville Creameries, stated that if cheese factories delayed their opening the milk could be channelled to creameries and thus alleviate the current butter shortage. Because of the current butter shortage certain factions were pressing for the use of margarine, he stated.

Referring to the butter shortage, Mr. Robertson stated there was no butter in storage and inquiries were being received every day from outside points asking for shipments of butter. These orders could not be filled, he said.

Mr. Robertson stated the last time the sale of margarine was permitted in Canada it was five years before its sale was banned. He prophesied that if its sale was permitted today Canada would never get rid of margarine.

If the sale of margarine was permitted whey butter sales would be the first to be affected and this in turn would affect the cheese factories.

Cheese Makers Convention

Lower Cheese Output Partly Caused By Competition for Milk Supplies

Cheesemakers from the Central Ontario district are in the city this week attending the annual spring conference of their association. Approximately 60 persons are in attendance at the two-day conference at which provincial and federal dairy officials and others addressed on matters pertaining to the industry.

President of the association Mac Remington presided over the conference the first day of which saw addresses by T. J. Hicks, Prof. A. L. Gibson of Kemptville, and Frank Robinson chief instructor for Eastern Ontario.

This morning the conference was addressed by Jack Bain, chief dairy instructor for Central and Western Ontario; by C. E. Lackner, dairying director for Ontario; and by J. F. Singleton.

Faced by Many Problems

The future of the dairy industry was declared by Mr. Singleton to present many problems. He said milk was produced by farmers only to make money and was channelled in the branch of the industry which for the time being gave them the best returns.

Peak of the cheese production had been reached 45 years ago and since that time much of the milk production had been channelled into whole milk, ice cream, butter, and condensed and evaporated milk markets. Demand for these dairy products had greatly increased since wartime controls were lifted with result that last year supplied only 56 million pounds of the 125 million pound cheese contract with Britain.

Future of the demand for milk for condensed and evaporated milk would depend largely on whether the overseas market for these two commodities would be continued after European countries again got back into production.

No Wage Increase In Strike Settlement

New York, March 31 (AP)—A 13-week strike of cable and radio employees of the Western Union Telegraph Company has been settled, but the strike continues against three other firms.

The end of the Western Union work stoppage was announced yesterday by Thomas F. McMains vice-president in charge of employee relations. He said no wage increase was included in a one-year contract signed with the 350 operators who are members of the American Communications Association (C.I.O.). The union originally had demanded a 30-per-cent increase.

Says Disloyal Persons Should Leave Country

Port Colborne, March 31—(CP) —Labor Minister Mitchell told the Lions Club here last night that those who challenge the heritage "we are destined to defend" should go to the country they love if they don't love Canada.

There was a possibility that in the next few years Canadians might have to fight against a force which would try to destroy the Canadian way of life. Mr. Mitchell said he had no doubt of the outcome because Canadians had the best blood of the world in their veins and had built up a transportation, industrial and judiciary system unexcelled in the world.

Mr. McGuire is a Chartered Life Underwriter. He recently successfully completed a modern course in Agency Management at the Company's Head Office at Waterloo, Ont.

Charges Sask. Co-Op For Butter Shortage

Halifax, March 31 — (CP) — Attorney General Currie charged in the Nova Scotia Legislature last night that a widespread butter shortage had partially been caused by a Co-operative Creamery Association in Saskatchewan "cold-bloodedly and deliberately holding butter" to force a rise in prices.

Broken Leg Breaks Speaker's Promise

Toronto, March 31 — (CP) — Dr. Date V. Wooford, professor of elementary education at the University of Florida, replied jokingly that "nothing short of a broken leg will keep me away" when accepting an invitation to address a section of the Ontario Educational Association here. Yesterday officials had word from her when she did not appear. She had fallen in her Florida home and broken her leg.

Cautious Driving Advised

This is the season of the year when with the advance of spring roads may be in a condition which calls for the greatest care on the part of motorists. This is indicated by the advice given by the County Engineer W. L. Langlois that motorists using the county system should drive with care because the defrosting of the surface of roads has been so rapid that there develop many boils, heaves and soft spots. As the engineer has explained the long spells of zero weather and the close plowing of snow in keeping the roads open during the winter allowed the frost to penetrate very deeply. Hence it is expected that the result will be more than usual damage to the roads when the break-up caused by the arrival of spring has run its course.

Car drivers are therefore well advised to exercise the necessary care and to drive at moderate rate of travel suited to the roads and their condition at this time of the year.

His Choice of Miracle

A young student, Elliot Sprechman of New York, who has been crippled since he was a child, has given the world an idea which should not fail to sink deep in the hearts and minds of readers. He was entering a contest in a school essay recently on the subject of "the modern miracle I would most like to see." He has known what it has meant to him to suffer from the effects of infantile paralysis and the natural inclination for him would have been to think of a miracle which would restore his body to its normal functions so that he might walk again.

But he had been reading a newspaper in which the troubles of the world and of so many of its inhabitants were reflected so that he changed his mind and made his choice. It was "the modern miracle I would most like to see is the union of people everywhere in the world in a true brotherhood that will bring light and peace into the lives of all men everywhere and for all time." He banished the thoughts of his own inability and chose the best expression of his best self, "a miracle that would fulfil the aims of a 1,900-year-old miracle-maker, named Jesus of Nazareth."

Incidentally he won the prize of $500 for this choice but that is not the point of his story, for he won more than that, he accomplished something unselfish, putting himself in the place of the suffering men and women and children of the world today whom he does not know but whose troubles he appreciates for he realizes through his own affliction and his outlook on life that the greatest need of the world is for the spirit of brotherhood.

Splitting Wood

There was a time when most persons were acquainted rather directly and intimately with the job of getting wood for the fires. Its splitting was known to every man. Now a writer in the New York Times has just written another of those editorials dealing with phases and facts of rural life, his choice of subject at this time being the splitting of wood. He says:

"Splitting wood is a task the countryman enjoys. There are several reasons for this. It is not one of the pressing seasonal jobs that have to be accomplished by the dictate of time. Naturally, after the woodpile is sawed a man likes to get it split and wheel-barrowed into the shed before the rush of plowing, harrowing and planting. But with a deadline several weeks away one can work along at a comfortable tempo and enjoy the satisfaction that comes when the fuel for another season is being readied.

"The feel of his favorite axe is pleasant—an axe just the right heft and balance, not too heavy and with a razor-keen cutting edge. Men who split wood know that the secret of efficient work is not brute strength and weight. Splitting wood is an art that one learns by experience. There should be a big, solid chopping block, not too high, not too low, but just the right height to fit the chopper. Then when one brings the axe down the piece to be split is just the right distance to get the full power of the blow.

"Each chunk of wood poses a separate problem. Each must be studied for the run of the grain. Clear pieces of oak and maple and birch split easily. It is when there are knots and twists that a man takes a minute to ponder. Some of the chunks of old apple wood and beech are too knotty to split for the kitchen range. These are tossed to a separate pile for use in the parlor base burner. As the piles increase there's a clean, aromatic fragrance of split wood blending with the spicy pungency of the sawdust. There is time to rest a few minutes. And if, by chance, the aroma of hot ginger-bread floats out from the open kitchen window a man is never so pressed in wood splitting that he cannot take a few minutes to see how the baking has turned out."

Opens Library in Germany

The first Anglo-German lending library of British books has just been opened in Hamburg. It is sponsored by the Agency for Intellectual Relief in Germany. An appeal was made last year through newspapers and periodicals published in Britain for funds and books to establish a number of reading centres throughout the British zone. The response was very good and some 8,000 English books have already been collected. Within the next three months it is planned to open further lending libraries in Hanover, Dusseldorf, Wilhelmshaven, Cologne and Bonn.

Stuffing and Starving

One can actually stuff up with food and still starve the body, according to nutrition experts. It's quality, not quantity, which counts. This is particularly worth remembering if one is doing heavy work, such as logging or farming, which burn up a lot of energy. Some foods are just so much stuffing, authorities say. Therefore, more than tantalizing taste should be the guide to good health. Also, Canadians are reminded that food should be prepared properly and served cleanly, to ensure maximum health.

Has All the Trophies

Barbara Ann Scott has now all the championships and is the true queen of the amateur fancy skating world. Her latest triumph is the Canadian crown. Never did a conqueror carry off trophies with such grace as the young Ottawa girl, who must be an inspiration to the young boys and girls of the Dominion by her will to succeed and by her graciousness in the spotlight of the world of sport. This inspiration can mean that many others will set very high goals for their future in sport and also in so many other fields open to the young people of today in this New World country.

A United Kingdom submarine is now on the way to the Arctic for an underwater endurance test, to be made near the ice barrier off Spitsbergen. The vessel will be submerged in the coldest water that can be found and remain below the surface as long as possible. The aim is to discover how long men can endure submersion in Arctic conditions and how they react to the test.

Let no man presume to give advice to others who has not first given good counsel to hmiself.—Seneca.

FISHERMAN'S LUCK

Ninety miles out
  And ninety miles back;
Jostled about,
  Rickety-rack!
Two fishes small
  At the bait struck.
That's what they call:
  "Fisherman's luck."

Fishing near by Scorned for the day,
Wanting to try
  Spots far away.
Jolt, jar and lurch,
  Riding a truck!
Two little perch—
  "Fisherman's luck."

Hear the guide say,
  After being paid:
"Just yesterday
  Catches were made.
Two for the cats,
  All that we 'tuk'!
Sorry, but that's
  'Fisherman's luck'!"

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Who was the first President to wear long pants?

James Madison was the first President who habitually wore long trousers while in office.

His three predecessors, Washington, John Adams and Jefferson, wore knee breeches during their administration, but Adams and Jefferson wore long trousers informally after their retirement from the White House.

James Monroe, "last of the Cocked Hats," wore knee breeches on "court occasions" during his administration and was the last President to do so. Referring to Monroe's inauguration at the Capitol on March 5, 1821, John Quincy Adams wrote in his diary: "The President, attired in a full suit of black broadcloth of somewhat antiquated fashion, with shoe and knee-buckles, rode in a plain carriage with four horses and a single colored footman."

The Declaration of Independence was signed, the Constitution was framed and the Federal Government was established by men in knee pants.

At the time of the Revolution most public and professional men, of wealth and men of social pretensions wore elaborate clothes of many colors. Their coats were of nearly every color of the rainbow. Often the cape and collar were of velvet and of different color from the rest of the garment. The knee breeches were of still another color.

Ruffled shirts, cocked hats and elaborate buckles on the shoes were the fashion. Men commonly wore their hair long, tied in a queque at the back and well powdered. Wigs for style, after the English fashion, were worn by many "big-wigs."

U.S. Has Adequate Supply A-Bombs Congress is Told

Washington, March 31 (AP) — The United States has "an adequate supply" of atom bombs and is steadily making more, Congress members said today.

They reported that this information came from David E. Lilienthal, atomic energy commission chairman, during secret testimony before the House Appropriations Committee Feb. 28.

On the strength of Lilienthal's statements, the committee yesterday recommended an additional $150,000,000 for the commission's work, the full amount asked.

While committee members were reluctant to discuss Lilienthal's testimony, they agreed privately with the statement of Representative Frank Keefe (Rep.-Wis.) that "we have an adequate supply of bombs already manufactured."

Meanwhile, Senator Bourke Hickenlooper (Rep. Iowa), chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee said in an interview he believes that if war comes again the United States should use the bomb with the aim of shortening the conflict and saving lives. As for whether the United States might refrain from using the bomb in fear of retaliation by an enemy who might possess it:

Not Considered Decisive

"Evidence suggests that we and our enemies in the recent world war held off from using poison gas, not in fear of retaliation but because it was not considered a decisive weapon," he said.

"But the atomic bomb is a decisive weapon, although just how decisive may be arguable."

Still another Congressman, who would not allow his name to be used, said he believes the public should be told how many bombs the United States has.

Actually, unless the system has been changed, no completed bombs are on hand. Rather, for safety and security reasons, the bomb parts are stored separately, to be finally assembled only in the event they are to be used. How long it takes to assemble the parts is a closely-guarded secret.

O.E.A. Delegates Turn Attention To Teachers' Affairs

Toronto, March 31 (CP) — Ontario Educational Association delegates turned their attention to new phases of teachers' problems today after hearing speakers on a list of subjects ranging from possibilites of atomic warfare to panel discussions on education for family life.

Col. Wallace Goforth, a leading economist and scientist, told the technical section of the association's annual convention yesterday that Canada probably has at least 10 years to prepare a defence against atomic warfare.

A member of Canada's research advisory council on speical warfare, Col. Goforth said: "We should assume Soviet Russia has her first uranium piles in operation, that she has produced enough plutonium for her first atomic bomb."

Premier Drew told the Trustees and Ratepayers Association amid applause, that there will be no teaching of communism in Ontario schools.

"There has been attempts to do it in some places under various guises," he said, "but they will not succeed. If we learn of a teacher who is spreading such doctrines, he will not be tolerated."

Panel Discussion

A panel discussion debating the question "are we really educating?" heard G. L. Roberts of Oshawa take a negative stand.

Addressing the Modern Language Teachers' Association, Dr. J. G. Althouse of the Ontario Department of Education, questioned the value of teaching foreign languages.

Speaking before the Science Teachers' Association, R. W. E. McFadden of Brantford deplored the fact that during the war the great increase in school population jumped sizes of classes from 20 to 40 or even 70.

He said the effectiveness of teaching seems to be inversely proportional to the size of the class.

The rural trustees section was told by Winnifred Ashplant consellor for London secondary schools that sex education for the teen-ager must be tackled on a co-operative basis by the church, the school and the home, with such education beginning in the home.

The guidance section was told by J. A. Edmison of Toronto that teaching of skills provides both a preventative and a cure for crime. He referred to the success of reformatories at Brampton, Galt and Bowmanville which gave courses to penal offenders.

One of the highlights of the section was a symposium on "Ideas That Work," with those participating including Miss B. Cunningham, Sault Ste. Marie, K. Weaver, Owen Sound, J. H. Moebus, Peterborough and E. Arnold Orr, Windsor.

THERE IS NO CHANGE COMING, LADIES

I'm a professional swimmer and diver (writes a Florida reader) and I was floored when you said, in your pamphlet Hygiene for Girls anr Health for women and in your column too that if there is pain dysmenorrhea) it is either imagination or bad breathing. You know darn well I breathe correctly, and as for mental attitude", for gosh sakes —I am not so weak minded that I don't know whether I feel pain or not. I say both you and your precious old Dr. Clelia Duel Mosher are all wet. (A. W.)

You should have your eyes examined, ma'am. If you can point out in the pamphlet or in my column that I said what you impute to me, I'll pay you $100 for your trouble and make due public apology here for the error.

I cite Dr. Mosher as an authority because she probably had more experience in the prevention of such difficulty than any other physician or specialist I could cite.

Even in the pamphlet—available to any reader who asks for it in writing (not with clipping) and incloses self addressed stamped envelope — I say that painful menstruation is due to many different conditions, and I mention several conditions which we need not mention here.

What I said about "mental attitude" is that in her unparalleled experience as medical adviser to women at Stanford University Dr. Mosher established beyond cavil that menstruation is a function and that its occurrence does not warrant or justify any interruption or abeyance of the young woman's everyday activities, and certainly not a day or two in bed each month. I said a mother who encourages or suggests that daughter follow the policy on which she, the mother, was raised, takes a wrong attitude.

Mrs. C. E. H. writes: Would like to know how a woman can tell she is nearing the critical . . .

Critical my eye. A woman may fairly assume she is having or has had the menopause, cessation of menstruation, when menstrual periods begin to be irregular, or when menses no longer occur. If she has any other disturbances at all and a modicum of good sense she will not seek advice or information from nostrum mongers, quacks, doctor books or gossips. She will consult her physician.

Take for instance Mrs. S. D. who seems to feel out of the swim because she is so blamed healthy and all the other members of the bridge club go yakety-yakety-yak all afternoon about their nerves and their specialists.

For the past three years (she writes) my doctor says I am going through the menopause. I have taken 20,000 units of (——, its a sex hormone) every two weeks until recently when I was put on an estrogen tablet once a day. I am still very nervous and my periods are as regular and normal as they were when I was sixteen. I am 43 now. I would like your opinion on this, also, your pamphlet on the Menopause. (Mrs. S. D.)

I doubt if you will like either, Ma'am. My opinion is that you are far too gullible for this wicked world and you should find some useful work for your idle hands—such as raising children, your own or adopted children or at least devoting yourself to helping in the care, education and training of crippled or spastic children. My opinion of the "doctor" who is stringing you along, Ma'am, is not fit to print. From the way you put it one might infer that "going through the menopause" or the "change", as women of lower I. Q. grade call it, is a perilous adventure. A woman's mental and physical health is not in the least affected by the circumstance of age—that is, no more so than a man's mental and physical health is affected by his age. The pamphlet, The Menopause, is available on written request if you enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. If you send for both this and the pamphlet mentioned earlier, please enclose ten cents for additional handling.

Increase in Rates Means Increase In Cost-of-Living

The increase of freight rates announced yesterday at Ottawa by the Board of Transport Commissioners means an increase in the cost of things people buy, and so, naturally, nobody likes it.

The railways, whom it is intended to assist, like it as far as it goes, but it doesn't go as far as they asked.

Premier Jones of Prince Edward Island, one of the few government heads to speak, put a lot of cross-Canada reaction into three words when he said: "It's pretty awful."

Here and there came a few words of sympathy for the railways such as that of Colin MacKay, Saint John, N. B., lumberman, who asked:

"What would happen to this country if the railways went bankrupt?"

May Take Care of Rise

And Gerard Kennedy, Winnipeg shirt manufacturer, believes the margin of profits in most business has increased recently, possibly helping to take care of rising costs resulting from the freight rate increase.

In general, however, business heads said that if costs go up, well, the selling price to the public must ultimately go up too.

Most criticism came from the west and the Maritime provinces, and Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan said the prairies and Maritimes would do well to ask for a Royal Commission to review the decision of the Board of Transport Commissioners.

S. N. MacEachern, Saskatoon Board of Trade Commissioner, urged that the increase be appealed to the privy council, while George Bickerton, publicity director for the United Farmers of Canada, declared:

"The increase will change the economy of the whole country. Nobody outside the Parliament of Canada should shoulder the responsibility of making such a sweeping decision."

Must Study Question

But Eric McGeer, Secretary of the Calgary Board of Trade, commented that over-all observations on the effect on the west could not be of value until the new rate structure has been studied in detail.

The Maritimes and the west, farthest removed from the central market and supply area, feel it will hit them hardest and handicap them in relation to Ontario and Quebec.

As Mayor Garnet Coulter of Winnipeg put it:

"I am afraid, because of the lack of water-borne competition, an under proportion of the increase will be thrown on Western Canada to add to the already serious cost-of-living."

Rand H. Matheson, manager of the Maritime Transportation Commission said the increases would result in additional charges to persons and industries in the Maritimes of more than $7,000,000. He emphasized that his statement was made pending a more thorough study of details.

Some Consideration

The Prairie Provinces got some consideration for their contention that their rate level was higher than in the east and that eastern rates should be brought up to the Prairie level before any western rates were touched. The concession consists of exemption from increases on all grain and grain products moving between the head of the lakes and the Pacific coast.

It is estimated the concession will save people of the west some $750,000 as compared with what the increases would have cost them without the grain concession.

Mayor Harry Ainley of Edmonton said:

"There will be some satisfaction that the commission is giving some recognition to the differential in rates as between east and west by exempting grain shipments—this differential has always been a sore spot."

Ontario Budget Expected Either Thursday, Friday

Toronto, March 31 (CP)—Education will provide one of the big items in the 1948 Ontario budget when Provincial Treasurer Frost brings it down either Thursday or Friday.

Education is a direct responsibility of Premier Drew, who holds the portfolio of that department and the government has promised that grants this year will be "substantially" higher than last year's $30,134,336.

The budget and housing loom as the top items of business for the legislature to consider when it resumes after its five-day Easter recess.

Legislation enabling the government to sponsor some program of finance to stimulate construction in Ontario is expected.

Federal Trade Minister Howe's statement that the Dominion will discontinue its proposed low-rental program in Ontario pointed up provincial housing difficulties. Mr. Howe said the reason for the move was the Ontario government's crown tenants taxation bill which has been given second reading.

Matters expected to figure in the budget include appropriations to provide for what the government has said will be assistance to the communities in Ontario which depend on gold mining. No indication has been given as to what form this assistance will take.

Promised mining legislation would place 14 geographical parties in the field, one to investigate potential iron areas in southeastern Ontario. Other measures still to come implement recommendations to the forestry report and the milk report of Mr. Justice Dalton Wells.

HEADS SAFETY LEAGUE

At the thirty-fourth annual meeting of the Ontario Safety League, Mr. R. A. Stapells was re-elected President. He is also President of the Canadian Automobile Association, National Parks Association of Canada, and Chairman of the Board of J. J. Gibbons Limited.

New Dominion-Provincial Parley in Near Future Remote

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, March 31 (CP)—Possibilities of a new Dominion Provincial conference in the near future are remote.

A cabinet source said today the government felt it would be useless to hold a conference as long as agreements are lacking with Ontario and Quebec. And, as far as he knew, Quebec and Ontario still were not prepared to sign agreements similar to those accepted by the seven other provinces.

He said the cabinet has not considered the question of a new conference recently, although some of the provincial legislatures have urged that new efforts be made to reach an over-all agreement with the nine provinces.

The federal government's attitude, he said, could still be summed up in a statement which Prime Minister Mackenzie King made July 15, 1946, a few months after the last Dominion-Provincial Conference ended in failure. In that statement, Mr. King said:

"As soon as there is sufficient acceptance of the proposed tax agreements, we shall be ready to explore in general conference or otherwise the possibility of working out mutually-satisfactory arrangements in regard to the whole or any part of our earlier public investment and social security programs."

Included Health Plan

The social security program included a national health insurance plan. It also included a federal offer to pay $30-a-month pensions to all and over regardless of means. The Dominion offered to share with the provinces the cost of pensions to the needy between the ages of 65 and 69. As well the Dominion offered to pay grants-in-aid to help the provinces combat such things as tuberculosis, mental illness, and venereal disease.

In making its offers, the Dominion asked for exclusive use of the personal income, corporation and inheritance tax fields, which it formerly shared with the provinces.

For the tax concessions, the Dominion agreed to pay $12,75 per capita on 1942 population, plus 50 per cent of the provincial revenue from income and corporation taxes in the year ended December 31, 1940, plus statutory subsidies.

When agreement with all provinces was found impossible, the Dominion withdrew its health and investment offers. The agreements signed with Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia, deal only with taxation matters.

Joint Statement Expected Soon

London, March 31 — (CP)—A British source said Tuesday that a joint announcement in London and Ottawa of arrangements for continued financing of British food purchases in Canada is expected in a few days.

Negotiators on the extension of the three - month financing agreement made in December had the main problem of arranging payment for British requirements during the period before the anticipated Marshall aid through the European recovery program is available. The new agreement probably will allow further drawing on the estimated $242,000,000 remaining March 31 of the $1,250,000,000 Canadian loan to Britain.

During the last three months the financial agreement confined withdrawals from the credit to $15,000,000 a month.

Chinese Communist Offensive Collapses

Nanking, March 30 — (Reuters) — The Chinese communist offensive in inner Mongolia has collapsed, pro - Chinese government dispatches reported today.

A series, of sledge-hammer blows by crack government troops under Gen. Fu Tso-Yi was stated to have smashed the communist drive into government - held territory near the Great Wall started a week ago by the communist leader, Gen. Nieh Yung-Chen.

Government troops were described today as being engaged in "large-scale mopping-up" operations, especially on the railway linking North Shanshi with Tatung and Kalgan, important centres linking the routes from China to Outer Mongolia and Siberia

The threat to Kalgan, from which several routes lead north-west to Urga, Outer Mongolia, and the Siberian border at Kiakhta, has been eliminated.

Around the strategic Great Wall city of Tatung, the main Nationalist stronghold in North Shansi province, about 10,000 communist troops were reported to be still entrenched.

Tragic Story of Mrs. Copeland's Ghost on Sable Is. Goes Back 100 Years

By WYN RHYDWEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Sable Island, March 31 — (CP) — No ghost ever returned to a more lonely and desolate spot than did the ghost of Mrs. Copeland.

And according to the legend handed down from generation to generation of the small marine service staff who are the only residents of Sable Island Mrs. Copeland's ghost is scheduled to make another visit to the 21 miles long sand pile this year.

The gory and tragic story behind the ghost goes back more than 100 years when a shipload of immigrants was wrecked 90 miles east of Nova Scotia.

Only a few of the shipwrecked mariners and passengers survived. Mrs. Copeland— her Christian name has long since been forgotten — was one of them.

A greedy sailor — he was also an optimist who believed he could escape from the island — tried to steal the dead woman's wedding ring. When he couldn't remove it he hacked off the finger.

Regularly since then, according to the legend, the ghost of Mrs. Copeland has returned to Sable Island and drifted up and down the shifting sands looking for the ring and presumably for the sailor who stole it.

Since there are no cruises scheduled to this treacherous lump of sand with its tentacle - like reefs stretching for 17 miles from either end, doubting Thomases will have to take the word of a reporter for the veracity of the spookiness at Sable.

The flotsam and jetsam, the half - buried hulks of ships, the abandoned homes and barracks of a few wartime personnel all add to the phantasy of the island whose clutching shoals have earned it the nickname of "Graveyard of the Atlantic" — the burial place for more than 400 ships wrecked on its sands.

Exhibit Depicting Britain's Crisis Attracts Urchins

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 31 — (AP) — An elaborate display of moving models and showcases designed to tell the story of Britain's economic problems is the favorite rendezvous of urchins who make the Charing Cross subway station their playground.

The children, more than adults, seem to be attracted to the colored graphs, flashing lights, stunt weighing machines and talking telephones on display.

The exhibition tells simply the story of Britain's crisis, with numerous illuminated signs exhorting the public to "work harder," "spend less" and "save more."

Polite Interest

Many adults show polite interest but during out-of-school hours it takes on the appearance of a fairground with youngsters from seven to 15 meddling with almost everything in sight.

Most popular "plaything" is an automatic telephone which when the receiver is lifted brings the caller a five-minute "pep" talk by Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer.

"Some of these young rips would listen to that all morning if I let 'em," said the blue-uniformed old pensioner who stands guard on the exhibition. "I kicked one of 'em out of the station for making saucy remarks while the Chancellor was talking. No, it wasn't political — just devilment."

GEORGETOWN WINS FIRST ONE

Oshawa, March 31 —(CP) — Georgetown Raiders last night scored a 4-1 victory over Markham Millionnaires in the first game of their best of seven Ontario Hockey Association Intermediate 'A' final series.

Gibson, Storie, Beaumont and M. Bradburgh tallied the Georgetown goals. Lawrie counted the Markham's lone marker.

Edmonton — (CP) — J. Harper Prowse, Liberal leader in the Alberta legislature, said here that penalties for drunkenness provided by provincial laws should be lowered. When a man was fined $20 and costs or 30 days in jail, his family suffered, Mr. Prowse said. He recommended a $5 fine and costs.

She said bustles even now are being manufactured with receptacles to hold fresh flowers, or even greenery. Ilyana seems quite pleased about it.

'Sootz-Ah Tsa' Sarcee Indian Name for Barbara

Calgary, March 31 — (CP) — Barbara Ann Scott was inducted into the Sarcee Indian tribe at a special ceremony here and henceforth will be known to the Indians as "Sootz-Ah Tsa" or "Shining Star."

The ceremony more than fulfilled the wish of the pretty Ottawa skater, who holds the World's premier women's figure skating titles, to "meet a real live Indian."

In a colorful ceremony, Miss Scott was presented with the magnificent plumed war headdress of Chief David Crowchild. The Sarcees turned out in full dress for the occasion and entertained their famous guest with tribal drum dances and ritual.

The ceremony took place at the Sarcee Reserve 10 miles southwest of Calgary.

Following the ceremony, Shining Star, obviously tired, quietly slipped away to her teepee.

Anyway He Has 55 Cents Left

Baltimore, March 31 — (AP)— A Baltimore man tucked three dollars in his shoe as a precaution against robbers, but it was the central police court that profited by his prudence.

The robbers who took his pants — wallet and all — missed the 3 dollars in the shoe.

But Magistrate James R. Cadden relieved him of $2.45 of it in the form of a disorderly conduct fine, after he was found on a city street corner minus the stolen pants.

Anyway, his foresight saved him 55 cents.

Finnish Press Aims Criticism At Interior Minister

Helsinki, March 31N (AP) — Rightists in parliament and the Finnish press aimed a steady fire of criticism today at Finland's Communist Interior Minister. They voice the suspicion he has infiltrated the country's police force with Communists.

The Interior Minister, Yrjo Leino, is in Moscow as a member of a seven-man Finnish delegation sent to negotiate a friendship and military pact with Russia. He must answer the charges before parliament when he gets back, but is not expected to reply for several weeks.

There has been no announcement either here or in Moscow as yet concerning conclusion of the treaty, suggested by Prime Minister Stalin. Reliable sources said Finnish President Juho H. Paasikivi summoned the chairmen and vice-chairmen of the six party blocs in parliament to meet with him this afternoon. He took a similar step when Stalin's letter suggesting the pact arrived five weeks ago.

Informed sources say the President has the broad outline of what the Russians want, and is drawing up new instructions for the delegation in Moscow, aimed at meeting Russia's requests and still keeping Finland outside big-power conflicts.

Ask Government Questions

At the same time, Finns paid considerable attention to what the press calls the question of "the Communists and the police." Parliamentary leaders of all parties to the right have asked the government what it is doing to halt alleged recruiting of Communist-minded persons for the secret police, the mobile corps and other vital police branches, and the assignment of police powers to private persons.

Hertta Kuusinen, Leino's wife and one of the leaders of the Communist party in Finland, said in a speech last week:

"Finland must follow the same road as Czechoslovakia."

Responsible Finnish sources claim that Leino, who has been running the Interior Ministry for three years, has completed a thorough reorganization of his department, bringing in men he deems "reliable." Aarne Wirta, commander of the mobile police force for Finland as a whole, denied parliamentary charges that his organization was trying to recruit only men with Communist views.

May Take Legal Action Against Edward Hayes

Montreal, March 31 — (CP) — J. A. (Pat) Sullivan, president of the recently formed Canadian Lake Seamen's Union, said yesterday he will take legal action to make Edward (Ned)Hayes substantiate statements attributed to him in Toronto.

Hayes, an organizer of Fort William for the C. L. S. U., was quoted as saying he had quit the union because "I can no longer be a party to an anti-labor plot." He said the "plot" was directed against the Canadian Seamen's Union (TLC), which Sullivan formerly headed and left claiming it was communist-dominated.

Sullivan said he was "amazed" at Hayes' statement about quitting the union. He said Hayes was recalled to Montreal from Fort William and "dismissed for cause which the union will substantiate at a later date."

Toronto Maple Leafs Easily Defeat Boston Bruins 5 to 1 For Third Straight Victory

Boston, March 31 — (CP) — Whatever hopes Boston Bruins fans might have had of bringing the Stanley Cup to Boston this year suffered a serious setback last night as the high - stepping Toronto Maple Leafs racked up a convincing 5-1 decision over the home team, their third straight victory in the best-of-seven post-season playoff series.

The game offered little in spectacular play but ended in a flurry of fists and sticks as rail-seat fans tangled with members of the Leafs who were late in leaving their bench for the dressing room.

Wally Stanowski, dipsy-doodle Toronto defenceman who saw little action in the game, came in for plenty after the final bell. As he returned to the bench to retrieve his stick, Wally was surrounded by spectators. Garth Boesch went to his rescue and for his trouble was struck from behind and dazed.

In the scuffle coach Happy Day temporarily lost his fedora as fans swarmed around the Toronto bench and onto the ice. The post-game fray appeared to stem from a fight late in the third period between Leafs' Harry Watson and Murray Henderson. It was reported from the Bruins' dressing room that Henderson's nose was broken.

The champion Leafs, playing before a packed house of 13,909 disappointed fans, outplayed the Bruins by the widest margins and are top-heavy favorites to take the series here Thursday night.

The Bruins were hopelessly bogged down and it took them 40 minutes to get five shots on Toronto's Turk Broda and their sole counter, made just after a face-off, was a fluky affair.

Jack Crawford, whose return to action had heartened the Bruins, fired a 50-footer in the general direction of the Toronto net and the puck glanced in off Milt Schmidt's chest.

Howie Meeker and Bill Barilko sent the Leafs into an early two-goal lead and, eight minutes after Crawford's fluky shot, the Leafs again flashed the light to bring the count to 3-1.

Other Toronto goals went to Garth Boesch and Nick Metz. The game was a bruising affair and a number of penalties were handed out, including majors to Moe Henderson and Harry Watson.

The teams:

Toronto — Goal, Broda; defence, Boesch, Barilko; centre, Apps; wings, Ezinicki, Watson; subs, Kennedy, N. Metz, Lynn, Mortson, Thomson, Bentley, Meeker, S. Smith, Klukay, Stanowski.

Boston — Goal, Brimsek; defence, Crawford, Henderson; centre, Schmidt; wings, Peters, Dumart; subs, Sandford, Harrison, Babando, Egan, Martin, Flaman, Warwick, K. Smith, Ronty, Pierson.

Referee— George Gravel; linesmen, George Hayes and Doug Young.

SUMMARY

First period—

1. Toronto—Meeker (Lynn) 3:40
2. Toronto—Barilko 12:28

Penalties: Boesch, Flaman (2)

Second period—

3. Boston—Schmidt (Crawford, Peters) 1:10
4. Toronto—Kennedy 9:24

Penalties: Thomson, Mortson.

Third period—

5. Toronto—Boesch (Kennedy) 7:00
6. Toronto—N. Metz 17:49

Penalties: Lynn, Ezinicki, Warwick, Watson (major), Henderson (major).

Training Camp Notes

New York, March 31 — (AP) — Branch Rickey announced today the purchase by Brooklyn Dodgers of Roy Campanella, Negro catcher, from Montreal. That Campanella would be moved up was announced some time ago, but the deal wasn't made official until today. Rickey also intimated that Dan Bankhead, Negro pitcher, would be farmed out.

Washington Senators had some pitching today where they had a couple of question marks last week. Walt Masterson, out of action for a month, pitched three good innings in an intrasquad game at Orlando, Fla., yesterday. That Milo Candini, another doubtful quality, tossed six frames and allowed only two hits.

New York Giants' home run attack seems to be in form and Pittsburgh Pirates ought to know it. The Giants have whipped the Pirates two straight days at El Centro, Calif., on four-baggers.

A 30 - man Detroit Tiger squad in perfect trim left its Lakehurst, Fla., quarters today and headed for New Orleans.

Gananoque And Thorold Juniors Here Tonight

Tonight's hockey joust between the fast-travelling Gananoque and Thorold teams in the first game of the Junior "C" finals will be the last ice battle of the season, with the exception perhaps of a Saturday night game here, facts of which are published elsewhere. Tonight's tilt should be a fitting swan song to hockey here as both teams are finalists and as such are tops in their particular class. A large crowd of Gan. fans will be here to root their lads to victory, and according to reports locally a big turnout of city and district enthusiasts have secured their pasteboards for the game. Curtain at 8:30.

Labor Trouble May Postpone Track Opening

New York, March 31 (AP)—The New York racing season is scheduled to begin tomorrow at Jamaica, but labor trouble may postpone it.

Grooms and exercise announced they would strike against some 130 horse owners and trainers at 6 a.m. tomorrow unless they sign an agreement with the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL). Union said it believed such a walkout would halt racing.

However, Luke H. O'Brien, general manager of Jamaica, declared: "We will operate."

Waterloo Kents To Enter Finals

Waterloo Ont., March 31 (CP)—Waterloo Kents won the right to enter the O.H.A. Senior B finals by defeating Toronto Flyers 4-1 here last night. Kents took the best of three series in straight games.

The victory was Waterloo's 20th of the season in 22 games, the others being ties.

Vrooman paved the winners by firing two of his team's goals while Simon and Shuttleworth each had one. Singleton sniped the lone Toronto marker.

Barrie Flyers Capture Midget N.H.L. Title

Barrie, Ont., March 31—(CP)—Another hockey honor was added last night to this town already holding the junior 'A' Ontario Hockey Association championship.

Barrie Flyers last night captured the Midget N. H. L. championship of Ontario and the Calder Cup by defeating Weston Lions 11-5. The other clubs in the 4-team round robin series were—Copper Cliff and Simcoe.

This was the first time in eight years of competition that Copper Cliff failed to make the finals. Although they walloped Simcoe 23-0 in the afternoon, a previous loss to Barrie and a tie with Simcoe left Copper Cliff with insufficient points to enter the final. In the other afternoon tilt Weston eked out a 5-4 decision over Barrie to give them first and second final placings respectively.

Danny Poland paced the Flyers in the final victory by firing four goals. John Walton and Dan McDonald each scored twice, while Bill Sexton, Dick Delaney and Lloyd Pearsall scored singles.

George Screen led the Lions with two markers while Wilf Chard, Orville Calhoun and Ray Norris scored one each.

In the earlier afternoon game, Weston snipers were McConnel with two, Calhoun, Morris and Cruickshank with one apiece. For the Barrie squad, Garrett, Mc Donald, Walton and Poland all potted singles.

Copper Cliff displayed a powerful scoring punch in bowing out of the picture in the afternoon as Baker and Smith scored five goals apiece. Kavanagh sniped four, Holden three, Sleaver two, Clelland, Prescott and Toppazzini one each.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON Jr.

New York, March 31 — (AP)—From now until May 15 a lot of baseball managers and club owners will be nursing a headache spelled "B-o-n-u-s" . . . that is to say they're just discovering what the bonus rule means . . . the rule says that a player who has received more than a certain amount in bonuses for signing can't be optioned out to the minors, without waivers once he is brought up to the big league. The object, apparently, was to curb the custom of handing out huge amounts to youngsters by clubs which happened to be in the chips. All it accomplished was to keep these youngsters, many of whom need seasoning, sitting on benches in major league parks . . . Clark Griffith already has voiced the suspicion that some clubs have been cheating and covering up bonus players and it looks like a safe bet there'll be more of that unless the rule is repealed.

The Right Slant

Between halves of one of the Olympic trial basketball games the other night, members of the Olympic fencing team put on an exhibition with electrical epees . . . These swords have a device which flashes a light and sounds a buzzer when an opponent is touched with the tip . . . At one juncture there was a double touch and both gadgets sounded off . . . The basketball fans caught on immediately. From all sides came a chorus: "Tilt."

Hamilton Tigers Leave Big Four After 42 Years

Ottawa, March 31 (CP)—It's a brave wildcat that can put a tiger in the bag . . . and it's an old tiger that jumps out of one bag into another.

This is the case of the Hamilton Tigers, 42-year-old football fighters in the Big Four. Yesterday they blocked their last kick in the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union and left the field wide open for the football youngsters—the Hamilton Wildcats — to walk in.

After 10 days of wrangling and seeking a solution, the Tigers' executive yesterday officially — for its second time—quit the I.R.F.U. E. K. (Eddie) Emerson, Big Four President, announced that Wildcats would be admitted at a meeting today in Toronto.

Crux of the Tiger withdrawal was failure to obtain an adequate money division of away-from-home games ,and to effect an amalgamation with Wildcats, powerful crowd-pleasers in the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

It started in Ottawa when Tigers sought a 33 1-3 split. They scaled the percentage to 20 per cent and when this was not met they formally resigned from the league.

A meeting was called to consider a bid from Wildcats, but the Tigers urged a last-minute review and a "Big Five" appeared in prospect.

However, thej I.R.F.U. insisted on the traditional Big Four and an attempt was made to promote a tiger-Wildcat amalgamation. This failed.

Border League Lines Up Spring Training

With the Border League's third season only a month and a half in the offing, circuit members have lined up their biggest spring training program since organization of the league.

Every club but the Kingston Ponies will train away from home this spring, three in New Jersey and two in Pennsylvania. Training bases are: Auburn, Millville, N. J.; Geneva, Asbury Park, N. J.; Kingston, home; Ogdensburg, Clayton, N. J.; Ottawa, Chambersburg, Pa.; Watertown, Hanover, Pa.

Watertown's Athletics pioneered training jaunts in the league being the only club in the circuit to conduct pre-season drills away from home in 1946. They operated that spring from Liverpool, N. Y. Last season the A's went to Bluefield, W. Va.

After training in '46 at home, the Ogdensburg Maples went last year to Millville, N. J., only 20 miles from the site they will use this season. Auburn will operate from Millville this year, having been stationed last season at Cooperstown, N.Y.

Ottawa worked at Saratoga Springs last year, and Geneva trained at the Hobart College facilities in Geneva. Sherbrooke and Granby, predecessors of the Ottawa and Geneva clubs, drilled at home in 1946.

Supplementing their pre-season preparations, half of the clubs are sending their managers to the deep South prior to the start of their own workouts.

Kingston's Ben Lady reported March 23 at the Wilmington, N. C., camp of the Hartford Chiefs, Class A farm of the Boston Braves Barney Hearn of Auburn will spread knowledge to some of the youngsters supplied by the Boston Red Sox at their Melbourne, Fla., farm camp. Russ Wein is at work now at the Jacksonville, Flt., and Sanford, Fla., training sites of the New York Giants. Fla., and Sanford, Fla., training April 19, Geneva will start April 22, Kingston April 23, Ogdensburg will call batterymen April 12 and the rest of the squad a week later, while Watertown has set its first drills for April 11. Ottawa has not announced its starting date.

Terry Reardon Returns to Active Playing List

(By The Canadian Press)

Coach Terry Reardon returned to the active list at Providence last night and led his Reds to their triumph in series "A" of the American League playoffs, downing Cleveland's red-hot Barons 8-3.

This was the Barons first setback in 31 games, including 27 league contests and four Calder Cup tilts. Cleveland leads the best-of-seven semi-final series 3-1 with the fifth game slated for Cleveland Thursday.

Reardon, former centre in the National Hockey League banged in two goals to pace the Providence attack. Harry Taylor, Carl Liscombe, Ray LaPlante, Art Michaluk, Jack Stoddard and Harvey Fraser notched a goal apiece to round out the Reds scoring. Tony Bukovich, Roy Kelly and Ed Sprout notched one goal each for Barons.

In the other semi-final, Buffalo Bisons easily skated into the finals by whipping New Haven Ramblers 6-2 to take the best-of- three series two straight.

Freddie sparked the Bisons with a pair of goals while George Pargeter Murdo McKay, Hal Laycoe and Tommy Cooper picked up one each. Chick Webster and Dunc Fisher scored the New Haven goals.

Murray Dickson Hurls No-Hitter At Training Camp

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 31 (AP)— Murray Dickson of St. Louis Cardinals hurled the second no-run, no hit nine inning spring exhibition game in baseball history yesterday. The performance showed Manager Eddie Dyer he was justified in standing by the little right-hander last year when he couldn't win for losing. The Cards won 7-0.

The Cardinals, and Dickson in particular, had tough luck all through the 1947 season. He wound up with 13 victories and 16 losses. The fans were down on him, but Dyer kept rushing him into vital contests despite the boos from the crowd.

Murray picked on the world champion New York Yankees yesterday. He faced 30 batters, walking five and hitting one. He struck out six. The Yanks' best effort was a screaming liner that Joe Dimaggio hit straight at shortstop Tommy Glaviano.

Dickson didn't have to work hard. The cards stepped out in the first inning and clubbed Bill Bevens for seven runs.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

BY GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

There is good reason to believe that a senior baseball team will be in operation in our town this summer, and with floodlights available, it should be the answer to the baseball fan's prayer. This village, we firmly believe, is ripe for baseball of senior calibre, and that is not written with a view to putting any kind of a monkey wrench into the machinery of the District Baseball League.

• • •

A movement for the organization of a senior club has been underway for some time and a highly reliable source informed this corner last week that the light is beginning to shine, and that this city will be represented by a team of better class players. More definite information on the subject will be published shortly.

• • •

Among other efforts to put senior baseball back on its feet, if only toddling ones, has been attempted reorganization of the former Central Ontario Baseball League, which flourished here between two and three decades ago, and which ranked with the best the province could produce. With baseball in general, the COBL went first into the doldrums then quietly passed away without benefit of clergy, flowers or tears. Three or four years ago, the diamond game received a much-needed needle, and efforts along district lines were successful. Since that time the game's popularity in these parts has increased by leaps and bounds with new teams and leagues springing up, clover-like, in a barren field.

• • •

But the effort to inject new life into the former COBL met with but half success. Peterborough will again operate a senior ball club and signified its willingness to come into the new COBL fold if a satisfactory loop is available. Those at the helm of the proposed organization contacted Oshawa and Kingston, but thus far have met with no response from these centres.

• • •

Peterborough, however, nothing daunted, has gone ahead with its plans to operate, as have Belleville interests. The Petes are talking affiliation with the Toronto Viaduct League, if the COBL, does not function. The Belleville people who are going ahead with organization plans, were more or less stalemated at the lack of interest shown by Oshawa and Kingston, but it was proposed to play exhibition games and affiliate with the Ontario Baseball Association.

• • •

But a better idea, one which would give the baseball faithful hereabouts a glimpse at some of the best senior teams the east can produce has been forwarded by Ken J. Colling, member of the Ontario Baseball Association executive, and former sports editor of this newspaper, now of London, Ont.

• • •

In long distance telephone conversation with this desk while covering a hockey game up west, Mr. Colling urged that the Belleville senior interests, if the proposed COBL organization fails to materialize, affiliate with the St. Lawrence League, a spirited senior loop to the east that is composed of teams from Kingston, Perth, Smith's Falls and Brockville.

• • •

The strong competition offered by these teams would not only give Belleville fans a look-see at senior baseball as "she" is played to the east of us, but also ready the local entry for participation in the OBA playdowns, if they were successful in obtaining a bye in those proceedings. And in passing, one might mention, for the benefit of the Belleville team mentors, that application for the bye must be in the hands of the OBA prior to July 15th.

• • •

In conjunction with a number of baseball men of this village we are strongly in accord with Mr. Colling's suggestion. Entry in an organized loop such as the St. Lawrence League, would ensure a fine calibre of baseball which would be consistent all season. Exhibition games, are just what the name implies. In the past, teams from this city have hooked up with Toronto clubs in either exhibition tilts, or interlocking games in a league tie-up and the result was games which had a distinct odor.

• • •

On two or three occasions, teams wearing uniforms of high-class Toronto squads have p layed here, and emerged on the end of 16-1, 17-3, and such lopsided scores. The squads, it was eventually revealed, were comprised of pick-up players, sent down here for the holiday.

• • •

So if the proposed Central Ontario Baseball League does not materialize, and we hope it does, for it means a renewal of that sometimes bitter rivalry between the ancient diamond enemies of Peterborough, Kingston, Oshawa and Belleville, we are definitely in favor of entering the St. Lawrence League. Fans hereabouts would "go" for a senior loop, and as was mentioned befor,e, with a fine floodlight system available, there is no reason why the turnstiles should not click a merry financial tune.

• • •

The Ontario Baseball Association is heartily in accord with the formation of a Central Ontario Baseball League, and will do all in its power to assist in its organization. As a matter of fact, Executive Colling informed us that Secretary Bill Snyder, Hamilton, told him that Garrett Frankland, and Dr. McCann of the OBA would meet a league delegation in Oshawa if and when a meeting is called.

Windsor Again Expected to Make Bid for Franchise

Guelph, Ont. March 31 (CP)— Composition of the senior circuit and details in connection with operation of minor teams are expected to provide the main points of discussion at the semi-annual meeting of the Intercounty Baseball League here today.

Windsor is again expected to make a bid for a franchise in the senior loop with Hamilton a doubtful starter. Windsor applied for a franchise last year but were turned down when other clubs objected to the long trip to the border city. Other clubs regarded as sure starters are Kitchener Waterloo, Galt Brantford, Stratford, London and Guelph.

OTTAWA, WINDSOR IN FINAL

Toronto, March 31 (CP)— Ottawa Glebe and Windsor Patterson Collegiates clash here tonight for the Ontario Senior High School basketball championship after two days of hard battling in preliminary games.

In semi-final contests last night Windsor trounced Toronto Western Technical School 54-45 after Ottawa had edged Sudbury High School 50-48.

Coupled with tomorrow's Windsor-Toronto game is a consolation tilt between the two losers, Western Tech and Sudbury High School.

Rangers Secure Even Split With Detroit Red Wings

New York, March 31 — (CP)— That wizard guesser Frank Boucher probably is revising his choice of Boston Bruins as Stanley Cup favorites in the light of the sparkling display last night of his own New York Rangers.

The underdog Rangers tossed aside Detroit Red Wings 3-1 to even the best-of-seven series at two games each.

Claude (Chuck) Rayner stopped 31 shots of the outplayed Detroit team which took the first two games of the National Hockey League post - season play 2-1 and 5-2 and then toppled 2-1 last Sunday.

Stretching their unbeaten record in home playoff games against Detroit to five, the Rangers forced Harry Lumley to make 20 saves as they overcame a one-goal deficit marked up in the first period by goal-hot Jimmy McFadden. The rookie centre scored his third goal and fifth point of the series on the poke shot.

Boucher hit the mark in a pre-season prognostication on how the N. H. L. teams would place in the season play.

Score Two in 34 Seconds

Rangers came to life in the second period last night and notched two markers within 34 seconds.

Bryan Hextall tied the score at 10:07 on a 25-foot drive with Phil Watson and Buddy O'Connor setting up the play. Then Ed Kullman drifted in on Lumley and his 10-foot shot found the mark.

Ted Lindsay was languishing in the cooler for tripping when Hextall scored and had been on the ice only six seconds when Kullman tallied what proved to be the winning marker. That was the costliest of the seven penalties handed out.

A centre - ice pass from rookie Fred Shero shot Tony Leswick into the clear for the clinching goal of the third period. The scrappy left winger scored his second goal and fifth point of the series when he pushed the puck under Lumley.

Lineups:

Detroit — Goal, Lumley; defence, Quackenbush, Stewart; centre, Abel; wings, Howe, Lindsay;; subs, Reise, Gauthier, Horeck, Sclisizzi, McFadden, D. Morrison, Conacher, Pavelich, Kelly, R. Morrison.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Bridge partners come in all sizes and grades. Unless they have good hands, some ignore your wishes while feeling sorry for themselves. Others make the most of what they get.

Even with a poor hand you may have just what the doctor ordered. It may be just what partner is looking for. Concentrate on giving him the information he may need.

Suppose your partner starts with an opening of four diamonds. He is telling you that he has a long and practically solid suit of at lease seven cards. Also that he has a sure outside trick.

He is asking you to bid five diamonds unless you have help for a slam. What is help for a slam in a case like this? Two sure tricks in your responding hand; two aces, or A K, or ace and K Q.

If you have two sure, what do you do? Bid anything but five diamonds. Because a response of five diamonds is a denial of two sure tricks. It discourages slam intentions.

With two sure, how do you select your bid? Follow the order in T-A-N; takeout, assist, no-trump. Only avoid an assist to five diamonds. Anything other than five diamonds shows two sure.

If you takeout, you must have a biddable suit. If you bid four no-trump, it is the ace and king convention. For this you must have two aces and a king. If you assist, bid six instead of five diamonds.

You have this hand:

♠A 10 6 5 4
♥A 10 6 3
♦9 4
♣9 3

Your two aces are two sure. Your spade suit is biddable. Your first response to four diamonds is four spades. Not because you like spades. It is because you signal two sure tricks.

Partner may desire to go digging for slam from there. That is up to him. If not, he will at least bid five diamonds. As partner's mate, co-operate.

Hollywood, March 31 (AP)—Olivia DeHaviland, who is eager to star in "Romeo and Juliet" on Broadway, seeks Michael Redgrave to appear with her.

HANDFUL OF STARS

By Margaret Gorman Nichols

"And when you were in Boston at Christmastime with Troy. I know that and forgave that, too, Jefff. And you spent it on parties to which I was not invited. . . ."

"Troy paid my way down here!" He stiffened. "She's done more for me than any one has ever done for me!"

Troy had paid his way down! The flame in Lyle's face knidled again.

"You can say she's done more for you because she's made what she's done very obvious! But you don't know that the night you were so ill, I had to go to Stephen for help. He paid the doctor and Bill. And that's not all. Why should you need help? Why must you always have some one to lean on and depend upon? You couldn't find a job yourself. Stephen got you your job."

His eyes narrowed. "You've done a little plotting and scheming yourself, haven't you?"

She bit into her lip. "I loved you. I wanted to help you. You were doing nothing to help yourself." She shook her head slowly and her eyes were clean and calm. "But I don't love you any more, Jeff. There's nothing left. I don't feel anything for you except contempt. But perhaps I am a little sorry for you. . . ."

He gave a short laugh. "You don't have to feel sorry for me! You've had your say. Now I'll have mine. Troy and I are married. We were married a little more than two weeks ago, secretly. Her aunt Kit didn't know until tonight. . . ."

"And when did you propose to tell me? That's why you didn't write. That's why you didn't go to see my mother, isn't it? I see now. You forgot all about me, didn't you Jeff, when you came down here and life was luxurious and amusing and Troy was here in love with you? Jeff, you disintegrated from idleness. And you disintegrated from too much pleasure and luxury to the point of marrying one girl while you were engaged to another.

"I've been ashamed that I rushed down here. Now I'm glad. How your conscience must have been troubling you—if you have a conscience. She smiled. "Now I know what gave you the courage to face me. It's because Troy is a very rich girl and all she has is your. You have everything your way now, Jeff."

His anger was gone. He nodded. "My conscience has been killing me. Lyle. . . ."

"You don't have to say anything. I understand you completely. And I believe, if you're careful, that you and Troy will make a happy life together, just playing. You were meant for a life like that. She has an idol of you in her mind, too, Jeff. Don't let the polish come off. Don't let it fall into little pieces at her feet. I told you once that she was still in love with you. Remember? I don't know very much about her but I think she must be in love with you. I think she wanted you terribly all along."

He extinguished the cigarette with the toe of his white shoe. Then slowly he looked at her. Again, as she had many times before, she made him feel weak and small and second-rate. He knew what he had done to her was unforgivable. Troy had stopped in to see him when he's been ill in New York and said, "What you need is Florida, Jeff. I'm going down. I'll be glad to let you have the money." He had seized the opportunity eagerly. She had met him and they had been together constantly. After two weeks of parties Lyle had been a vague figure in his mind. Some one out of an unpleasant past. And he had found himself utterly absorbed in Troy who did not make him feel weak and small and second-rate but charming and popular and almost important. Then Troy had said, "why don't you move in with Kit and me? There's lots of room."

After an evening on a friend's yacht Troy had clung to him and asked, "Jeff, why won't you ask me to marry you? You know I love you, that I haven't stopped loving you. I could do so much for you, darling." It was then that he had asked her to marry him. The next day they motored to a small town and were married. And since that day his conscience had been an accuser that had stalked beside him every moment. . . . He had thought, "I'll write to Lyle and tell her." He had not opened her last three letters. Then he'd thought. "No, I'll wait until I get to New York." And tonight when Kit had said that Stephen was bringing Lyle to him, he had braced himself to meet her.

Troy was upstairs. He had left her crying. She had clung to him again, saying, "I'm jealous of her! Jeff, don't leave me and go back to her!"

Lyle took a step back. "Good-bye, Jeff and good luck. . . . ."

His eyes were unhappy. "I suppose all your life you'll think I'm the lowest form of man."

She shook her head. "You can't help being—you. And I do wish you luck and happiness. Always go on being the man Troy wanted terribly, Jeff. Good-bye."

Stephen arose when Lyle returned to the drawing-room and stood at the entrance. His eyes narrowed to see what toll Jeff's announcement of his marriage had taken. Her eyes told him nothing.

He thought, "You'll cry this out alone! This is the worst thing that's ever happened to you. Is there anything that hurts a girl more than to hear that the man she loves is married to another girl? Because you love Jeff. You love him now and always."

Kit Askew went to Lyle and spoke kindly. "My dear, I didn't know until tonight that Troy and Jeff were married. Had I, I should have insisted on an announcement. This is very. . . ."

Lyle said, "I'm all right. I'm quite all right." And to Stephen, "Let's be going." They felt so sorry for her! They did not know that she had come to the end of loving Jeff days ago!

They were silent as Stephen drove her to her aunt's house. But on the steps he said, "Don't go back to New York yet, Lyle." New York was haunted with places she had been with Jeff, places where she had been happy with him. "I'm staying down two weeks. Stay. I'm sure we'll find amusing things to do." He smiled. "I'll make a bargain with you. If you'll stay, I'll see what I can do about your going to Paris. Is it a bargain?"

She nodded. "It is!"

* * *

Stephen and Lyle were sitting with cool drinks at a slender green table beneath a gay beach umbrella on the terrace of the hotel where he was staying. Over dark bathing trunks Stephen, very sunburned, wore a heavy white robe. Lyle wore a blue bathing suit and white sandals tied around her ankles.

He smiled. "We'll have to hurry if we're going to get to the track for the first race. And, incidentally, remind me about your going to Paris sometime."

She looked at him over the rim of the green glass. "Tell me now."

There had been neither a dull nor a free moment since Stephen came. Several times a day his car paused briefly before her aunt's house and Lyle came out dressed for swimming or luncheon or dancing. Was he filling every moment so that she would have no time to think of Jeff? She thought, "It's either that or he asks me because he doesn't know any other girls down here. I've tried to tell him several times I'm not in love with Jeff any more but each time he stops me. He won't let me talk about Jeff."

"Not now. Look at the time! We've just got time to get there for the first race. Know anything about horses, Lyle?"

"I won't be any help to you. I've been to the races only twice in my life and each time I bet on horses with names I liked and — came away poorer." She put down the glass and leaned forward. "Stephen, I want. . . ."

Almost sternly he said, "No. Don't talk about it." Because he thought she was going to tell him how much she appreciated his kindness.

How brave she had been! No tears in her eyes but tears in her heart. And when he left her at night, he was certain that all through the warm night she lay awake, still aching for Jeff, still hurt beyond any hurt she had ever known.

Jeff was permanently out of their lives. But Lyle still loved his memory, Stephen believed, and would continue to live on it. Cretainly she did not love him, Stephen. And he did not want her to grow fond of him—as one does a pair of comfortable shoes. Not a dreary, placid love. He had seen her eyes shining for Jeff, her face glowing. He had seen her when she was touching the stars— in loving Jeff. And he wanted her to feel like that for him! He wanted her to fall in love with him, suddenly and completely, and until he was certain that he was more to her than a tweed shoulder to go to sleep on, he would not speak.

"But Stephen. ." Why wouldn't he let her say it?

"Hurry up with your drink. I've a hunch we'll be lucky on the first race."

Lyle's mother was talking to Stephen when Lyle came into the living room. And when they left, Esther stood on the lawn near the flowers she loved and tended, and watched the maroon-colored car with her hand shading her eyes from the sun. Her feelings were a mixture of amusement and apprehension. "He's so much in love with her and he doesn't know how she feels. And if they aren't careful, if something doesn't happen to set off a spark, they'll lose each other."

There was a record-breaking crowd at the races. Lyle came away richer by a few dollars.

"Didn't I tell you we'd be lucky on the first race?" he asked as they walked to the car.

She looked up from under the brim of the green felt hat.

"You're nearly always right, Stephen." After they had been driving for some time, she said with a little sigh, "I've got to be going back to New York, to work. I'm not a vice-president. I'm going back day after tomorrow. Then I'll be at the store on Monday."

"Do you want to go back?" Keeping his eyes ahead but eager for each word. . . .

Her eyes were serious. "To work yes. But it will be different now, won't it? We've had so much fun, more fun than I've ever had. I haven't played so much since I was a child. You take your childhood play for granted. I'll begin a new life in New York. I think I'll take a small apartment of myown. Bonnie and Michael should have their home to themselves."

"Don't forget Paris." How he'd like to show her Paris! "You have a successful career ahead of you, Lyle. You have so much ahead of you." But he did not want a successful career and other loves ahead of her. He wanted to marry her and show her Paris and bring her back to the Connecticut house and come home to her at the end of the day. He wanted to sit in his favorite chair in the country house and look up the steps and know that any moment she'd be coming down to him—that she would never leave him. He wanted to lavish lovely things on her, and take her to lovely places. He wanted to give the stars to her!

"Dreams coming true," she said quietly. But success was not the most wisher for dream. To love; to be loved all the days of her life.

"If you're determined to go back day after tomorrow. . . ."

"Not even a vice-president can keep me." She was smiling, eyes looking up. "I've a stern sense of duty, I guess. I don't want Miss Renniman to think I've turned out to be a Miami playgirl. She was sweet about my coming. But if she knew I'd been playing with the vice-president. . . ."

"She'd get a kick out of it. That's the kind of gal she is. Very well, if you must go. We'll celebrate tonight and tomorrow night. . . ." He frowned suddenly. "No, not tomorrow night, I'm afraid. If I'd known you were going back after tomorrow, I shouldn't have asked an old friend who happens to be staying at my hotel to dinner. We'll have to celebrate your departure tonight."

She felt a sting of disappointment. He wouldn't be with her tomorrow night, her last night. He'd be with another girl.

She asked, knowing she had no right to ask, "A girl?"

"A girl I thought I was in love with once," he said.

"Stephen, how do you know when you are really in love? How do you know when it's real and true and beautiful? How do you know it's the kind that will wear and endure?"

He did not speak for a moment. Then he said, "There are few people who at some time or another don't make a mistake in love. You're lucky if you guess right—the first time. Just plain lucky. People have flaws and lacks but occasionally there are two people who are perfect for each other." Jeff had been wrong for Lyle and right for Troy, he believed. You are perfect for me, he thought, and I could be perfect for you. . . .

He left her, saying, "Be back at eight." And he wanted to tell her to wear the silver dress because she was so lovely in it and because the night she had worn it last he had known he loved her.

It was before eight when Stephen came that evening. Lyle found him in the living-room talking to her mother and Aunt Leila. And she was wearing the silver dress. . . .

Again Esther Marsh saw them walk down the path together to his car. Jeff Conway had given Lyle only ardent words and kisses, she thought. Stephen's love was strong and silent and true. Jeff was shadow. Stephen was steel.

He took her to a hotel dining-room where a famous orchestra was playing. And when the waiter went away with their order, he asked her to dance.

And Lyle felt that she was dancing in enchantment because he didn't speak and in the silence between tem, with the sweet music around them, she felt magic in his touch. All at once she was afraid to speak. Say something light and gay? She couldn't! The vivid, beautiful dresses on dancing wome nwere blurred. Don't let the music stop, ever! Don't let this new enchantment end!

But the music stopped and the people scatterede.

Then Lyle saw a lovely blonde girl in a graceful green dress pause on the floor and smile at Stephen. There was a young man with her.

"Hello, Stephen," the girl said. "We meet again."

There were introductions. The girl was Gwynne Henley. And Lyle knew, walking back to the table, that Gwynne Henley was the girl Stephen was taking to dinner tomorrow night. And she couldn't bear it! Cold hands were on her heart again. She couldn't bear to go back to New York and leave Stephen in Miami, seeing that lovely girl every day. . . .

Because Lyle had known during the enchanted moments while they had been enclosed in soft, sweet music, had known in a startling flash that weakened her, that she was in love with Stephen. But, no, she couldn't be! You couldn't fall out of love and in love again so quickly. And her jealousy of the girl she had just met shamed her.

Stephen lighted a cigarette. "You're lovely tonight, Lyle. I like that dress. I've an interest in that particular dress. Hungry? You shouldn't be after, what was it now, hot dogs and peanuts at the races. . . ."

FEWER DEER KILLED

Fredericton — (CP) — Total number of New Brunswick deer killed in 1947 was 2,789, compared with 2,870 in 1946. Lands Minister R. J. Gill attributes the drop to extremely dry weather and to hunting days lost by reason of forest fires.

J.F. Pringle Named Vice-Pres. Of C.N. Railways at Toronto; Other Senior Changes Made

Montreal, March 31 (CP)—Retirement of W. R. Devenish, Vice-President of Canadian National Railways Western Division with headquarters at Winnipeg, and his replacement by J. P. Johnson, formerly Vice-President and General Manager of the Atlantic Region at Moncton, N.B., was announced today in a list of senior C.N.R. administrative changes.

Mr. Johnson, four years in the Moncton post, will be succeeded by W. E. Robinson who has been Central Region Assistant General Manager at Toronto.

Study Questions Of Manpower, Defence in Future

By ELTON C. FAY

Washington, March 31 — (AP) — The 3,600,000 men who would register under the proposed modified United States draft would represent only a tiny corporal's guard compared with the total mobilization that may be sought if a war comes.

The program is in only the early study stage, but manpower experts of the National Security Resources Board are directing their thinking at all-out registration of American adult population in event of a future conflict.

A spokesman for the board created last year under the army-navy unification law recalled today that Chairman Arthur M. Hill has said:

"In making out preparations for defence in the future, failure to work out policies governing in detail the use of our total manpower — and that includes women with the men — may well mean the sacrifice of time and lives."

Hill was referring to the use of manpower in a total war effort, of which conscription for military service would be only a phase.

The first steps toward having a total mobilization plan ready include setting up systems for recording the technical and labor skills of all men and women.

However, the Board spokesman noted that any country-wide registration of all manpower would be possible only by an act of Congress and presumably only in event of imminent or actual war.

May Withdraw 'Sales'

Meanwhile it was learned that the United States government soon may take the "for sale" sign off more of its wartime munitions plants.

The War Assets Administration is expecting orders this week to withdraw from the surplus market a new group of powder and ordnance works, government officials reported privately today. Ten were withdrawn March 20.

A W. A. A. spokesman said the agency could halt "within 24 hours" the process of selling and dismantling military camps.

The Munitions Board is expected to send new stop-orders "later this week" suspending the sale of ordnance plants, it was learned. Also, the Board soon will start questioning the owners of 11,000 civilian factories to determine what military items they can produce in case of emergency.

TOLD TOWN DID NOT WANT PUBLICITY ON FLOOD

Montreal, March 31 (CP) — A Gazette reporter and photographer were taken to the police station at LaPrairie, across the St. Lawrence from Montreal, yesterday when they went to take pictures of the flood waters which covered a vast area on the southern bank of the river. Before being released, the Gazette men were told by Mayor Patrick McGee that "the town of LaPrairie does not want any publicity on this flood."

14 LEFT HOMELESS

Moncton, N. B., March 31 — (CP) — An early morning fire in a two-storey tenement in midtown High Street here today left 14 persons homeless and caused damage estimated at $20,000.

Inspect Don Jail Cellar to Attic

Toronto, March 31 — (CP) — The Don jail has been inspected from cellar to attic for prison-breaking devices.

Word of the search caused excitement here yesterday when coupled with rumors of a plot to free Max Beaver, awaiting transfer to penitentiary to serve a 4-year term for illegal possession of drugs.

Walter Rayfield, V. C., jail governor, said last night the search turned up no files, saws or other devices dear to the break-out fraternity. Nor did he know of any projected liberation of Beaver.

At the time of his arrest, Beaver was described as a leader in Toronto's underworld narcotics traffic.
